A survey of the glass industry in West Bengal clearly indicates that it has not as yet reached that perfection which may totally dispense with foreign import. It shall be the duty of the workers to speed up production so that the prices of finished goods are cheap enough to exclude foreign import, and at the same time to improve the quality so that the finished goods of this province may stand comparison with imported foreign goods. We may increase the wages of workers without regard to the quality and quantity of production, but this will not benefit the workers in the long run. To secure a lasting benefit, the workers should strain themselves to improve the quality and quantity of production. This will bring in improvement in the service condition as a matter of course. Linking increments with production has a salutary effect both on the workers and on the industry. Any scheme of automatic increments is likely to encourage lethargy and indolence but as no materials have been placed before me to enable me to work out a scheme for linking wages and increments with production, I shall have to lay down a scheme of periodical increment. To counteract the evil effect of such a scheme I propose to place some efficiency bars.

Because of the fact that price of glass products must be kept under control with a view to compete with imported goods the wages of workers in glass industry are not always according to the accepted concepts of minimum wage and fair wage. According to the experts' estimate Rs. 30 is considered as the minimum basic wage of an unskilled worker and Rs. 30 as dearness allowance at a cost of living index 300 to 310. The wage must be fixed against the background of an economic condition of the country and the industry as a whole, and prevailing rates of wages for comparable occupation of the locality. The cost of living have abnormally gone up. This affords only an external standard for fixing minimum wage, but in practice, this is tempered by other considerations which should form the background. The idea is that in view of the low national income per capita each and every man should make some sacrifice. It may also be remembered that every rise in cost of living index cannot be compensated by an industry which produces goods of human necessity. The test is how far the industry has been benefited by the rise.

I have discussed the economic position of the industry as a whole in relation to foreign competition. I append to this award a comparative chart of the total emoluments for workers of all categories employed by the present and some other glass factories. This is Annexure A.

Considering all these facts I lay down the following grades and scales:—

Fitter	Rs. 85 (fixed) ..
Blacksmith ..	Rs. 60 (fixed) ..
Helper	Rs. 1-9 per day—As. 1-6—Rs. 1-15 per day.

I do not award any separate dearness allowance. The new scales shall come into effect from the date when the award comes into force and the year for the next increment shall be counted from that date.

Point No. 3.—Bonus.

I have substantially raised the wages of the workers. The workers should wait and see how these increments react on the financial resources of the industry. To add to the burden likely to be increased by the increment in wages, a scheme of Contributory Provident Fund will also be introduced. This will also add to the existing burden. Considering all these facts and circumstances I do not propose to enlarge upon the existing practice of the Company about bonus. The existing practice shall continue.

Point No. 4.—Retiring benefit.

I direct that a Contributory Provident Fund shall immediately be started with contribution on either side equivalent to 6¼ per cent. of the monthly wages of the permanent workers. I recommend that the rule shall conform to the Model Rules framed by the Government for industrial workers as far as possible. For the period anterior to the institution of a Provident Fund as directed the worker shall get as gratuity half month's wages for every completed year of service subject to a maximum of 15 months. For calculation, the wages just before enforcement of this award shall be the basis. This shall be paid to the workers in the same way as the employers' contribution to the Provident Fund are payable according to the Model Rules framed by the Government, and shall be payable with the Provident Fund money, provided such Provident Fund is started before the service of any particular employee is terminated by retirement, death, ill-health, retrenchment, resignation or otherwise. In case of voluntary resignation except on the ground of health the qualifying service for such gratuity shall be 15 years.

Point No. 5.—Leave.

Privilege leave as prescribed by the Factories Act.

Festival and National holidays.—Eight days in a year to be selected in consultation with the Union.

Casual leave.—Five days in a year, non-cumulative.

Sick leave.—Fourteen days for each year of service cumulative up to 6 months in the entire service. Sick leave shall be granted on production of medical certificate from a registered medical practitioner. If the Company has any reason to suspect this certificate, it will be at liberty to satisfy itself about the illness of a particular worker by having the worker examined by its own doctor.

Points Nos. 6 to 8.—Maternity benefit, cheap canteen and arrangements of drinking water, latrine and washing.

The Company are directed to strictly follow the provisions of the Maternity Benefit Act and the Indian Factories Act on these matters.

Point No. 9.—Medical facilities.

The Company have some arrangements. I do not propose to enlarge upon such arrangements except that whenever any worker is injured while working or contacts any illness peculiar to the industry, the Company shall arrange for the treatment of such a worker and shall pay the entire cost of his treatment.

Point No. 10.—Free quarters.

The Company have some godowns and pucca rooms which the workers may use on payment of proper and usual rent. It has been settled that the responsibility for housing all workmen in urban areas cannot be left to the employers only, and that the problem may be successfully tackled only by the collective efforts of the Government and the employers. A substantial burden has been cast upon the financial resources of the Company by the increment of wages and by introduction of a scheme of retiring benefits. I do not propose, in the interests of the industry, to add further burdens. The Union's demand on this point is accordingly rejected.

Point No. 11.—Service conditions—(a) Appointment, (b) Permanency, (c) Involuntary unemployment, (d) Retrenchment and dismissal.

(a) Appointment.

The demand of the Union is that every appointment shall be made in consultation with the Union. This demand is rejected. The employers shall be the sole judge to decide whether the qualification of a particular worker will satisfy their requirements.

(b) Permanency.

All workers shall be on probation for six months in the first instance. They shall be confirmed after six months' probation, provided they are found fit by the employers. If found unfit, the period of probation may be extended, provided both employers and the workers concerned agree.

(c) Involuntary unemployment.

I lay down the following Rules:—

(1) Compensation shall be paid to workmen for short time involuntary unemployment due to stoppage of work beyond the employers' control, except where closures of factories or of department are due to special Government orders, and where closures have been made with adequate notices to the workers.

(2) Such compensation shall be 50 per cent. of the basic wages and dearness allowance of the daily workers laid off.

(3) In the case of a piece-rater, the rate of wages should be taken to be the average wages of the preceding seven days during which the worker actually worked.

(4) The duration of the benefits should be one month in each half year from January to June and July to December respectively.

(5) The involuntary unemployment benefit will not qualify the worker for bonuses determined by reference to earnings for the period.

(6) Workers liable to be retrenched on account of closures of a department for bona fide trade reasons but laid off by agreement only to be absorbed in another department shall not be entitled to any benefit under this rule.

(7) The period of such involuntary unemployment shall not be considered as a break in the service. Past services of the workers shall be taken into account, the period of unemployment being considered as leave.

This rule is considered as sufficient compensation for those workers who although liable to be retrenched on account of closure of a department are laid off only for a short period to be absorbed in some other departments.

(8) To qualify for the benefit a worker must answer to a Muster Roll once a day at his usual place of his employment, or with the permission of the employers at any other place.

(9) A worker will be ineligible for the benefit if he unreasonably refuses work even of a different sort in his usual factory or by transfer from one department to another in the same undertakings.

(10) The scheme will not affect the right of the employer to discharge a worker, or the right of the employee to discharge himself with due notice according to law and the prevailing rules of service.

(d) Retrenchment and dismissal.

I lay down the following rules:—

(1) A written charge shall be framed against the employee in fault and it shall be handed over to him specifying the facts on which the charge is based in good time to enable him to prepare his defence.

(2) Then a date shall be fixed for enquiry sufficiently ahead with due notice to the employee concerned. An opportunity should be given to him to defend himself either by himself or by an official of the Union or by a bona fide lawyer. He should be given facilities to examine and cross-examine the witnesses.

(3) If the charge is disproved, no punishment shall be inflicted upon him except where the enquiring officer entertains a grave doubt about the honesty of the worker in which case he may be warned or discharged with usual notice and with usual compensation. If the charge is proved the employee shall be given such punishment as the offence proved justifies.

(4) The employee concerned may appeal against the recommendation of the head of the department who holds the enquiry both on merit and punishment to the local head, who shall pass the final orders after hearing the employee concerned, and examining the materials on the record. In all cases of punishment previous record if any and other extenuating circumstances shall be taken into account.

(5) Before an employee is awarded extreme punishment of dismissal, the employers should consider whether a lighter punishment would have been sufficient in the circumstances of the case.

In case of grave misconduct and dishonesty affecting the interests of the industry, an employee may be suspended pending enquiry; but in no case before the specific charge is framed against him in writing. If he is exonerated of the charge, he shall be reinstated with full wages and other benefits he would have been entitled to during the period of suspension.

In matters of bona fide retrenchment "last come first go" shall be the usual rule. Deviation from this accepted principle is permissible in consideration of comparative efficiency of the employees, their conduct and other factors. The Union demands that there should not be any retrenchment. It has not disputed the sufficiency of the notice or compensation which the Companies allow to a retrenched worker. Retrenchment is a necessary incident of all industries and for bona fide trade reasons when retrenchment is called for, Tribunals should not interfere, for any such interference may lead to irremediable loss to the industry, and may ultimately affect the whole body of workers. The Standing Orders shall be amended in the light of the directions given in this award on different points.

At the time of fresh appointments, retrenched employees shall get the first preference, other things being equal. It must be noted that in re-employing retrenched employees it is only efficiency and ability that counts and not the principle "last come first go".

ANNEXURE.

In the matter of an industrial dispute between the Management of the Grand Hotel, Chowringhee Road, Calcutta, and their employees represented by the Grand Hotel Employees' Union of 26, Neogipukur Lane, Calcutta.

PRESENT:

SRI P. R. MUKHERJEE, Chairman, Industrial Tribunal.

For the Company: Sri G. P. Kar, Bar.-at-Law, instructed by Sri M. L. Jhunjhunwala.

For the Union: Sri J. Pandey, Secretary of the Union.

AWARD.

This dispute was originally referred to Sri S. K. Sen, I.C.S., whose services being no longer available it had been referred to Sri S. K. Halder, I.C.S., for adjudication. The services of Sri S. K. Halder also being no longer available, the dispute was referred to me for adjudication by the Government of West Bengal by an order No. 4608Lab., dated Calcutta, the 10th September 1949.

The case of the Union is that the Company is about 50 years old and is a prosperous one. In 1947 more than 50 per cent. of the workers (senior staff and junior staff) were retrenched and very strong sense of discontent as regards the terms and condition of service prevailed when the workers started Union for collective bargaining. The Company, it is alleged, did not look upon the birth of the Union with favour and tried to handicap the workers in many ways.

The Union on 1st July 1948 formulated a charter of demands. The Company according to Union started victimisation and is maintaining unsympathetic and vindictive attitude towards the workers. The Union prays for recognition of the Union, security of service, fixation of scale of pay, gradation, dearness allowance, city allowance and other privileges.

The Management in reply states that until the second world war started, the business of Grand Hotel was a losing concern. The business of the Grand Hotel being hotel business, the income thereof was always fluctuating.

Regarding discharge of workers, the Management states that after the end of the great war and with the departure of Military Officers, business of Grand Hotel started falling gradually. So at the end of the year 1947 it was decided to retrench the staff over and above the usual seasonal retrenchment that takes place every year.

Regarding scales of pay and emoluments the Management submits that each member of the junior staff, i.e., butlers, boys, sweepers, bearers get all their meals of the day free of cost; over and above the members of the junior staff get heavy tips. The junior staff are also housed within the hotel compound and the durwans get residential quarters at Mott Lane.

ISSUES.

1. Existence of an industrial dispute between the Management of the Grand Hotel and its employees and jurisdiction of the Tribunal to go into the demands raised by the Union's written statement.
2. Recognition of the Grand Hotel Employees' Union.
3. Conditions of service—
   (a) Probationary period.
   (b) Mode of discharge, retrenchment, dismissal or other punishment.
4. Minimum basic pay and scales of pay for different categories of workers.
5. Dearness allowance for different categories of workers.
6. (a) Free quarters or house rent allowance.
   (b) City allowance.
   (c) Night allowance.
   (d) Distribution of service or tip-charges.
7. Retiring benefits—Contributory Provident Fund, gratuity, pension.
8. Compensatory bonus for war years and general annual bonus.
9. Leave and holidays.
10. Working hours and overtime: break duty system.
11. Medical facilities.
12. Other amenities—
    (a) Free tiffin and meals during duty hours.
    (b) Education allowance for children and for technical training of diligent workers.
    (c) Rest and recreation centres.
    (d) Provision of urinals and lavatory for workers.
13. Reinstatement of the workmen mentioned in paragraphs 11, 14, 23, 24, 25 of Union's written statement.
14. Condonation of break of service of D. B. Dutta.

Issue No. 1.—Existence of an industrial dispute between the Management of the Grand Hotel and its employees and jurisdiction of the Tribunal to go into the demands raised by the Union's written statement.

On the contention of the Management, that the Tribunal has no jurisdiction to adjudicate disputes of the hotel employees, the matter went up to the Hon'ble High Court which decided that the Tribunal has full jurisdiction to entertain a dispute amongst hotel employees. So the issue is answered accordingly.

Issue No. 2.—Recognition of the Grand Hotel Employees' Union.

The prayer for recognition of a Union is strictly speaking not an industrial dispute. It has been held by almost all the Calcutta Tribunals that this is not an industrial dispute.

Issue No. 3.—Conditions of service—(a) Probationary period, (b) Mode of discharge, retrenchment, dismissal or other punishment.

It was urged by the Union that an employee is to be made permanent after 3 months' employment. The Union also wanted some rules to be framed. On hearing both the parties I order that the Management should maintain a panel of temporary workers who should be on probation for 3 months and be absorbed in permanent vacancy only (1) if his service is satisfactory and (2) if there is vacancy in the same cadre. This rule shall not apply to the employees who work on daily basis.

Regarding discharge, dismissal and other punishment the Management should hand over a copy of the charge to a delinquent employee and ask him to explain the conduct and give an opportunity to defend him before disciplinary action is taken. In case of first offence of light nature ordinarily a strong warning or fine may be resorted. Dismissals should be made in case of offences involving serious moral turpitude or gross insubordination.

Issues Nos. 4 and 5.—Minimum basic pay and scales of pay for different categories of workers and dearness allowance for different categories of workers.

I divide the workers under the following categories:—

Unskilled.

Helper, Helper in Kitchen, Pantryman, Utensil Cleaner, Rice Picker, Kalaighar, Waiter, Trolly-boy, Telegu Boy, Bar Cooly, Guide, Store Cooly, Mosalchi, L. P. Waiter, Bearer, Assistant Butler, Sweeper, Bell Boy, Porter, Durwan.

Semi-skilled.

Butler, Staff Cook, Barman, Bank Durwan, Liftman, Boiler Cooly, Assistant Mistri, Boiler-man, Mason, Washerman.

Skilled.

Cook, Confectionery Assistant, Ice Factory Mistri, Tailor, Sorter, Ironer, Couch Mistri, Electric Mate, Pump Attendant, Pipe and Gas Attendant, Carpenter, Raj Mistry, Key Maker, Head Mistri, Key Mistri, Pipe Attendant, Washing Hydro-machineman, Calendar Machineman.

I suppose the list is exhaustive, but if any class of workers is left out, the Management will classify under one of the three heads according to the nature of the job, and also with reference to the award given in the case of the Great Eastern Hotel as far as possible. I fix the following scales of pay for the different categories.

Unskilled—Rs. 30—1—35.

Semi-skilled—Rs. 35—1—50.

Skilled—Rs. 50—1—81.

Dearness allowance shall be Rs. 30 in each and all of the above categories. If there be any employee who is below 16 years of age, he shall get 75 per cent. of the basic salary of the above grades and 75 per cent. of the dearness allowance.

The Company in some case allow both the meals and in some case allow one meal. I assess the value of each principal meal at Rs. 12-8. The value of two principal meals would be Rs. 25. It is further provided in the award that both the employers and the employees will have option to pay or demand the dearness allowance in cash in lieu of meals supplied by the Management.

In hotels, the practice of tips is prevalent and the Company in their statement submitted to me the amount of tips received by each employee. The tips are of two kinds—those that are paid by the Company to the workers after realising the sum from customers and those received direct from customers by the employees. So far as the amount of tips shown to have been received direct from the customers is concerned, and as shown in the schedule the Union objected to the amount saying that the amount is exaggerated. I had been to the hotel and verified on examining some dozen attendants on the spot. It was a mid-day and I found that almost all the workers had already by that time earned no less than Re. 1 and in some cases they had already pocketed amount varying from Rs. 2 to Rs. 3. So far as the workers of Palm Court, Casánova and Princes Restaurant within the hotel are concerned, they stated that they earned on the average Rs. 2 to Rs. 6 per night. The statement shown by the Company is, therefore, accepted as true, as in my opinion the value of tips shown in the schedule is easily the minimum and not maximum.

I direct that from the amount of dearness allowance fixed by me deduction should be made of the value of meals as also of the amount shown as earned as tips. After making this deduction surpluses if any shall be paid as cash dearness allowance. If it appears that the value of meals and tips exceed Rs. 30 then no dearness allowance should be paid, and the excess amount will be treated as extra allowance rather than basic pay. It is further awarded that in no case the total emolument as shown under the annexure A shall be reduced by the Management.

It is to be noted that for the purpose of gratuity and Provident Fund, maximum amount of salary as per grade shown under heads skilled, semi-skilled and unskilled should be standard even if the amount be in excess on account of addition of tips.

Issue No. 6.—(a) Free quarters or house rent allowance, (b) city allowance, (c) night allowance, and (d) distribution of service or tip-charges.

The Union demanded free quarters or house rent at the rate of 15 per cent. of the pay or Rs. 50. The Management provides quarters for the junior staff as well as for watch and ward department and with regard to senior staff, the working hours have been so arranged that there is no necessity for making any provision for quarters and the Management tells that matters have been taken into consideration while making the basic salary of the senior staff. The employees of the lower grade get free boarding and lodging. They also get medical facilities and get bonus. The claim for these allowances is not justified and as such rejected.

The tips collected by the Management are proportionately distributed amongst the employees. Regarding distribution of service or tip charges, I am not inclined to make any order.

Issue No. 7.—Retiring benefits—Contributory Provident Fund, Gratuity and Pension.

It is now well settled that one kind of retiring benefit may be allowed. I understand that with regard to the senior staff the Management has started in July, 1949, a scheme of Provident Fund. With regard to junior staff the Management states that the very nature of hotel business and seasonal fluctuations of employment resulting in termination of employment makes it impossible to run a Provident Fund. There is obviously some difficulty in introducing Provident Fund amongst hotel employees of the lower grade for it has its slack season when many of the employees are not wanted and they of their own accord go on leave by rotation and the workers themselves decide which of the particular worker will go on such rotation leave. After the workers who have been on rotation leave rejoin the next batch of workers who will go on rotation leave will be selected by the workers themselves. So it is not possible to order introduction of Provident Fund. Moreover there are employees on daily rates in some departments the number whereof also varies from time to time. So in a hotel we have got a floating number of employees and if Provident Fund is to be introduced according to the principle of justice and equity these people must necessarily be excluded. This is likely to create great discontent and discord. So instead of bringing industrial peace it will prove a veritable apple of discord. After giving the matter my best consideration I am of opinion that gratuity is the only kind of retiring benefit and that most profitably be introduced in this concern. Provision of the system of gratuity shall be as follows:—

(1) On retirement after continuous service for not less than fifteen years —Gratuity at the rate of half a month's basic wages for each completed year of service, subject to a maximum of fifteen months' basic wages.

(2) On retirement before completing fifteen years' service by reason of superannuation on medical grounds or owing to any other sufficient cause approved by the employer in this behalf—Gratuity at the rate of half a month's basic wages for each completed year of service.

(3) On death—Gratuity at the rate of half a month's basic wages for each completed year of service (payable to the employee's nominee or nominees or heirs), subject to a maximum of fifteen months' basic wages.

(4) The basis of calculating gratuity shall be the average basic wages, not including overtime wages or any allowances, bonuses or other benefits, during the last twelve months of service on full wages.

(5) No employee will be entitled to gratuity unless he puts in three years' continuous service.

Claim of pension or Provident Fund is therefore rejected.

Issue No. 8.—Compensatory bonus for war years and general annual bonus.

The Management gives annual bonus which is usually one month's basic salary. The Union demands 3 months' basic pay of the workers or 25 per cent. of gross profit whichever is higher. This claim is fantastic. The Management should continue to pay bonus to the tune of one month's basic salary and may grant more at its discretion. The claim for past bonus for war years is rejected.

Issue No. 9.—Leave and holidays.

With regard to this item on hearing both the parties I am inclined to introduce the same terms of my award in the case of Great Eastern Hotel which runs as follows:

"With regard to leave, the Management states that each employee is given 15 days' privilege leave, over and above the senior staff gets a further 15 days' sick leave on full pay. The Union demands (a) one month's privilege leave with full pay, (b) 15 days' casual leave with full pay, (c) 6 months' sick leave—3 months' with full pay and 3 months' with half pay, (d) all gazetted holidays, (e) half Saturday and full Sunday. Regarding gazetted holidays, half days on Saturday and full days on Sunday I must say that the prayer is rather fantastic, for a hotel business which calls for all-round services during the year cannot be managed if such leave is allowed. Regarding leave and holidays, I think the decision of the award of Mr. P. K. Sarkar in the case of Messrs. A. Firpo, Limited, may reasonably be adopted. I direct that all categories of staff should get 7 days' casual leave in a year with full pay; 15 days' privilege leave with full pay should be considered adequate and this should be allowed to be accumulated for two years. All categories of staff should get this privilege leave. For the factory staff, this will include the 10 days' holidays under the Factories Act. I further direct that the Company should grant 15 days' sick leave which is at present being enjoyed by the senior staff in a year on full pay to all categories of employees, and that such leave should be sanctioned on production of medical certificate either from the Medical Officer of the Company or from any other registered medical practitioner."

Issue No. 10.—Working hours and overtime: break duty system.

The Union demanded that the working hours on week days should be from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. including one hour's rest for tiffin and on Saturdays from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. without recess (for clerical staff of the general office). Working hours for others, e.g., clerical staff of other department and junior staff of all the departments should be 42 hours in a week having a break for a day and a half in each week.

On hearing both the parties I am inclined to hold that the working hours of all the employees of the hotel business cannot be regulated in the way suggested by the Union. I also find that the number of hours worked in the hotel is in no way excess to the hours of work allowed under the law.

The members of the junior staff have break duty in between breakfast, lunch and dinner of the residents or other customers. The duty amongst the members of the junior staff is thus arranged. They are to work from 6-30 a.m. to 9-30 a.m. and then from 12 noon to 2-30 p.m. and again from 6-30 p.m. to 10 p.m.

Some of the workmen are employed to do the night work and form a class by themselves and are paid higher basic salary than those who are employed during the day to do similar work. I do not like that there should be any change in the existing system.

Issue No. 11.—Medical facilities.

The Union demanded free medical advice and free medicines for the workers and their dependants at the expense of the Management.

The Management submits that they keep a part-time doctor for giving free medical assistance to the employees if and whenever necessary.

I do not think any further concession can be allowed.

Issue No. 12.—Other amenities—(a) Free tiffin and meals during duty hours, (b) education allowance for children and for technical training of diligent workers, (c) rest and recreation centres, and (d) provision of urinals and lavatory for workers.

The Union demanded free tiffin to all workers and square meals to the workers when they are on duty free of charge. In this hotel each member of the junior staff, i.e., butlers, boys, sweepers and bearers, etc., get all their meals of the day free of cost. This will appear from the menus which will show that besides principal meals, tea is given to the employees free of cost twice a day. Management will have option to give cash value in lieu of meals.

Education allowance for children and for technical training of diligent workers.

The Union demanded education allowance for the children of the poor employees and also provision for technical training for diligent workers. The prayer is rejected as it is a fantastic demand to ask a hotel to provide for these facilities which will impose heavy burden on the establishment.

Rest and recreation centres.

The Management has every sympathy for rest and recreation and welfare scheme and is willing to support the organisation of the employees for such centres. As space in the hotel is limited, it is not possible for the Management to arrange such a centre within the precincts of the hotel. I make no adjudication on the point but leave the matter to the discretion of the hotel authorities, who will, I hope, help the Union if they start any recreation centre.

Provision of urinals and lavatory for workers.

It was complained that the lavatory and urinal arrangement for the workers is insufficient. This point was not much pressed during hearing. The prayer is rejected.

Issue No. 13.—Reinstatement of the workmen mentioned in paragraphs 11, 14, 23, 24, 25 of Union's written statement.

At the time of the hearing only one T. Gomes, Jagadish Chandra Banik and Santosh Kumar Saha have been examined. Others did not come forward nor their case had been seriously pressed. I shall take up the case of each of these workers separately. According to the Union all of these workers were discharged for their Union activities. But the fact is not at all established. Mr. Brett, the General Manager, says that he does not know if there was any Union at all. Moreover except Jagadish none of these workers speaks anything about the Union activities. I shall first deal with the case of T. Gomes. He says he was in service for two years in staff kitchen and he was discharged without any charge-sheet or warning. The letter produced by him, however, shows that it was a case of retrenchment. From the evidence by Mr. Brett, General Manager, it is evident that the hotel which was more than fully occupied during the time of the last great war, was gradually losing customers since 1946 and they had to retrench the staff out of necessity. During the war, the Military Department of the Government of India requisitioned the hotel and this was staffed by Military Officers. Obviously after the great war the foreigners gradually sailed away and so the case of retrenchment prima facie is true. I see no reason to interfere in the case of Gomes.

Santosh Kumar Saha.

He says that he had been victimised for Union activity. He says that he was an active member of the Union but cannot say when the Union had been registered. The evidence of Mr. Brett, the General Manager, shows that the hotel was gradually losing customers and that the staff had to be retrenched out of necessity. I cannot believe that Saha had been dismissed for Union activity.

Jagadish Chandra Banik.

He says that he was all on a sudden discharged and he found the discharge notice on his table after he came back from lunch. He says that he had gone to the Manager with the charter of demands and that is the reason why he had been discharged. He also produces a certificate of good conduct from one Mr. Hahn. As against this the General Manager Mr. Brett on oath says that Jagadish used to come late every day and on several times he had been warned and later on transferred to the Accounts Department where he refused to go. Reading between the lines of evidence I am inclined to think that he had been discharged for misconduct. Regarding the certificate of good conduct Mr. Brett says that Mr. Hahn had got no authority on behalf of the Management to grant certificate and that it is only he, the General Manager, who can give the certificate of good conduct.

Issue No. 14.—Condonation of break of service of D. B. Dutta.

Regarding break of service of D. B. Dutta I leave the matter out of adjudication here as his case will be considered in the second reference of the Grand Hotel.

Fourth and Final Forecast of Wheat Crop of West Bengal for 1949-50.

[Note:—The estimates of areas and outturns of wheat for this year shown in this forecast have been based on the results of random sample survey conducted by the Indian Statistical Institute. As this survey does not include the whole of Darjeeling district, the acreages and outturns of this district have been estimated by the Directorate of Agriculture. The reports on the causes of increase or decrease of the acreage in the respective districts as communicated by the Agricultural Staff do not agree with the figures of the two years compared here, as the figures are derived from two different sources. As such no explanatory notes in that regard are given in the "Remarks column" of this forecast.]

Season:—Since the issue of the third forecast, drought has continued in the districts of Nadia, Murshidabad, Birbhum, Hooghly and Malda. In other districts the weather conditions have been generally favourable.

Area and Yield:—87,200 acres have been estimated to be under wheat this year compared to 87,900 acres reported respectively in the corresponding and final forecast of last year.

The yield of wheat per acre for the province as a whole is estimated at 6·35 maunds this year compared to 7·29 maunds last year.

Calculated on this basis, the total yield of the crop for the province works out to 20,300 tons this year compared to 23,500 tons last year.

ART IV—Bills introduced in the West Bengal Legislative Assembly, Reports of Select Committees presented or to be presented to that Assembly, and Bills published before introduction in that Assembly.

GOVERNMENT OF WEST BENGAL.

Legislative Department.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 1829L.—11th September, 1950.– The Governor having been pleased to order, under rule 48 of the West Bengal Legislative Assembly Procedure Rules, the publication of the following Bill, together with the Statement of Objects and Reasons which accompanies it, in the Calcutta Gazette, the Bill and the Statement of Objects and Reasons are accordingly hereby published for general information:—

THE BENGAL, AGRA AND ASSAM CIVIL COURTS (WEST BENGAL AMENDMENT) BILL, 1950.

A

further to amend the Bengal, Agra and Assam Civil Courts Act, 1887, in its application to West Bengal.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Bengal, Agra and Assam Civil Courts Act, 1887, in its application to West Bengal in the manner hereinafter appearing; XII of 1887.

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Bengal, Agra and Assam Civil Courts (West Bengal Amendment) Act, 1950.

(2) It extends to the whole of West Bengal.

(3) It shall come into force on such date as the State Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, appoint.

Application of Act.

2. The Bengal, Agra and Assam Civil Courts Act, 1887, hereinafter referred to as the said Act, shall, in its application to West Bengal, be amended in the manner hereinafter provided.

Amendment of section 19 of Act XII of 1887.

3. In section 19 of the said Act,—

(i) in sub-section (1), for the words "one thousand rupees" the words "two thousand rupees" shall be substituted; and

(ii) for sub-section (2) the following sub-section shall be substituted, namely:—

"(2) The State Government may, on the recommendation of the High Court, direct, by notification in the Official Gazette, with respect to any Munsif named therein that his jurisdiction shall extend to all like suits of such value not exceeding five thousand rupees as may be specified in the notification:

Provided that the State Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, delegate to the High Court its powers under this sub-section."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

This Government and the Calcutta High Court have been receiving representations frequently for the posting of Subordinate Judges at outlying sub-divisional stations on the ground that the value of suit lands has enormously increased and that, therefore, suits concerning property which could previously be filed before Munsifs cannot now be so filed. After consideration of this matter in consultation with the Calcutta High Court and the District Judges, Government are of the opinion that the remedy in view of the rise in land values is not the posting of Subordinate Judges at outlying stations but enhancing the limit of the pecuniary jurisdiction of Munsifs.

Under section 19 of the Bengal, Agra and Assam Civil Courts Act, 1887, the ordinary pecuniary jurisdiction of Munsifs is at present limited to suits up to the value of Rs. 1,000. Certain Munsifs may, however, be specially empowered to try suits up to the value of Rs. 2,000; in places where there are Courts of Subordinate Judges, the Munsifs may be vested with special jurisdiction up to Rs. 3,500. Government have decided that in view of the increase in the value of properties, the said section of the Bengal, Agra and Assam Civil Courts Act, 1887, should be amended suitably. Government consider that the ordinary pecuniary jurisdiction of Munsifs should be raised from Rs. 1,000 to Rs. 2,000 and the special jurisdiction of Munsifs should not be limited to those places only where there are Courts of Subordinate Judges but should be extended in suitable cases to any station and the limit of such special jurisdiction should be raised from Rs. 3,500 to Rs. 5,000.

The Bill has been drawn up in accordance with the above decision.

GOVERNMENT OF WEST BENGAL.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 1830L.—11th September, 1950.—The Governor having been pleased to order, under rule 48 of the West Bengal Legislative Assembly Procedure Rules, the publication of the following Bill, together with the Statement of Objects and Reasons which accompanies it, in the Calcutta Gazette, the Bill and the Statement of Objects and Reasons are accordingly hereby published for general information:—

THE CRIMINAL PROCEDURE (WEST BENGAL AMENDMENT) BILL, 1950.

A

BILL

further to amend the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, in its application to West Bengal.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, in its application to West Bengal, in the manner hereinafter appearing; Act V of 1898.

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title. 1. This Act may be called the Criminal Procedure (West Bengal Amendment) Act, 1950.

Application. 2. The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 (hereinafter referred to as the Code), shall, in its application to such parts of West Bengal as the State Government may from time to time by notification in the Official Gazette appoint, be amended in the manner hereinafter provided.

Amendment of section 196 of Act V of 1898. 3. In section 196 of the Code after the word and figures "section 127" the words, figures and letter "and section 171F so far as it relates to the offence of personation at an election" shall be inserted within the brackets.

Amendment of Schedule II. 4. In Schedule II to the Code,—

(a) in column two of the entry relating to section 171F of the Indian Penal Code, the words "and personation" shall be omitted; Act XLV of 1860.

(b) after the said entry so amended, the following shall be inserted, namely:—

"Personation at an election.	May arrest without warrant.	Ditto	Ditto	Ditto	Ditto	Ditto."

(c) in column three of the entry relating to section 171G of the Indian Penal Code, for the word "Ditto" the words "Shall not arrest without warrant" shall be substituted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Under section 171F of the Indian Penal Code, personation at an election is an offence punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one year or with fine or with both. According to Schedule II to the Criminal Procedure Code, 1898, a person charged with the offence cannot be arrested without a warrant, which means that a person detected at the polling booths when falsely personating a voter cannot be arrested on the spot, and as correct particulars about him may not be ascertained, he is likely to escape prosecution altogether. Even when correct particulars have been ascertained, and a complaint may be filed, there is the question of sanction; for, in view of section 196 of the Criminal Procedure Code, 1898, a Court cannot take cognizance of an offence under section 171F of the Indian Penal Code except under authority from the State Government. These provisions make it difficult to take action against false personators at elections. To obviate this difficulty Government have decided to amend section 196 and Schedule II to the Criminal Procedure Code, 1898, so that the offence under section 171F of the Indian Penal Code becomes cognizable, and prosecutions for the offence require no sanction.

The Bill has been drawn up in accordance with the above decision.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, in its application to West Bengal, in the manner hereinafter appearing; Act V of 1898.

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called the Criminal Procedure (West Bengal Second Amendment) Act, 1950.

Application.

2. The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 (hereinafter referred to as the said Code) shall, in its application to West Bengal, be amended in the manner hereinafter provided.

(a) in any such district as the State Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, specify, to the Court of Session, and

(c) after sub-section (2), the following sub-section shall be added, namely:—

"(3) The Sessions Judge may transfer to any Assistant Sessions Judge subordinate to him any appeal presented to the Court of Session under clause (a) of sub-section (1) of this section and thereupon such appeal shall be heard by such Assistant Sessions Judge. The Sessions Judge may withdraw from such Assistant Sessions Judge any appeal so transferred".

Amendment of section 409.

4. In section 409 of the said Code, before the words "An appeal" the words, brackets and figures "Subject to the provisions of sub-section (3) of section 407," shall be inserted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Under section 407 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, any person convicted in a trial held by any Magistrate of the second or third class may appeal to the District Magistrate. To relieve the District Magistrate and other Magistrates under him of this burden, where necessary, and at the same time to prepare the ground for the separation of the Executive and the Judiciary, it is felt that the Government should be empowered to provide that in any particular district, appeals in cases from second and third class Magistrates shall be heard by the Sessions Judges and the Assistant Sessions Judges. Government have accordingly decided to amend sections 407 and 409 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, for the purpose.

The Bill has been drawn up in accordance with the above decision.

GOVERNMENT OF WEST BENGAL.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 1847L.—14th September, 1950.—The Governor having been pleased to order, under rule 48 of the West Bengal Legislative Assembly Procedure Rules, the publication of the following Bill, together with the Statement of Objects and Reasons which accompanies it, in the Calcutta Gazette, the Bill and the Statement of Objects and Reasons are accordingly hereby published for general information:—

THE WEST BENGAL DISTRICT BOARDS (SECOND AMENDMENT) BILL, 1950.

A

BILL

further to amend the West Bengal District Boards Act, 1947.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the West Bengal District Boards Act, 1947, for the purpose and in the manner hereinafter appearing; West Ben. Act III of 1947.

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title. 1. This Act may be called the West Bengal District Boards (Second Amendment) Act, 1950.

Amendment of section 5 of West Bengal Act III of 1947. 2. In the proviso to section 5 of the West Bengal District Boards Act, 1947, for the words "three years and four months" the words "four years, four months and fifteen days" shall be substituted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Under the West Bengal District Boards Act, 1947, the term of office of the present appointed members of the District Boards of Jalpaiguri, West Dinajpur, Malda and Nadia can extend up to the 16th December, 1950. According to the Act, the Boards have to be reconstituted by election on the expiry of the term of office of their present members. It may not be possible to arrange for holding of elections to these Boards before the 16th December, 1950, and in case arrangements for holding elections to any of these Boards cannot be made before that date, it will be necessary to extend the term of office of the members of the Board for a suitable period. The Bill accordingly seeks to authorise Government to extend the term of office of the members of the Boards till the 31st December, 1951.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 1848L.—14th September, 1950.—The Governor having been pleased to order, under rule 48 of the West Bengal Legislative Assembly Procedure Rules, the publication of the following Bill, together with the Statement of Objects and Reasons which accompanies it, in the Calcutta Gazette, the Bill and the Statement of Objects and Reasons are accordingly hereby published for general information:—

THE WEST BENGAL DENTAL BOARD BILL, 1950.

A
BILL

to provide for the continuance of the constitution of the West Bengal Dental Board as heretofore until the 31st day of December, 1950.

WHEREAS it is expedient that the West Bengal Dental Board shall continue to be constituted as heretofore until the 31st day of December, 1950;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the West Bengal Dental Board Act, 1950.

(2) It extends to the whole of West Bengal.

(3) It shall come into force immediately on the West Bengal Dental Board Ordinance, 1950, ceasing to operate. West Ben. Ord. VI of 1950.

Constitution of the West Bengal Dental Board to continue as heretofore.

2. Notwithstanding anything contained in any Act, notification, order or other law, the West Bengal Dental Board shall be deemed to consist, up to the 31st day of December, 1950, of the members holding office as members of the said Board immediately before the commencement of this Act and the term of office of such members shall extend up to that date.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The proviso to section 21 of the Dentists Act, 1948, which was enacted by the Centre on an all-India basis, lays down that the Dental Board established under the Bengal Dentists Act, 1939, shall be deemed to be the Provincial Dental Council under the Central Act. The West Bengal Dental Board was last reconstituted in May, 1945, and the term of office of its members was due to expire on the 14th May, 1950. It was decided, in consultation with the Government of India, to take steps for the constitution of a State Dental Council for West Bengal in accordance with the provisions of the Central Act, so that the new Council could start functioning from the 1st January, 1951. But as there was no time left for reconstitution of the existing West Bengal Dental Board by election under the Bengal Act and there was also no provision for extension of the life of the Board, the term of office of members of the Board was extended up to the 31st December, 1950, by promulgation of an Ordinance.

It is now proposed to pass an Act incorporating the provisions of the said Ordinance.

GOVERNMENT OF WEST BENGAL

DEPARTMENT OF LABOUR.

ORDER.

No. 5396 Lab.—16th September 1950.—Whereas under the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, order No. 4238 Lab., dated the 1st August 1950, the industrial dispute between Messrs. Hajee Ismail Sait and Sons, Limited, Russa Distillery, Tollygunge, Calcutta, and their workers represented by Russa Distillery Workers' Union, Basanta Lal Saha Road, Tollygunge, Calcutta, regarding the matters specified in the schedule to the said order was referred for adjudication to Sri S. C. Chakravarty, District Judge;

And whereas the said Sri S. C. Chakravarty, District Judge, has submitted to the State Government his award on the said industrial dispute;

Now, therefore, the Governor is pleased, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto and in exercise of the power conferred by the first proviso to section 19 of the said Act, to fix one day to be the period for which the award shall remain in operation.

ANNEXURE.

In the matter of industrial dispute between Messrs. Hajee Ismail Sait and Sons, Ltd., Russa Distillery, Tollygunge, Calcutta, and their workers as represented by Russa Distillery Workers' Union, Basanta Lal Saha Road, Tollygunge, Calcutta.

PRESENT: SRI SAILES CHANDRA CHAKRAVARTY,
Chairman of the Tribunal.

For the Company: Messrs. Orr, Dignam & Co., Solicitors.

For the Union: None.

Acting under sections 7 and 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, the Government of West Bengal, Department of Labour, by their order No. 4238-Lab., dated the 1st August 1950, referred to me for adjudication the industrial dispute between Messrs. Hajee Ismail Sait and Sons, Ltd., Russa Distillery, Tollygunge, Calcutta, and their workers as represented by Russa Distillery Workers' Union, Basanta Lal Saha Road, Tollygunge, Calcutta.

The reference has been in respect of the following three points:—

(1) Introduction of Production Bonus.

(2) Employment of substitutes in place of workmen on leave.

(3) Promotions.

AWARD.

On receipt of the reference, notices were issued to both parties with 10th August 1950 as the date for submission of statements. Acknowledgments of receipt of notice were obtained.

On 4th August 1950 I received from the Union the copy of a letter of that date addressed to the Assistant Secretary to the Government of West Bengal, Department of Labour, protesting against reference to the three points only coupled with a threat of non-participation in the adjudication proceedings.

The Secretary of the Union and another gentleman came on 10th August 1950. I told them that they could file the statement of claim, or take time for doing so, and I reminded them that if they did not do anything an award in default would be made. They told me that they would make up their mind soon and take action. They did not come afterwards and did nothing. It is manifestly clear that they propose to carry out the proposal of refusing the adjudication.

As no statement of claim has been filed, I find that no dispute exists. I award that no dispute exists.

S. C. CHAKRAVARTY,
Chairman of the Tribunal.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 1854L.—18th September, 1950.—The Governor having been pleased to order, under rule 48 of the West Bengal Legislative Assembly Procedure Rules, the publication of the following Bill, together with the Statement of Objects and Reasons which accompanies it, in the Calcutta Gazette, the Bill and the Statement of Objects and Reasons are accordingly hereby published for general information:—

THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY OF WEST BENGAL (REMOVAL OF DISQUALIFICATIONS) BILL, 1950.

A

to declare that the holders of certain offices of profit shall not be disqualified for being chosen as, and for being, members of the West Bengal Legislative Assembly.

WHEREAS it is expedient to declare in accordance with the provisions contained in sub-clause (a) of clause (1) of article 191 of the Constitution of India that the holders of certain offices of profit under the Government of India or the Government of any State specified in the First Schedule to the said Constitution shall not be disqualified for being chosen as, and for being, members of the West Bengal Legislative Assembly;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the Legislative Assembly of West Bengal (Removal of Disqualifications) Act, 1950.

(2) It shall come into force immediately on the Legislative Assembly of West Bengal (Removal of Disqualifications) Ordinance, 1950, ceasing to operate. West Ben. Ord XII of 1950.

Removal of certain disqualifications for membership.

2. It is hereby declared that a person shall not be disqualified for being chosen as, and for being, a member of the Legislative Assembly of West Bengal by reason only of the fact that he holds any of the following offices of profit under the Government of India or the Government of any State specified in the First Schedule to the Constitution of India, namely:—

(a) an office of a Parliamentary Secretary or a Parliamentary Under-Secretary;

(b) an office which is not a whole-time office remunerated either by salary or by fees.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The present Legislative Assembly of West Bengal is a creation of the Government of India Act, 1935, having been constituted thereunder in 1946. Under section 69(1)(a) of that Act a person was disqualified for being chosen as, and for being, a member of a Provincial Legislature if he held an office of profit under the Crown in India, other than an office declared by Act of the Provincial Legislature not to disqualify its holder. The Bengal Legislature (Removal of Disqualifications) Act, 1937, was accordingly passed by the then Provincial Legislature declaring inter alia the office of Parliamentary Secretary as not disqualifying its holder in the above sense. This Act continues in force by virtue of the provisions of article 372(1) of the Constitution.

Article 191(1)(a) of the Constitution similarly says that a person shall be disqualified for being chosen as, and for being, a member of the Legislative Assembly or Legislative Council of a State if he holds any office of profit under the Government of India or the Government of any State specified in the First Schedule other than an office of profit declared by the Legislature of the State by law not to disqualify its holder. Under article 168 the Legislature of the State of West Bengal is to consist of the Governor and two Houses, namely, the Legislative Assembly and the Legislative Council. Under article 382(1) the old Provincial Legislative Assembly is directed to exercise the powers and perform the duties of these two Houses of Legislature until they have been duly constituted and summoned to meet for the first session under the provisions of the Constitution. The Government of West Bengal are of the view that article 191(1) which applies to the Legislative Assembly and the Legislative Council of the State of West Bengal to be constituted under the provisions of the Constitution does not apply to the old Provincial Legislative Assembly which is only exercising the powers and performing the duties of these two Houses taken together, without actually becoming any of them.

As, however, some doubt has arisen that article 191(1)(a) may apply to the old Provincial Legislative Assembly and as some Part A States have enacted retrospective legislation under article 191(1)(a) effective from the 26th January, 1950, the Governor recently promulgated the Legislative Assembly of West Bengal (Removal of Disqualifications) Ordinance, 1950, with retrospective effect from the 26th January, 1950, with a view to placing the position of the Parliamentary Secretaries of the Government beyond the possibility of doubt. The Bill is intended to replace the provisions of the Ordinance.

NOTES ON CLAUSES.

Clause 2.—Sub-clause (a).—Paragraph (i).—The change is verbal and is consequential on the change of the definition of Sales [vide sub-clause (d), paragraph (i)].

Paragraph (ii) provides for the inclusion of an agreement for the repair of a sea-going vessel within the definition of contract so that cost of services involved in such repair may be segregated and exempted from taxation.

Sub-clause (b).—It is a drafting change intended to remove a few unnecessary words and to remove ambiguity about the liability of agents, auctioneers, etc.

Sub-clause (c).—It is a drafting change.

Sub-clause (d).—It is a drafting change to bring it in line with the general law on sales of goods. Explanation 2 brings it in line with the Constitution of India [vide Explanation to Article 286(1)].

Sub-clause (e).—A consequential drafting change.

Sub-clause (f).—This is intended to change the cash basis of charge to accrual basis in accordance with the preference of most dealers. The proviso is consequential and provides for the transition period.

Sub-clause (g).—The change is intended to provide for cases where the dealer does not produce his books and an assessment has to be made under section 11(2).

The proviso is intended to provide for such gaps as may arise due to the change of an accounting year.

Clause 3.—Drafting change.

Clause 4.—Sub-clause (a).—Under rule 27A dealers claiming exemption under section 5(2)(a)(ii) are required to furnish written declaration signed by registered purchasers. The genuineness of such declaration is not often clear, and the purpose of the proviso is to ensure easy verification so as to afford protection to bona fide dealers as well as to prevent evasion of tax.

Sub-clause (b).—A doubt has been expressed whether coal mining is a manufacturing operation. This provision extends to the colliery the same privileges as are available to a manufacturer.

Clause 5.—Drafting change.

Clause 6.—Doubt has been expressed whether persons dealing exclusively in exempt goods can be registered. In the absence of registration, manufacturers of such commodities, e.g., a rice mill, cannot buy free of tax their requirement of machinery, etc. The Explanation is intended to make the position unambiguous so that such manufacturers may get themselves registered on a voluntary basis.

Clause 7.—The amendment authorises the Commissioner to publish the list without reference to Government and also makes the publication of any amendment of a registration certificate compulsory.

Clause 8.—In the absence of any specific period being mentioned in the proviso, its interpretation has caused difficulty. In practice, the proviso has been meant to apply to a year. There have, however, been cases in which the evidence to the satisfaction of the Commission is adduced long after the expiry of the year to which the evidence relates. This raises doubt about the validity of the assessment of that year which may have been completed in the meantime on the basis of quarterly return periods. The proviso is therefore being omitted. Necessary procedure on this point will be incorporated in the rules which now deal with all questions relating to fixation of return periods.

Clause 9.—Sub-clause (a).—Paragraph (i).—At present most dealers have quarterly return periods but are assessed once a year on the basis of four quarterly returns. The return for the fourth quarter is due within 30 days after the end of the year. If the assessment is not commenced within 2 months thereafter, the assessment for the first quarter becomes time-barred under the present law. The margin is too narrow and hence it is being increased by six months.

Paragraph (ii).—The change brings out the intention clearly.

Sub-clause (b) provides for best-judgment assessment in the case of any dealer who remains unregistered in spite of tax-liability.

Also removes the time-limit for initiation of assessment in such cases. The general time-limit which is being imposed by this bill in sub-clause (c) below will of course apply.

Sub-clause (c) provides for a time-limit for assessment.

Clause 10.—Provides for refund of penalty paid in excess and also provides for a time-limit for claim for refund. Paragraph 2 provides a safeguard against the misuse of this provision.

Clause 11.—To meet the specific requirement of individual dealers, the change provides for specific direction to specific dealers.

Clause 12.—Sub-clause (a).—This is in the nature of a drafting change to make the sense clear.

Sub-clause (b).—A drafting change which merely re-arranges the words.

Sub-clause (c).—The purpose is obvious.

Clause 13.—A change consequential to the deletion of section 18.

Clause 14.—Widens the scope of the provision.

Clause 15.—This is intended to remove the ambiguity in regard to the liability of a transferee.

Clause 16.—Section 18 provided for reference to Commissioner for determination of questions which must arise in any assessment or other proceedings under the Act. Such references in the course of an assessment merely dislocate the normal administrative machinery and defeat the purpose of the Act, particularly in regard to the delegation of powers by the Commissioner. The Bengal Finance (Sales Tax) (West Bengal Amendment) Ordinance, 1950, deleted this section and made a few consequential changes to the Act. This clause continues the provisions of the said Ordinance.

Clause 17.—Sub-clause (a) gives power to the Commissioner to extend the period of limitation in deserving cases.

Sub-clause (b).—Paragraph (i) makes a drafting change.

Paragraph (ii).—The purpose is obvious.

Sub-clause (c).—This is a drafting change to make the sense clearer.

Clause 18.—The object is obvious.

Clause 19.—Provides for punishment of imprisonment and removes the limit to the fine.

Clause 20.—Increases the composition money from Rs. 1,000 to Rs. 5,000.

Clause 21.—The change is a drafting change mainly consequential in nature.

(b) the conditions which an applicant and a clinical establishment shall fulfil under sub-section (2) of section 4;

(c) the period for which registration and license under sub-section (2) of section 4 shall be valid;

(d) the period of limitation for an appeal under sub-section (4) of section 4 and the procedure on such appeals;

(e) the terms upon which a license shall be granted under sub-section (5) of section 4;

(f) the regulations subject to which an officer authorised under sub-section (1) of section 6 may enter any establishment or inspect any documents;

(g) any other matter required to be prescribed by rules.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

A large number of Nursing Homes, Maternity Homes, Physical Therapy Establishment and other similar establishments are springing up now-a-days, particularly, in the city of Calcutta. The Government have observed with concern that many of these establishments are spurious, particularly maternity homes and physical therapy establishments where undesirable activities are carried on under a false guise. In many other establishments, proper equipments are not provided, and proper personnel are not employed. It has therefore been thought desirable in the interest of public health and morality that the Government should be able to exercise control over such establishments in order to see that they are not used for immoral purposes, proper hygienic and scientific arrangements are made, proper accommodation is available and properly trained personnel are employed in such establishments. It is necessary for that purpose to provide for the compulsory registration of (1) Nursing Homes including Maternity homes, (2) Physical Therapy Establishments and (3) Clinical Laboratories for the diagnosis of diseases and for the taking out of licenses by such establishments.

A draft of these rules was published in the Calcutta Gazette Extraordinary of the 17th August 1950 under notification No. 8-I, dated the 9th August 1950:—

RULES AND RATES.

Leases for a term of years.

1. The country served by the canals shall be mapped out into blocks of convenient size in accordance with the features of the ground, natural or artificial. So far as may be practicable, the blocks shall be separated by drainage lines. This shall be done by the Subdivisional Canal Officer under the guidance and control of the Divisional Canal Officer.

2. Each block determined as above shall be numbered and recorded with its gross and irrigable areas in registers to be maintained by the Subdivisional Canal Officer. The blocks shall also be marked on maps to be maintained by the same officer.

3. Leases for not more than six years may be granted for the whole irrigable area of a block or for definite parts of a block under the following conditions:—

I. Ordinarily the whole irrigable area of any village so far as situated within the block must be included in the lease. If the lands of a village within the block are divisible into two or more distinct parts which can be irrigated independently a separate lease may be granted for each part.

II. All leases within one block shall be so granted that they may expire on the same date.

III. No lease shall be granted when the supply of water must of necessity be delivered across an unleased area, unless a channel exists, which, in the opinion of the Subdivisional Canal Officer, will deliver water without waste across the unleased area.

4. The Superintending Engineer shall fix from time to time the gross area for which and the limits of the canal within which, leases for a term of years may be granted.

5. Maps of all villages in which lands have been brought under lease for a term of years, or in which there is any possibility of such leases being taken, shall be kept in the Subdivisional Canal Office. These maps to be at scale 32″=1 mile when such are available and elsewhere at scale 16″=1 mile.

IRRIGATION AND WATERWAYS DEPARTMENT

NOTIFICATIONS.

No. 12-I.—18th September 1950.—In exercise of the powers conferred by sections 78 and 99 of the Bengal Irrigation Act, 1876 (Bengal Act III of 1876), the Governor is pleased to make the following rules and schedule of rates and appendices for the supply of water from the Putrangi canal in the district of Midnapore.

A draft of these rules was published in the Calcutta Gazette Extraordinary of the 17th August 1950 under notification No. 8-I, dated the 9th August 1950:—

RULES AND RATES.

Leases for a term of years.

1. The country served by the canals shall be mapped out into blocks of convenient size in accordance with the features of the ground, natural or artificial. So far as may be practicable, the blocks shall be separated by drainage lines. This shall be done by the Subdivisional Canal Officer under the guidance and control of the Divisional Canal Officer.

2. Each block determined as above shall be numbered and recorded with its gross and irrigable areas in registers to be maintained by the Subdivisional Canal Officer. The blocks shall also be marked on maps to be maintained by the same officer.

3. Leases for not more than six years may be granted for the whole irrigable area of a block or for definite parts of a block under the following conditions:—

I. Ordinarily the whole irrigable area of any village so far as situated within the block must be included in the lease. If the lands of a village within the block are divisible into two or more distinct parts which can be irrigated independently a separate lease may be granted for each part.

II. All leases within one block shall be so granted that they may expire on the same date.

III. No lease shall be granted when the supply of water must of necessity be delivered across an unleased area, unless a channel exists, which, in the opinion of the Subdivisional Canal Officer, will deliver water without waste across the unleased area.

4. The Superintending Engineer shall fix from time to time the gross area for which and the limits of the canal within which, leases for a term of years may be granted.

5. Maps of all villages in which lands have been brought under lease for a term of years, or in which there is any possibility of such leases being taken, shall be kept in the Subdivisional Canal Office. These maps to be at scale 32″=1 mile when such are available and elsewhere at scale 16″=1 mile.

6. The preliminary application for a lease for a term of years, either new or renewal, may be of an informal nature, but it must be in writing. It may be presented and shall be received either at the Subdivisional or Sectional Canal Office; in the latter case the Sectional Officer shall forward it immediately to the Subdivisional Canal Officer. The Subdivisional Canal Officer as soon as he has, by personal enquiry or by an enquiry made by the Sectional Officer, satisfied himself that the land in question constitutes a definite block or a definite part of a block, and that it can be irrigated, shall at once inform the Divisional Canal Officer giving such particulars as that officer may direct, and shall ask his formal approval to the lease being proceeded with. On receipt of such approval the Subdivisional Canal Officer shall proceed to make the detailed assessment. The lands to be brought under lease shall be indicated on a copy of the map referred to in rule 5.

7. The Subdivisional Canal Officer on receipt of the application shall depute an amin to prepare the khasra or detailed assessment paper. This shall be done on the ground with the aid of the revenue survey map and khasra. Should the survey map and khasra not be available, the amin shall make a sketch map, and shall measure the areas of the holdings with a chain or measuring-rod.

8. When the amin has completed the khasra he shall forward it to the Subdivisional Canal Officer who shall forward it to the Divisional Canal Officer for approval.

9. As soon as the khasra has been approved by the Divisional Canal Officer, he shall return it to the Subdivisional Canal Officer endorsed with his signature in token of approval.

The Subdivisional Canal Officer shall then prepare a khatian or abstract of the khasra, and shall have the form of application given as Appendix No. I to these rules, filled up and signed or marked by each of the applicants, in the presence of two witnesses.

When the application has been completely signed, the Subdivisional Canal Officer shall send it to the Divisional Canal Officer, by whom the permit or formal approval of the lease, shall be signed and issued in the form given as Appendix No. III to these rules. The permit shall be made over to the representative of the cultivators by the Subdivisional Canal Officer through his Sectional Officer. The Divisional Canal Officer shall return the application to the Subdivisional Canal Officer with a copy of the permit for record.

10. Should it happen that the cultivators of the block proposed for lease are not unanimous, and that some of them decline to sign the application, the Subdivisional Canal Officer shall report the matter to the Divisional Canal Officer and the Subdivisional Canal Officer shall hold a local enquiry, recording the statements of the persons who decline to sign and recording his personal opinion on the reasons given. He shall then send a report to the Divisional Canal Officer, who shall decide whether the lease may be accepted excluding the fields in the occupation of the persons who decline to sign, or whether the lease shall be declined. The Divisional Canal Officer may grant a lease when not less than 95 per cent. of the net irrigable area of the block has been signed for. In particular cases should it be desirable to grant a lease even though an area larger than 5 per cent. of the block has not been signed for, this may be done on the written order of the Superintending Engineer. The reasons for granting the lease shall be fully recorded.

Covering Leases.

11. Applicants for a lease for a term of years who may require water before the lease has been concluded can obtain a supply on tendering an application for a covering lease in the form given as Appendix No. II to these rules. This application shall be signed in the presence of the tahsildar or of some other responsible officer nominated for the purpose by the Subdivisional Canal Officer. The signatures shall be those of the leading cultivators in the block in question and they shall represent holders of not less than 75 per cent. of the irrigable land within the block.

As soon as the Subdivisional Canal Officer receives the application duly signed, he shall issue a permit in the form given as Appendix No. IV to these rules, and shall at once supply water.

Season Leases.

12. Applications for water to irrigate spring rice or other crops between the 16th November and 15th June may be presented at the Subdivisional Canal Office or to the Sectional Officer. They shall be in the form given as Appendix No. V to these rules.

In the applications the areas for which water is required shall be specified but the rate shall be charged on those areas for which water is actually used as determined by measurement.

The permit in the form given as Appendix VI to these rules shall be granted by the Subdivisional Canal Officer if he is able to supply the water.

Supply of water.

13. The Divisional Canal Officer shall control the supply of water throughout the Division in his charge.

14. No water shall be supplied to any lands except such as have been brought under a lease for a term of years or for the season, or to such as are provided for by a covering lease.

15. Under the forms of irrigation lease in use, no specific supply of water is promised; but the undertaking is to give such a supply to each lessee as may be necessary for the lands leased. The supply shall be given, as may be required for the proper cultivation of the crops under irrigation, according to the exigencies of the season.

16. The Divisional Canal Officer may give the required supply by rotation, should this be advisable for the efficient working of the canals in his charge. In such a case, he is required to give the lessees written notice informing them of the periods when they will be supplied with water.

Collection of water-rates.

17. The rates due for water supplied shall be collected by the Divisional Canal Officer or other officer in charge of the Revenue Division, Midnapore, through his staff of tahsildars and peons. All khatians or demand statements shall be signed by the Divisional Canal Officer or other officer in charge of the Revenue Division after scrutiny in his office.

18. At the time of preparation of the khatian in the Subdivisional Canal Office each person assessed shall be furnished with an extract from the assessment paper, showing the particulars of the charge against him. This extract shall be furnished in such form as may from time to time be approved by the Subdivisional Canal Officer for the purpose.

19. Each person on paying the sum due from him shall be given a receipt in the form prescribed for the purpose.

20. For the purposes of account of control over establishment, and of general administration, the Divisional Canal Officer or other officer in charge of the Revenue Division is in the position of an Executive Engineer in charge of a Division, and is directly subordinate to the Superintending Engineer. In regard to any proceedings taken under the Public Demands Recovery Act, 1913 (Bengal Act III of 1913), the Divisional Canal Officer is subject to the control of the Collector of the district.

Unauthorized use of water and waste of water.

21. Should it be necessary to take action under the provisions of sections 79 and 80 of the Act, proceedings shall be instituted only under the direct and special order of the Divisional Canal Officer. The primary record of the facts regarding the unauthorized use or the waste of water shall be made by the Subdivisional Canal Officer and his subordinates. The parties whom it is proposed to assess shall be informed in writing, and shall be called on to show cause why they should not be assessed. The record of their statements shall be made by the Divisional or by the Subdivisional Canal Officer. The Divisional Canal Officer shall consider the facts and statements recorded, and shall, in deciding the case, give his reasons for or against assessment, both as regards the facts and as regards the law; and he shall determine rate to be charged subject to the provision in the schedule of rates attached to these rules.

22. Should the Divisional Canal Officer decide on making as assessment, he shall have the assessment paper prepared by the Subdivisional Canal Officer and his staff. Each person assessed shall be furnished with a statement of the charge against him, and an abstract of the demand or khatian shall be sent to the officer in charge of the Revenue Division, who shall proceed to recover the sums assessed. The period of one month within which an appeal may be presented to the Collector under section 91 of the Act shall be computed from the date on which the statement of the charge may be furnished to the person assessed, which date shall be endorsed on it.

23. No proceedings shall be instituted if the unauthorized use or the waste of water have occurred through the act or neglect of a Canal Officer or a subordinate officer employed on the canal. During the irrigation of autumn rice, the passing on of surplus water from leased to unleased fields is not an unauthorized use of water.

Complaints and Applications.

24. All complaints or applications with respect to the supply of water, to defective drainage, and generally with respect to the administration of the canal, shall be received on presentation at either divisional or subdivisional canal offices.

Complaints and applications received by a Divisional Canal Officer may be transferred to his Subdivisional Canal Officer for disposal at his discretion.

Any such complaints or applications, if presented to the Sectional Canal Officer or to his staff, shall be returned endorsed with instructions as to the proper office at which to present them. If received by post, they shall be at once forwarded to the Divisional or Subdivisional Canal Officer.

25. Complaints or applications with respect to corrections of the assessment with respect to the actions of the amins in assessing and with respect to the actions of the tahsildars and other staff employed in collections, shall be received at the office of the Divisional Canal Officer or other officer in charge of the Revenue Division.

26. Receipts in the prescribed form shall be given at all offices for complaints or applications presented. The receipt of all complaints and applications shall be recorded in registers to be kept for that purpose.

27. The officer receiving the complaint or application shall either make a personal enquiry into the matter or he shall nominate in writing some responsible person to hold the enquiry.

28. The orders passed on all complaints or applications shall be in writing, and a copy of every order shall be furnished to the complainant or applicant.

The copy of order may be sent by post (registered), if this is convenient.

The period within which an appeal may be presented under section 91 of the Act shall be computed from the date on which the copy of the order is received by the person.

29. When an appeal to the Collector is from the order of a Subdivisional Canal Officer, the proceedings shall be called for through the Divisional Canal Officer, who may record on them such remarks as he may think desirable, provided that he does not thereby detain the proceedings.

In all cases in which an appeal against an assessment is preferred to the Collector, that officer may, if he thinks fit, direct that the collection of water-rates be suspended till the appeal is heard.

30. The Divisional Canal Officer may revise the proceedings of his Subdivisional Canal Officers and the Superintending Engineer may call for and revise the proceedings of all officers under his control.

Remissions and alterations of demand.

31. Whenever the crop on land entitled to a supply of water suffers material injury from an insufficient supply of water, or from any interruption in the supply of water, remission of the rate due on such crop shall be given by the Divisional Canal Officer, provided that the person claiming remission shall have applied for such not less than fifteen days before the reaping of the crop.

32. On the occasion of lands being brought under a lease for a term of years, the Divisional Canal Officer may remit the rates for the first season on those fields which from the nature of the cultivation then obtaining, or from other causes, have not, in that season, derived any benefit from the supply of canal water.

33. Should the crop on lands under lease for a term of years suffer material injury from excess of water due to deficient drainage, the Divisional Canal Officer may grant remission of the rates due on such lands in whole or in part, provided that the person asking for remission shall have applied at least fifteen days before the reaping of the crop.

34. Revisions of the assessment required in consequence of land under lease being left uncultivated or of land being appropriated for purposes other than cultivation shall be made under the orders of the Divisional Canal Officer.

35. Revisions of the assessment required in consequence of incorrect entries of the names of occupants of lands under lease or of incorrect entries of areas or amounts in the assessment papers, or required by changes, in the occupation of lands, shall be made under the orders of the Divisional Canal Officer or other officer in charge of the Revenue Division, provided that no change involving any increase or decrease in the total area under lease for a term of years shall be made without the concurrence of the Divisional Canal Officer.

36. Remissions of water-rates on account of injury to the crops caused by inundation, by blight, by storms or by any extraordinary cause shall only be allowed under the special orders of the State Government.

Irrecoverable demands.

37. The Superintending Engineer may sanction the writing off of those demands which are reported, after due enquiry by the Divisional Canal Officer or other officer in charge of the Revenue Division, as irrecoverable owing to the poverty of the defaulter or of his successors in case of his death, or owing to the defaulter having absconded.

Cultivators' Representatives.

38. Whenever the preliminary application for a lease for a term of years has been approved by the Divisional Canal Officer, the officer in charge of the Revenue Division shall, with concurrence of the Subdivisional Canal Officer, select as representative of the cultivators a suitable person or persons who shall generally be acceptable to the cultivators and who shall each have a direct interest in the land for which the lease is executed.

39. The person or persons so selected shall be required to give assistance to the Canal Officers in respect of the following matters:—

(i) In the preparation of applications for leases.

(ii) In the measurement of irrigated lands.

(iii) In recording the names of the occupiers of the holdings.

(iv) In receiving demand statements and distributing to the cultivators the individual notices of assessment.

(v) In attending, when required, at enquiries into complaints.

(vi) In reporting to the Circle Officer any changes in the occupancy of lands under lease.

(vii) In assisting the tahsildar in collecting rates.

40. For such assistance the cultivators' representative or representatives shall be entitled to free irrigation of the lands in his or in their own occupation, which may lie within the boundaries of the leased area subject to a total limit of 3 per cent. of the area assessed. The Divisional Canal Officer or other officer in charge of the Revenue Division may disallow in whole or in part this free irrigation, and may recover the rates which would otherwise have been payable in whole or in part if the assistance specified in rule 39 has not been efficiently rendered. The reasons for such disallowance shall be recorded in writing.

41. The Divisional Canal Officer shall maintain in his office a register containing a record of the names of all representatives and of the areas of free irrigation allowed to each.

42. Applicants for season leases shall be required to nominate one of their number who must have a substantial interest in the land to be irrigated as their representative. The representative so nominated shall perform the same duties as stated in rule 39 and shall receive remuneration on the same scale as in rule 40.

Power to decline or cancel leases.

43. Should it be proved, after due enquiry, that the supply of water given to any leased area is habitually wasted or used for the irrigation of lands not under lease, it shall be competent for the Superintending Engineer to direct that the lease shall be cancelled with effect from the 16th of June next following. The order to cancel a lease shall be passed before the 1st of April of the year in which it is to take effect.

44. The Superintending Engineer may give directions to the Divisional Canal Officer to decline applications for irrigation leases of lands in villages where there has been persistent difficulty in realising the water-rates, until all arrears have been paid.

He may further suspend, or altogether cancel, any lease for a term of years, if on the 1st June of any year water-rates to the extent of half the demand for one year are in arrears. Previous notice of intention to put this rule in force shall be given not later than the 15th April preceding.

Miscellaneous.

45. Tanks may be supplied with canal-water without charge, when water can be made available without injury to the cultivation dependent on a canal, under the following conditions:—

(i) That the water is to be exclusively used for domestic purposes, or for watering cattle.

(ii) That a channel exists through which water can pass without waste.

(iii) That the water shall only be supplied on the written order of the Subdivisional Canal Officer.

(iv) That any new outlet or sluice which may be required to allow of the supply being given shall be provided at the cost of the persons who ask for the water.

(v) That the supply of water may be stopped at any time if it is found that it is being misused.

46. Except when a public right-of-way exists, no person shall, without the permission expressed in writing of the Divisional or Subdivisional Canal Officer, pass himself, or cause any animal or vehicle to pass, on or across any of the works, banks or channels of a canal, or drainage work which is part of the canal system except by means of such bridges, fords and ferries as may have been provided for the purpose.

Any person who, after due warning, commits a breach of this rule may be proceeded against under clause (9) of section 93 of the Bengal Irrigation Act, 1876 (Bengal Act III of 1876).

47. The use of any part of the banks or berms of any canal, drainage work which is part of the canal system, or flood embankment which is subject to the provisions of the Bengal Irrigation Act, 1876 (Bengal Act III of 1876), as a place for answering the calls of nature, is prohibited. Any person who, after due warning, commits a breach of this rule may be proceeded against under clause (9) of section 93 of the Bengal Irrigation Act, 1876 (Bengal Act III of 1876).

48. Should water be required for purposes other than irrigation it may be supplied, when available, at a rate of two rupees per 10,000 cubic feet of water.

49. No officer employed on the canals, unless especially exempted by the State Government from the operation of this rule, shall have any interest in the distribution of water from any of the canals or purchase or bid for Government property sold thereon either in his own name or in the name of another, or jointly, or in shares with others.

No. 13-I.—18th September 1950.—In exercise of the powers conferred by sections 78 and 99 of the Bengal Irrigation Act, 1876 (Bengal Act III of 1876), the Governor is pleased to make the following rules and schedule of rates and appendices for the supply of water from the Rukni and Kulai canals in the district of Bankura.

A draft of these rules and rates was published in the Calcutta Gazette Extraordinary of the 17th August 1950 under notification No. 9-I, dated the 9th August 1950:—

RULES AND RATES.

Leases for a term of years.

1. The country served by the canals shall be mapped out into blocks of convenient size in accordance with the features of the ground, natural or artificial. So far as may be practicable, the blocks shall be separated by drainage lines. This shall be done by the Subdivisional Canal Officer under the guidance and control of the Divisional Canal Officer.

2. Each block determined as above shall be numbered and recorded with its gross and irrigable areas in registers to be maintained by the Subdivisional Canal Officer. The blocks shall also be marked on maps to be maintained by the same officer.

3. Leases for not more than six years may be granted for the whole irrigable area of a block or for definite parts of a block under the following conditions:—

I. Ordinarily the whole irrigable area of any village so far as situated within the block must be included in the lease. If the lands of a village within the block are divisible into two or more distinct parts which can be irrigated independently a separate lease may be granted for each part.

II. All leases within one block shall be so granted that they may expire on the same date.

III. No lease shall be granted when the supply of water must of necessity be delivered across an unleased area, unless a channel exists, which, in the opinion of the Subdivisional Canal Officer, will deliver water without waste across the unleased area.

4. The Superintending Engineer shall fix from time to time the gross area for which and the limits of the canal within which, leases for a term of years may be granted.

5. Maps of all villages in which lands have been brought under lease for a term of years, or in which there is any possibility of such leases being taken, shall be kept in the Subdivisional Canal Office. These maps to be at scale 32″=1 mile when such are available and elsewhere at scale 16″=1 mile.

6. The preliminary application for a lease for a term of years, either new or renewal, may be of an informal nature, but it must be in writing. It may be presented and shall be received either at the Subdivisional or Sectional Canal Office; in the latter case the Sectional Officer shall forward it immediately to the Subdivisional Canal Officer. The Subdivisional Canal Officer as soon as he has, by personal enquiry or by an enquiry made by the Sectional Officer, satisfied himself that the land in question constitutes a definite block or a definite part of a block, and that it can be irrigated, shall at once inform the Divisional Canal Officer giving such particulars as that officer may direct, and shall ask his formal approval to the lease being proceeded with. On receipt of such approval the Subdivisional Canal Officer shall proceed to make the detailed assessment. The lands to be brought under lease shall be indicated on a copy of the map referred to in rule 5.

7. The Subdivisional Canal Officer on receipt of the application shall depute an amin to prepare the khasra or detailed assessment paper. This shall be done on the ground with the aid of the revenue survey map and khasra. Should the survey map and khasra not be available, the amin shall make a sketch map, and shall measure the areas of the holdings with a chain or measuring-rod.

8. When the amin has completed the khasra he shall forward it to the Subdivisional Canal Officer who shall forward it to the Divisional Canal Officer for approval.

9. As soon as the khasra has been approved by the Divisional Canal Officer, he shall return it to the Subdivisional Canal Officer endorsed with his signature in token of approval.

The Subdivisional Canal Officer shall then prepare a khatian or abstract of the khasra, and shall have the form of application given as Appendix No. I to these rules, filled up and signed or marked by each of the applicants, in the presence of two witnesses.

When the application has been completely signed, the Subdivisional Canal Officer shall send it to the Divisional Canal Officer, by whom the permit or formal approval of the lease shall be signed and issued in the form given as Appendix No. III to these rules. The permit shall be made over to the representative of the cultivators by the Subdivisional Canal Officer through his Sectional Officer. The Divisional Canal Officer shall return the application to the Subdivisional Canal Officer with a copy of the permit for record.

10. Should it happen that the cultivators of the block proposed for lease are not unanimous, and that some of them decline to sign the application, the Subdivisional Canal Officer shall report the matter to the Divisional Canal Officer and the Subdivisional Canal Officer shall hold a local enquiry, recording the statements of the persons who decline to sign and recording his personal opinion on the reasons given. He shall then send a report to the Divisional Canal Officer, who shall decide whether the lease may be accepted excluding the fields in the occupation of the persons who decline to sign, or whether the lease shall be declined. The Divisional Canal Officer may grant a lease when not less than 95 per cent. of the net irrigable area of the block has been signed for. In particular cases should it be desirable to grant a lease even though an area larger than 5 per cent. of the block has not been signed for, this may be done on the written order of the Superintending Engineer. The reasons for granting the lease shall be fully recorded.

Covering Leases.

11. Applicants for a lease for a term of years who may require water before the lease has been concluded can obtain a supply on tendering an application for a covering lease in the form given as Appendix No. II to these rules. This application shall be signed in the presence of the tahsildar or of some other responsible officer nominated for the purpose by the Subdivisional Canal Officer. The signatures shall be those of the leading cultivators in the block in question and they shall represent holders of not less than 75 per cent. of the irrigable land within the block.

As soon as the Subdivisional Canal Officer receives the application duly signed, he shall issue a permit in the form given as Appendix No. IV to these rules, and shall at once supply water.

Season Leases.

12. Applications for water to irrigate spring rice or other crops between the 16th November and 15th June may be presented at the Subdivisional Canal Office or to the Sectional Officer. They shall be in the form given as Appendix No. V to these rules.

In the applications the areas for which water is required shall be specified but the rate shall be charged on those areas for which water is actually used as determined by measurement.

The permit in the form given as Appendix No. VI to these rules shall be granted by the Subdivisional Canal Officer if he is able to supply the water.

Supply of water.

13. The Divisional Canal Officer shall control the supply of water throughout the Division in his charge.

14. No water shall be supplied to any lands except such as have been brought under a lease for a term of years or for the season, or to such as are provided for by a covering lease.

15. Under the forms of irrigation lease in use, no specific supply of water is promised; but the undertaking is to give such a supply to each lessee as may be necessary for the lands leased. The supply shall be given, as may be required for the proper cultivation of the crops under irrigation, according to the exigencies of the season.

16. The Divisional Canal Officer may give the required supply by rotation, should this be advisable for the efficient working of the canals in his charge. In such a case, he is required to give the lessees written notice informing them of the periods when they will be supplied with water.

Collection of water-rates.

17. The rates due for water supplied shall be collected by the Divisional Canal Officer or other officer in charge of the Revenue Division through his staff of tahsildars and peons. All khatians or demand statements shall be signed by the Divisional Canal Officer or other officer in charge of the Revenue Division after scrutiny in his office.

18. At the time of preparation of the khatian in the Subdivisional Canal Office each person assessed shall be furnished with an extract from the assessment paper, showing the particulars of the charge against him. This extract shall be furnished in such form as may from time to time be approved by the Subdivisional Canal Officer for the purpose.

19. Each person on paying the sum due from him shall be given a receipt in the form prescribed for the purpose.

20. For the purposes of account of control over establishment, and of general administration, the Divisional Canal Officer or other officer in charge of the Revenue Division is in the position of an Executive Engineer in charge of a Division, and is directly subordinate to the Superintending Engineer. In regard to any proceedings taken under the Public Demands Recovery Act, 1913 (Bengal Act III of 1913), the Divisional Canal Officer is subject to the control of the Collector of the district.

Unauthorized use of water and waste of water.

21. Should it be necessary to take action under the provisions of sections 79 and 80 of the Act, proceedings shall be instituted only under the direct and special order of the Divisional Canal Officer. The primary record of the facts regarding the unauthorized use or the waste of water shall be made by the Subdivisional Canal Officer and his subordinates. The parties whom it is proposed to assess shall be informed in writing, and shall be called on to show cause why they should not be assessed. The record of their statements shall be made by the Divisional or by the Subdivisional Canal Officer. The Divisional Canal Officer shall consider the facts and statements recorded, and shall, in deciding the case, give his reasons for or against assessment, both as regards the facts and as regards the law; and he shall determine rate to be charged subject to the provision in the schedule of rates attached to these rules.

22. Should the Divisional Canal Officer decide on making an assessment, he shall have the assessment paper prepared by the Subdivisional Canal Officer and his staff. Each person assessed shall be furnished with a statement of the charge against him, and an abstract of the demand or khatian shall be sent to the officer in charge of the Revenue Division, who shall proceed to recover the sums assessed. The period of one month within which an appeal may be presented to the Collector under section 91 of the Act shall be computed from the date on which the statement of the charge may be furnished to the person assessed, which date shall be endorsed on it.

23. No proceedings shall be instituted if the unauthorized use or the waste of water have occurred through the act or neglect of a Canal Officer or a subordinate officer employed on the canal. During the irrigation of autumn rice, the passing on of surplus water from leased to unleased fields is not an unauthorized use of water.

Complaints and Applications.

24. All complaints or applications with respect to the supply of water, to defective drainage, and generally with respect to the administration of the canal, shall be received on presentation at either divisional or subdivisional canal offices.

Complaints and applications received by a Divisional Canal Officer may be transferred to his Subdivisional Canal Officer for disposal at his discretion.

Any such complaints or applications, if presented to the Sectional Canal Officer or to his staff, shall be returned endorsed with instructions as to the proper office at which to present them. If received by post, they shall be at once forwarded to the Divisional or Subdivisional Canal Officer.

25. Complaints or applications with respect to corrections of the assessment with respect to the actions of the amins in assessing and with respect to the actions of the tahsildars and other staff employed in collections, shall be received at the office of the Divisional Canal Officer or other officer in charge of the Revenue Division.

26. Receipts in the prescribed form shall be given at all offices for complaints or applications presented. The receipt of all complaints and applications shall be recorded in registers to be kept for that purpose.

27. The officer receiving the complaint or application shall either make a personal enquiry into the matter or he shall nominate in writing some responsible person to hold the enquiry.

28. The orders passed on all complaints or applications shall be in writing, and a copy of every order shall be furnished to the complainant or applicant.

The copy of order may be sent by post (registered), if this is convenient.

The period within which an appeal may be presented under section 91 of the Act shall be computed from the date on which the copy of the order is received by the person.

29. When an appeal to the Collector is from the order of a Subdivisional Canal Officer, the proceedings shall be called for through the Divisional Canal Officer, who may record on them such remarks as he may think desirable, provided that he does not thereby detain the proceedings.

In all cases in which an appeal against an assessment is preferred to the Collector, that officer may, if he thinks fit, direct that the collection of water-rates be suspended till the appeal is heard.

30. The Divisional Canal Officer may revise the proceedings of his Subdivisional Canal Officers and the Superintending Engineer may call for and revise the proceedings of all officers under his control.

Remissions and alterations of demand.

31. Whenever the crop on land entitled to a supply of water suffers material injury from an insufficient supply of water, or from any interruption in the supply of water, remission of the rate due on such crop shall be given by the Divisional Canal Officer, provided that the person claiming remission shall have applied for such not less than fifteen days before the reaping of the crop.

32. On the occasion of lands being brought under a lease for a term of years, the Divisional Canal Officer may remit the rates for the first season on those fields which from the nature of the cultivation then obtaining, or from other causes, have not, in that season, derived any benefit from the supply of canal water.

33. Should the crop on lands under lease for a term of years suffer material injury from excess of water due to deficient drainage, the Divisional Canal Officer may grant remission of the rates due on such lands in whole or in part, provided that the person asking for remission shall have applied at least fifteen days before the reaping of the crop.

34. Revisions of the assessment required in consequence of land under lease being left uncultivated or of land being appropriated for purposes other than cultivation shall be made under the orders of the Divisional Canal Officer.

35. Revisions of the assessment required in consequence of incorrect entries of the names of occupants of lands under lease or of incorrect entries of areas or amounts in the assessment papers, or required by changes, in the occupation of lands shall be made under the orders of the Divisional Canal Officer or other officer in charge of the Revenue Division, provided that no change involving any increase or decrease in the total area under lease for a term of years shall be made without the concurrence of the Divisional Canal Officer.

36. Remissions of water-rates on account of injury to the crops caused by inundation, by blight, by storms or by any extraordinary cause shall only be allowed under the special orders of the State Government.

Irrecoverable demands.

37. The Superintending Engineer may sanction the writing-off of those demands which are reported, after due enquiry by the Divisional Canal Officer or other officer in charge of the Revenue Division, as irrecoverable owing to the poverty of the defaulter or of his successors in case of his death, or owing to the defaulter having absconded.

Cultivators' Representatives.

38. Whenever the preliminary application for a lease for a term of years has been approved by the Divisional Canal Officer, the officer in charge of the Revenue Division shall, with concurrence of the Subdivisional Canal Officer, select as representative of the cultivators a suitable person or persons who shall generally be acceptable to the cultivators and who shall each have a direct interest in the land for which the lease is executed.

39. The person or persons so selected shall be required to give assistance to the Canal Officers in respect of the following matters:—

(i) In the preparation of applications for leases.

(ii) In the measurement of irrigated lands.

(iii) In recording the names of the occupiers of the holdings.

(iv) In receiving demand statements and distributing to the cultivators the individual notices of assessment.

(v) In attending, when required, at enquiries into complaints.

(vi) In reporting to the Circle Officer any changes in the occupancy of lands under lease.

(vii) In assisting the tahsildar in collecting rates.

40. For such assistance the cultivators' representative or representatives shall be entitled to free irrigation of the lands in his or in their own occupation, which may lie within the boundaries of the leased area subject to a total limit of 3 per cent. of the area assessed. The Divisional Canal Officer or other officer in charge of the Revenue Division may disallow in whole or in part this free irrigation, and may recover the rates which would otherwise have been payable in whole or in part if the assistance specified in rule 39 has not been efficiently rendered. The reasons for such disallowance shall be recorded in writing.

41. The Divisional Canal Officer shall maintain in his office a register containing a record of the names of all representatives and of the areas of free irrigation allowed to each.

42. Applicants for season leases shall be required to nominate one of their number who must have a substantial interest in the land to be irrigated as their representative. The representative so nominated shall perform the same duties as stated in rule 39 and shall receive remuneration on the same scale as in rule 40.

Power to decline or cancel leases.

43. Should it be proved, after due enquiry, that the supply of water given to any leased area is habitually wasted or used for the irrigation of lands not under lease, it shall be competent for the Superintending Engineer to direct that the lease shall be cancelled with effect from the 16th of June next following. The order to cancel a lease shall be passed before the 1st of April of the year in which it is to take effect.

44. The Superintending Engineer may give directions to the Divisional Canal Officer to decline applications for irrigation leases of lands in villages where there has been persistent difficulty in realising the water-rates, until all arrears have been paid.

He may further suspend, or altogether cancel, any lease for a term of years, if on the 1st June of any year water-rates to the extent of half the demand for one year are in arrears. Previous notice of intention to put this rule in force shall be given not later than the 15th April preceding.

Miscellaneous.

45. Tanks may be supplied with canal-water without charge, when water can be made available without injury to the cultivation dependent on a canal, under the following conditions:—

(i) That the water is to be exclusively used for domestic purposes, or for watering cattle.

(ii) That a channel exists through which water can pass without waste.

(iii) That the water shall only be supplied on the written order of the Subdivisional Canal Officer.

(iv) That any new outlet or sluice which may be required to allow of the supply being given shall be provided at the cost of the persons who ask for the water.

(v) That the supply of water may be stopped at any time if it is found that it is being misused.

46. Except when a public right-of-way exists, no person shall, without the permission expressed in writing of the Divisional or Subdivisional Canal Officer, pass himself, or cause any animal or vehicle to pass, on or across any of the works, banks or channels of a canal, or drainage work which is part of the canal system except by means of such bridges, fords and ferries as may have been provided for the purpose.

Any person who, after due warning, commits a breach of this rule may be proceeded against under clause (9) of section 93 of the Bengal Irrigation Act, 1876 (Bengal Act III of 1876).

47. The use of any part of the banks or berms of any canal, drainage work which is part of the canal system, or flood embankment which is subject to the provisions of the Bengal Irrigation Act, 1876 (Bengal Act III of 1876), as a place for answering the calls of nature, is prohibited. Any person who, after due warning, commits a breach of this rule may be proceeded against under clause (9) of section 93 of the Bengal Irrigation Act, 1876 (Bengal Act III of 1876).

48. Should water be required for purposes other than irrigation it may be supplied, when available, at a rate of two rupees per 10,000 cubic feet of water.

49. No officer employed on the canals, unless especially exempted by the State Government from the operation of this rule, shall have any interest in the distribution of water from any of the canals or purchase or bid for any Government property sold thereon either in his own name or in the name of another, or jointly, or in shares with others.

MINISTRY OF LABOUR.

NOTIFICATION.

New Delhi, the 11th July 1950.

S.R.O. 288.—In pursuance of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Central Government is pleased to publish the following interim award of the All India Industrial Tribunal (Bank Disputes) in the industrial dispute regarding interim relief between certain banking companies and their employees in the State of West Bengal.

BEFORE THE ALL INDIA INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL (BANK DISPUTES), BOMBAY.

ADJUDICATION

BETWEEN

The Bank of India, Ltd.,

AND

Their workmen.

In the matter of the award as to interim relief relating to West Bengal as far as it applies to the Bank of India.

INTERIM AWARD.

This interim award is necessitated owing to a mistake that has crept into our award as to interim relief relating to West Bengal [Ministry of Labour's Notification No. LR-2(258)I., dated the 26th December 1949]. There the scales of pay cited as those in operation in the Bank of India since July 1946 have been wrongly quoted, the actual scales in operation being more liberal than those. The conclusion reached in that award that the agreed scales of 1946 were "inadequate in the context of the situation which prevails today" was not justified, and the error had to be corrected by the issue of a corrigendum. In the case of this bank, the Exchange Banks which did not follow the Bengal Chamber of Commerce scheme and the Central Bank of India, we directed that the clerical staff should receive a dearness allowance at the rate of 40 per cent. of the basic pay, with a minimum of Rs. 40 per month and a house rent allowance at the rate allowed by Shri S. K. Sen's award. It seems to us that if the mistake pointed out above had not been committed we should have given somewhat different directions regarding the staff of the Bank of India; for we find that the scale of pay existing in the Bank of India is appreciably more favourable to the clerical staff than that in existence in the Central Bank of India. In order to rectify the mistake in our directions consequent on the error of fact referred to above we direct that with effect from the 1st June 1950 the house rent allowance payable to a clerk by the Bank of India shall be so adjusted that his total emoluments shall not exceed the greater of the following two, namely, the total emoluments payable to clerks in the Central Bank of India with similar years of service and the total emoluments he would have received if the interim award of 31-12-49 had not been in force. In order that there be no hardship we direct that there shall be no refund of the house rent allowance in respect of the period from the 1st June 1949 to the 31st May 1950.

We intended to incorporate our directions on this subject in our main award on the general issues, but we are now of opinion that the matter should not be kept pending any longer and we have, therefore, found it necessary to make this award at this stage.

L.R.2(268).—In pursuance of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Central Government is pleased to publish the following award of the All India Industrial Tribunal (Bank Disputes), in the matter of alleged stoppage of promotion of certain employees of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China, Calcutta.

BEFORE THE ALL INDIA INDUSTRIAL TRIBUNAL (BANK DISPUTES), BOMBAY.

ADJUDICATION

BETWEEN

The Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China

AND

Its workmen.

In the matter of alleged stoppage of promotion of 18 employees.

Appearances:

Mr. S. K. Mallick, Attorney-at-Law of Messrs. Sanderson & Morgans, Solicitors, Calcutta, for the Chartered Bank.

Mr. M. Sen, Counsel and Mr. Gajendra Nath Banerjee, Secretary, Chartered Bank Employees' Union, Calcutta, for the employees.

AWARD.

This application was made on 10th October 1949 by the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China Local Staff Employees' Union, Calcutta, on behalf of 18 employees of the said bank working in its cash department. The complaint was that they were all clerks and that the increments due to them were suddenly stopped with effect from July 1947. The bank's case is as follows: Out of those 18 men 16 are poddars or sarkars, one a receiving teller and another a paying teller. They were never appointed or designated, nor did they work as clerks, but were appointed to work as poddars, tellers or sarkars as the case might be. Prior to September 1946 there were no regular grades among clerks or such employees as the 18 men in question. In September 1946 3 grades, A, B and C, were introduced by a circular, but therein no specific mention of poddars, sarkars or tellers was made. The award in the case of the staff of the Imperial Bank of India was then pending and the bank on 19th February 1947 announced its intention of adjusting salaries on the basis of the said award. Before the said award was published, however, all the employees on the clerical staff as well as these 18 men were graded according to the grades introduced by the Circular of September 1946 and their salaries adjusted according with effect from the 1st July 1946. After Mr. Gupta's award regarding the Imperial Bank of India was published on 6th September 1947, the bank found that these men were being paid much more than would be allowable to poddars, tellers and sarkars under the said award. The bank, therefore, did not give them further increment. The receiving teller and the paying teller among the 18 men were placed in grade II of the clerical grade.

The Union denied that before Mr. Gupta's award there existed any categories of employees designated as poddars, tellers or sarkars. It took its stand on the letters of appointment of the 18 men as members of the local staff, a form used also in the case of the admitted members of the clerical staff, and said that those men had to do the work of poddars, tellers and sarkars as well as of clerks, and that no distinction was ever maintained between them and the other members of the clerical staff. There was a system of marking for purposes of promotion which was applied to both; after the introduction of grades in 1946 both were placed in the grades A, B and C in the same manner; and after the revision of the terms of service in 1946 and 1947 the salaries of both were increased and adjusted in the same way.

We are unable to accept the contention of the Union that before Mr. Gupta's award the categories of poddars, tellers and sarkars did not exist. The bank has produced the personnel register kept by its Accountant from 1934 which clearly shows the existence of such categories. Mr. M. Sen for the Union was not prepared to admit the register as genuine, but having looked into it we see no reason for not accepting it as such. There is, however, no specific mention of such categories in the bank's circular of September 1946 and the grades A, B and C introduced thereby appear to have been applied to them as well as to those who were doing clerical work without any distinction. These letters had been in use in the bank in relation to such employees even prior to September 1946, and the bank's contention that they were used with reference to a system of marking may be correct with reference to such period, as admitted by Mr. De on behalf of the Union.

Though the bank applied its circular of September 1946 and the subsequent adjustment uniformly in the case of those men and those who did clerical work, it appears to have re-examined the position after the publication of Mr. Gupta's award (in September 1946) in accordance with the intimation it had already given to the staff. It then found that the poddars, tellers and sirkars had got large increases in their salaries and had been getting more than they would have been entitled to under Mr. Gupta's award. The Union's allegation that those men also worked as clerks was denied by the bank and no attempt was made by the union to prove the said allegation. The question that arises is, was the bank, therefore, justified in stopping the increments of those 18 men whom they were led to expect them along with the other employees?

It does not, however, appear that these men or the Union were altogether taken by surprise by such stoppage of increments. On 28th November 1947 the Union's Committee of Management resolved to bring certain matters to the notice of these authorities; these included the following:—

"Grades and adjustment.

As there is much difference in the scope of this Bank with that of the Imperial Bank of India, and as there was practically no grade in existence before this movement and as there is no difficulty in fixing and adjusting the salaries here, as was in the case of the Imperial Bank consisting of all the branches within the Province of Assam, Bengal, Bihar, United Provinces, Delhi, Punjab and the North-Western Province, as was intimated to the Authorities, time scale with fixation of grades according to the scale recommended in the award of the Imperial Bank will suit us, since the old clerks, who have already suffered for long long years, should be justly remunerated. As the Authorities did not think it proper to consult the Union or the responsible clerks of the departments, the method of adjustment adopted by the Authorities is not known to us. The following irregularities should be brought to the notice of the Authorities:—

Poddars and Sircars.

(i) On suitable enquiry it has been found that the duties of the abovenamed posts in this Bank are quite different from those of the Imperial Bank. For the well-being of the department they have got to do work of the tellers and clerks too.

(ii) These people come off from respectable families and as such they should be allowed to draw the minimum required for their maintenance. Further recruitments may be filled up in future from amongst the menials if the Bank so desire.

(iii) These people have got great responsibilities in dealing with cash and insufficient salary may undermine their morals which is not desirable.

They should therefore be placed in the Junior Grade at the least.

Tellers.

The heads of the tellers in Cash Department are practically Cashiers in miniature and they should be allowed the Senior Grade."

The grounds urged on behalf of the poddars and sarkars appear to us to be in the nature of considerations in support of a prayer rather than a demand in an industrial dispute, particularly when it is remembered that the Committee began its case regarding "Grades and adjustment" by saying that a time scale in accordance with the Imperial Bank award "will suit us" and when what is stated about poddars and sarkars was by way of pointing out "irregularities" which "should be brought to the notice of the authorities". If there was only a prayer but no such demand as in the essence of an industrial dispute, the contention of the bank that there was no dispute regarding the questions raised by the application of 10th October 1949 a prior to the 13th June 1949 would appear to be correct. In support of this view are the facts that (1) the Union's original statement of demands, dated 3rd August 1949, contained no mention of any grievance specifically regarding these men, (2) the application of 10th October 1949 was made orally and (3) on 1st December 1949 Mr. M. Sen on behalf of the Union filed a copy of a "supplementary statement" complaining of the stoppage of increments of the 18 men which the Union had addressed to the Accountant of the bank, no separate application addressed to the Tribunal being filed at any time.

It seems to us that although the bank introduced revised grades and adjustment in September 1946 and February 1947 it intimated to the staff as early as 19th February 1947 its intention to follow the Imperial Bank of India award and that, therefore, after the publication of the said award its action in further revising the scale of pay, etc., in accordance with it cannot be said to be unjustified or to have been an unfair baulking of expectations legitimately aroused. In this view we are unable to hold that any of the 18 men have been victimised by the bank. Their work is not the same as that of clerks and in our main award we have accepted the view of Mr. Gupta that they do not deserve the same scales of pay as those who do regular clerical work. By the earlier revision they admittedly got substantial increases in their salaries; and if thereafter they did not get the same advantage as the clerks under the terms of the Imperial Bank of India award which was applied (without the Union's opposition), it cannot, in our opinion, be said that they have any valid complaint. Accordingly we must reject the application of the Union on behalf of these men. We much observe, however, that the bank has all along maintained no distinction between them and the clerical staff until the publication of Mr. Gupta's award. In the circumstances we feel that we should be justified in recommending that if any of them are found to be competent to be promoted to the clerical grade, particularly those who have served for a sufficiently long period (e.g., 10 years), they should be given the benefit of such promotion.

Various demands were made against these banks by the Bengal Provincial Bank Employees' Association, most of which are covered by the issues mentioned in Schedule II of the Order, dated the 13th June 1949, appointing this Tribunal which we shall refer to as General Issues. The banks and their employees have agreed that it would not be necessary to make a separate award in respect of such issues and that they will be bound by our award on those issues under the reference made by Order No. L.R. 2(212), dated the 13th June 1949. The only demands which are not covered by these issues are, therefore, considered in this award and they are in respect of the Issue Nos. 5, 15, and 19(3)(a), 19(3)(c) and 19(3)(d) as framed by the Mercantile Tribunal.

Issue No. 5 relates to canteen and tiffin, Issue No. 15 to uniforms and umbrellas for menials in which all the banks and their employees are interested. Issue No. 19(3)(a), in which only the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China and their employees are interested, relates to bonus for the years 1944 to 1945. Issue No. 19(3)(c) relates to the question whether widows and orphans of ex-Indian employees should receive the same benefits as are received by those of ex-European employees. Issue No. 19(3)(d), in which only the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China and their employees are interested, relates to provisions for a library and club-room and an annual grant therefor.

As to Issue No. 5, viz., canteen and tiffin Shri J. K. Dutt, appearing for the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation Employees, demands accommodation and cooking materials, viz., a stove and utensils and if they are not available, charcoal and a cook and an allowance of Rs. 2 per diem for each employee above the clerical grade and Re. 1 for clerical grade employees and As. 8 for subordinates. Shri Banerjee, appearing for the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China employees, does not claim any special room or utensils but claims a diem allowance in the same manner as the employees of the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation. Shri Bhattacharjee for the employees of the National Bank of India also does not claim any accommodation but claims an allowance. Shri Pravat Kar, appearing for the Staff Association of Lloyds Bank, wants bigger accommodation and utensils and "other facilities" as also an allowance, but he has not given particulars of the "other facilities" demanded. Having regard to the different claims put forward by the employees of the different banks, we think that it is not necessary to give special directions in each case but we should give one direction, viz., that where a canteen exists it should continue and that elsewhere, where the head office or branch has 25 employees or more including the subordinate staff, the bank shall provide a room with necessary furniture where the employees may have their lunch. Beyond this we are not prepared to give any other direction.

As to Issue No. 15, which relates to uniforms and umbrellas, the demand is for one winter uniform in two years and two summar uniforms annually and expenses for their cleaning and one umbrella each year. Shri Mullick, appearing on behalf of the banks, stated that the expenses for cleaning are paid and that uniforms and umbrellas are given by the bank as and when required. We shall deal with the expenses for washing charges in our main award and, therefore, we do not propose to deal with it here. We consider the demand for uniforms to be moderate and we, therefore, direct that uniforms as demanded shall be supplied to the staff and that if they become unserviceable during the period they are intended for they shall be replaced. We do not approve of the rule for the supply of umbrellas to the employees as and when required. It may so happen that only those who are insistent on their demand are supplied with the umbrellas but that those that are not so forward or are not conscious of their right to demand them suffer from inconveniences. We, therefore, direct that those members of the staff who have to do outdoor work shall be supplied with an umbrella each once in two years, but that if it becomes unserviceable during such period a new umbrella shall be supplied.

Issue No. 19(3)(a) relates to the bonus for the years 1944 to 1946 and the dispute concerning it is between the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China and its employees. For the workmen it is contended that bonus has been paid by the bank at 10 per cent. of a year's basic wages for the years 1942, 1943, 1947 and 1948; and in Bombay Divatia J. awarded bonus for 1946 at the rate of one month's basic wages by an award, dated the 19th December 1947. The bank stated in those proceedings that after 1943 bonus had been discontinued as in the later years of the war a number of its branches had fallen into the enemy's hands and there had been losses the extent of which had not been ascertained. Mr. Beynon on behalf of the bank has contended that as the Tribunal has not been giving relief claimed in respect of periods earlier than 1947 the demands for 1944 and 1945 at least should not be granted, the accounts for these years having been closed. It is also denied that any bonus was paid in the years prior to 1944 except 1941 when a 10 per cent. bonus was paid. As against this Shri Phadke has pointed out that on the 20th December 1944 a special bonus of 10 per cent. was paid to the European officers and that on the 4th February 1946 a special cost of living allowance at the rate of 10 per cent. of the annual salaries drawn in 1945 was given to the same officers.

With regard to the years 1944 and 1945 the following facts appear to be relevant. No demand in respect of these years was made before Divatia J. and it seems that none was made prior to the appointment of the "Mercantile Tribunal" at Calcutta; and a point regarding the Tribunal's jurisdiction with regard to the demands for those years appears to have been empressly raised by the bank in its supplementary written statement. This seems to be confirmed by a communication, dated the 6th/8th December 1947, addressed by the employees' Union at Calcutta to the Bank. That communication contained a copy of the resolution passed by its Committee of Management on the 28th November 1947. The said resolution contained a large number of demands regarding scales of pay, adjustment of existing "irregularities", dearness allowance, leave rules, provident fund, etc. Then followed certain matters like recognition of the Union, registration of the provident fund, bonus, tiffin allowances, etc., about which it was stated that they "should also be considered". One of those items was, "Immediate payment of bonus or allowances as received by the Imperial Bank of India (25 per cent.) or the National Bank of India, Limited (20 per cent. of the salary) since July, 1946". Besides, the bank's contention that in the closing year of the war it suffered losses owing to a number of its branches falling into the enemy's hands has not been controverted. During 1941 to 1945 the bank could not pay a dividend greater than 5 per cent., whereas in previous years it had been between 10 per cent. to 20½ per cent. Apart, therefore, from the question of jurisdiction and the practice of this Tribunal with regard to claims arising long ago, it does not appear to us that it can be said that the employees have established their claim for bonus in respect of the years 1944 and 1945. It is to be noted that in those two years the dearness allowance, which was 20 per cent. of the salary with a minimum of Rs. 10 or Rs. 15 in 1943, was raised to 30 per cent. of the salary with a minimum of Rs. 22-8. As regards 1946, Divatia J. went into the question of the bank's global accounts and from the balance sheets found it established that a bonus equivalent to one month's basic wages could be legitimately claimed in respect of that year. For that year several Indian banks gave very handsome bonus, none (except the Hindustan Commercial Bank) giving less than two months' salary.

We direct that for 1946 a bonus at the rate of one month's basic pay shall be paid by the bank in respect of its branches in West Bengal subject to the following conditions:—

(1) The total bonus due shall be paid in one or two instalments within 2 months from the publication of this award.

(2) It shall also be paid to persons who worked in 1946 though they may no longer be in the service of the bank provided that they submit their claims in writing within three months of the publication of the award, whereupon the total amount due to such a person shall be paid within two months of such application.

(3) If a person has not worked throughout the period in respect of which the bonus is directed to be paid, the amount payable to him shall bear the same proportion to the full bonus as the number of days he has worked bear to the total number of working days in the year.

(4) In the case of women who have been on maternity leave during the period, the actual maternity allowance drawn by them shall be included in their earning for the purposes of calculating bonus paid.

We now take up the Issues Nos. 19(3)(c) and 19(3)(d) which concern only the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China and their employees. As to Issue No. 19(3)(c) the bank's objections are:—

The employees are not entitled to press this demand because the Mercantile Tribunal called upon them to prove that there was a dispute regarding this issue before May 1948 and the employees failed to do so, so that it must be held that there is no dispute in existence on this issue;

it is not at all an industrial dispute inasmuch as it amounts to a claim for compensation to the widows and orphans of deceased employees, which is not covered by the definition:

the fund out of which the widows and orphans of the ex-European employees are paid is in England and the rules and regulations are in England and meant for the English officers of the Bank's English office. The conditions of service of the employees here do not entitle them to make this demand.

Shri Banerjee, appearing on behalf of the employees, has not controverted this point. He has not made it clear whether the benefits to the widows and orphans of the ex-India employees should come out of the existing fund which is in England or that a new fund should be created on the lines of the existing fund for the benefits of widows and orphans of the ex-Indian employees. We are not inclined to direct the payment of the benefits claimed out of the existing fund, but if the employees desire to have a new fund on the same lines as are meant for the English officers of the English Banks, we would recommend the proposal to the bank for its sympathetic consideration.

Item No. 19(3)(d) is for a library, a club room and an annual grant therefor. Shri Banerjee states that a library is necessary because the employees of banks sometimes appear at the banking examinations and for that purpose they require books and they can utilise their leisure time by reading books. His case is that the National Bank of India has got a club and a library and so the employees of this bank also must have one. Shri Mullick, on behalf of the bank, states that this demand had not been made anywhere, but that when the issue was framed by the Tribunal it was wrongly stated by the employees that the demand was in their statement of claims and that on that footing the issue was framed. This appear to be correct. We do not think that there are sufficient grounds to justify the demand and as such we do not make any order.

With regard to the other demands, which we have already mentioned are covered by the general issues the provisions of our award in the dispute referred to us by the order of the 13th June 1949, so far as they relate to such demand, will apply.

PART V—Acts of the Parliament of India assented to by the President and Ordinances promulgated by the President.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

Ministry of Law.

THE SUPPLY AND PRICES OF GOODS ORDINANCE, 1950.

No. XXVI OF 1950.

An Ordinance to provide, in pursuance of a resolution under article 249 of the Constitution, for the control of prices of certain goods, and the supply and distribution thereof.

WHEREAS Parliament is not in session and the President is satisfied that circumstances exist which render it necessary for him to take immediate action;

NOW, THEREFORE, in exercise of the powers conferred by clause (1) of article 123 of the Constitution, the President is pleased to promulgate the following Ordinance:—

1. Short title, extent and commencement.—(1) This Ordinance may be called the Supply and Prices of Goods Ordinance, 1950.

(2) It extends to the whole of India except the State of Jammu and Kashmir.

(3) It shall come into force at once.

2. Definitions.—(1) In this Ordinance, unless the context otherwise requires,—

(a) "dealer" means a person carrying on the business of selling any goods, whether wholesale or retail;

(b) "goods" means goods to which this Ordinance applies;

(c) "notified order" means an order notified in the Official Gazette;

(d) "offer for safe" includes an intimation by a person of the price proposed by him for a sale of any goods made by the publication of a price list, by exposing his goods for sale in association with a mark indicating price, by the furnishing of a quotation or otherwise howsoever;

(e) "prescribed" means prescribed by rules made under this Ordinance;

(f) "producer" includes a manufacturer.

(2) A person shall be deemed to be in possession of goods—

(i) when they are held on behalf of that person by another person;

(ii) notwithstanding that they are mortgaged to another person.

3. Goods to which this Ordinance applies.—Subject to the provisions contained in section 10, this Ordinance applies to the goods specified in the Schedule and to such other goods as the Central Government may, by notified order, specify in this behalf.

4. Fixing of maximum prices and maximum quantities which may be held or sold.—(1) The Central Government may, by notified order, fix in respect of any goods—

(a) the maximum price or rate which may be charged by a dealer or producer;

(b) the maximum quantity which may at any one time be possessed by a dealer or producer;

(c) the maximum quantity which may in one transaction be sold to any person.

(2) Any such order may—

(a) fix maximum prices or rates and maximum quantities for the same description of goods differently in different localities or for different classes of dealers or producers;

(b) instead of specifying the maximum price or rate to be charged, direct that that price or rate shall be computed in such manner and by reference to such matters as may be provided by the order.

5. Restrictions on possession and sale by dealers and producers where maximum is fixed under section 4.—(1) No dealer or producer shall—

(a) sell or agree to sell or offer for sale to any person any goods for a price or at a rate exceeding the maximum fixed by notification under clause (a) of sub-section (1) of section 4.

(b) have in his possession at any one time a quantity of any goods exceeding the maximum fixed under clause (b) of sub-section (1) of section 4, unless he has reported the fact of such possession to the Central Government or to the officer appointed in that behalf as required by section 7; or

(c) sell or agree to sell or offer for sale to any person in any one transaction a quantity of any goods exceeding the maximum fixed by notification under clause (c) of sub-section (1) of section 4.

(2) Where any goods are sold, agreed to be sold or offered for sale in contravention of sub-section (1) by a dealer or producer through any person employed by him or acting on his behalf, such person and also, unless he proves that he exercised due diligence to prevent such contravention, the dealer or producer, as the case may be, shall be liable to the punishment provided by sub-section (1) of section 14.

(3) Where a dealer or producer disposes of any goods by having them sold by auction on his behalf, the autioneer, as well as the dealer or producer, shall be liable to the punishment provided by sub-section (1) of section 14, if in any such sale there is a contravention of clause (c) of sub-section (1).

6. General limitation of quantity which may be possessed at any one time.—(1) No person shall have in his possession at any one time a greater quantity of any goods to which this section applies than the quantity necessary for the reasonable needs of himself and his family for the prescribed period, unless he has reported the fact of such possession to the Central Government or to the officer appointed in that behalf as required by section 7:

Provided that nothing contained in this sub-section shall apply—

(a) to a dealer in respect of any goods sold or purchased by him in the course of his business, or

(b) to a producer in respect of any goods produced by him.

(2) For the purposes of this section, the Central Government may prescribe the circumstances and matters which shall be taken into account in determining the reasonable needs of any person, and may prescribe different periods for different areas or for different classes of goods.

(3) This section shall apply only to such goods as the Central Government may, by notified order, specify in this behalf.

7. Duty to declare possession of excess stocks.—Any person having in his possession a quantity of any goods exceeding that permitted by or under this Ordinance shall forthwith report the fact to the Central Government or to any officer appointed by it in this behalf and shall take such action as to the storage, distribution or disposal of the excess quantity as may be prescribed or as the Central Government or such officer may direct.

8. Holding of stocks.—(1) If any dealer has in his possession in the course of his business a stock of any goods and the said dealer or any person employed by him to sell goods in the course of his business, when asked by any other person (hereafter in this section referred to as "the buyer") to sell goods of that description or whether he or his employer has such goods for sale—

(i) refuses to sell the goods, or denies that he or his employer has the goods, or by words or conduct intentionally causes the buyer to believe that he or his employer has not got the goods or will not or cannot sell them; or

(ii) offers to sell the goods subject to a condition requiring the buying of any other goods or subject to any other condition except the condition that the buyer shall pay the price forthwith or take delivery within a reasonable time, the dealer carrying on the business shall be guilty of an offence under this Ordinance.

(2) It shall be a defence for a person charged with any such offence to prove that the sale of the goods or the sale thereof without the fulfilment of the condition proposed by him, would, having regard to the quantity of goods which he or that person was requested to sell or any other consideration—

(a) be contrary to the normal practice of his business; or

(b) involve a breach of some obligation lawfully binding on him; or

(c) interfere with arrangements made by him for an orderly disposal of his stock among his regular customers.

9. Cash memorandum to be given of certain sales.—(1) Every dealer or producer, when selling goods for cash shall, if the amount of the purchase is rupees ten or more, in all cases, and if the amount of the purchase is less than rupees ten, when so required by the purchaser, give to the purchaser a cash memorandum containing particulars of the transaction.

(2) The Central Government may prescribe the particulars to be contained in any such cash memorandum.

(3) The Central Government may, by notified order, exempt specified areas, classes of dealers or producers, or goods or classes of goods from the operation of this section.

10. Marking of prices and exhibiting price lists and stocks.—(1) The Central Government may direct dealers or producers in general, or any dealer or producer or class of dealers or producers in particular, to mark goods exposed or intended for sale with the sale prices or to exhibit at some easily accessible place on the premises price lists of goods held for sale and also to similarly exhibit on the first day of every month, or at such other intervals as may be prescribed, a statement of the total quantities of any such goods held in stock, and may further give directions as to the manner in which any such direction as aforesaid is to be carried out.

(2) No dealer shall destroy or efface or alter or cause to be destroyed, effaced or altered, any label or mark affixed—

(a) to any goods in pursuance of a direction under sub-section (1), or

(b) to any goods and indicating the price marked by a producer.

(3) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 3, the Central Government may, by notified order, declare that the provisions of this section shall also apply to any goods other than those to which this Ordinance applies within the meaning of that section.

11. Obligation to state prices separately on composite offer.—Where a dealer or producer makes an offer to enter into a transaction for a consideration to be given as a whole in respect of both of a sale of any goods and of some other matter, the dealer or producer making the offer shall state in writing the price which he assigns to the goods, if he is required so to do by any person to whom the offer is made, and the offer shall be deemed for the purposes of this Ordinance to be an offer to sell the goods at the price so stated.

12. Prohibition of closure of shops.—No dealer in any goods shall keep his shop closed with the intention of avoiding the regular sale of such goods and thereby obtaining a higher price for the goods at a later date.

13. Power to regulate production and distribution of goods.—The Central Government may, by order in writing,—

(a) prohibit the disposal of any goods except in such circumstances and under such conditions as may be specified in the order;

(b) direct the sale of the whole or a specified part of the stock of any goods at such prices and to such persons or class of persons or in such circumstances as may be specified in the order;

(c) regulate by licences, permits or otherwise the production, supply, storage, transport, distribution, use or consumption of any goods.

14. Penalties.—(1) Any person who contravenes any of the provisions of this Ordinance, or of any orders or rules made thereunder, shall, if no other punishment is specified therefor in this Ordinance, be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine, or with both:

Provided that where the person is guilty of an offence under section 8, the court shall sentence him to imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years, and may in addition impose a sentence of fine.

(2) Any person who fails to comply with any directions made under authority conferred by this Ordinance shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one year, or with fine, or with both.

(3) A court convicting any person of an offence punishable under this Ordinance may order that the goods in respect of which the offence has been committed or a specified part thereof shall be forfeited to the Government.

15. Offences by Corporation.—(1) Where any person contravening any of the provisions of this Ordinance or of any order or direction made thereunder is a company or other body corporate, every person, who, during the relevant period, was in charge of, and was responsible to the company or other body corporate during that period for the conduct of the business of, the establishment in or in relation to which the contravention has taken place, as well as the company or other body corporate, shall be deemed to be guilty of such contravention and shall be liable to be proceeded against and punished accordingly:

Provided that nothing contained in this sub-section shall render any person so in charge or responsible liable to any punishment provided in this Ordinance, if he proves that the contravention took place without his knowledge or that he exercised all due diligence to prevent such contravention.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in sub-section (1), where any offence under this Ordinance or any order or direction made thereunder has been committed by a company or other body corporate and it is proved that the offence has been committed with the consent or connivance of, or is attributable to any neglect on the part of, any director, manager, secretary or other officer of the company or other body corporate, such director, manager, secretary or other officer shall also be deemed to be guilty of that offence and shall be liable to be proceeded against and shall be punished accordingly.

16. Powers of search and seizure.—(1) For the purpose of enforcing the provisions of this Ordinance, the Central Government may, by general or special order, authorise any officer not below the rank of an inspector of police—

(a) to enter and search any premises, vehicles, vessels or aircraft occupied for the purpose of the business in any goods or where any such goods may be found;

(b) to seize any goods in respect of which he has reason to believe that an offence under this Ordinance has been committed and thereafter to take all such measures as may be necessary for securing the production of such goods in court.

(2) If any person obstructs an officer in the exercise of the powers conferred upon him by this section he shall be punishable with imprisonment which may extend to six months, or with fine, or with both.

17. Procedure.—No offence punishable under this Ordinance shall be inquired into by any person below the rank of an inspector of police, and no prosecution for any such offence shall be instituted except with the previous sanction of the Central Government, or of an officer not below the rank of a district magistrate empowered by the Central Government to grant such sanction.

18. Summary trials.—(1) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 260 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898 (Act V of 1898), a magistrate empowered to act under that section may try any offence punishable under this Ordinance in a summary way under the provisions of Chapter XXII of the said Code, and shall so try any such offence unless he is of opinion that in the event of the offence being proved a sentence which he is empowered under that Chapter to impose would be insufficient.

(2) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 362 of the said Code, a presidency magistrate trying an offence punishable under this Ordinance shall not record the evidence or frame a charge unless he is of opinion that in the event of the offence being proved a sentence against which, in accordance with the provisions of sections 404 and 411 of the said Code no appeal lies, would be insufficient:

Provided that, where at any subsequent stage of a trial commenced in accordance with this sub-section, it appears to the presidency magistrate that in the event of the offence being proved such sentence as aforesaid would be insufficient, he shall recall any witnesses who may have been examined and proceed to re-hear the case in the manner provided in the said section 362 for a case in which an appeal lies.

(3) Notwithstanding anything contained in section 526 of the said Code, no decision of a court to try any offence punishable under this Ordinance otherwise than in the summary manner provided by this section shall be a valid ground on which to make an application under that section.

19. Accounts and information.—(1) The Central Government may direct any dealer or producer to keep such books, accounts and other records in relation to all sale and purchase transactions entered into by him as it thinks fit.

(2) The Central Government may direct a dealer or producer—

(a) to produce to, and allow to be examined by, a person specified in this behalf such books, accounts or other documents in the custody or under the control of the person so required as may be specified or described in the direction being documents relating to the transactions or business the examination of which may be required for the purpose of this Ordinance; and

(b) to furnish to a person so specified such information as respects the transaction or business as may be required for the purposes of this Ordinance or such other information as may be in his possession in relation to the business carried on by another person.

(3) The Central Government may, by notified order, issue to all dealers and producers of a specified class a direction such as is referred to in sub-section (1) or in clause (a) of sub-section (2).

20. Restriction on disclosure of information.—(1) No information with respect to any particular business which has been obtained under this Ordinance shall, without the consent of the person carrying on that business, be disclosed otherwise than in connection with the execution of this Ordinance:

Provided that nothing in this section shall apply to a disclosure of information made for the purpose of any criminal proceedings which may be taken whether by virtue of this Ordinance or otherwise, or for the purposes of any other law for the time being in force.

(2) If any person discloses any information in contravention of the provisions of this section he shall be punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or with fine, or with both.

21. Power to exempt.—The Central Government may, by notified order, exempt any person or any goods or class of goods from all or any of the provisions of this Ordinance or of any order made thereunder.

22. Delegation of powers.—The Central Government may, by notified order, direct that any power exercisable by it under this Ordinance (except the power given to it under section 3) shall, in relation to such matters and subject to such conditions, if any, as may be specified in the direction, be exercisable also by such officer or authority subordinate to the Central Government, or by such State Government, or such officer or authority subordinate to a State Government, as may be specified in the direction.

23. Power to issue directions to State Governments.—The Central Government may give directions to any State Government as to the carrying into execution in the State of any of the provisions of this Ordinance or of any order or direction made thereunder.

24. Bar of legal proceedings.—No suit, prosecution or other legal proceeding shall lie against any person for anything which is in good faith done or intended to be done under this Ordinance.

25. Saving of other laws.—The provisions of this Ordinance shall be in addition to, and not in derogation of, any other law for the time being in force regulating the keeping, searching, distribution, disposal or price of goods.

26. Power to make rules.—(1) The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, make rules for the purpose of carrying out the objects of this Ordinance.

(2) In particular, and without prejudice to the generality of the foregoing power, such rules may provide for all or any of the following matters, namely:—

(a) the matters referred to in sub-section (2) of section 6;

(b) the particulars to be contained in any cash memorandum under section 9;

(c) the manner in which prices may be marked on goods and price lists exhibited;

PART VI—Bills introduced in Parliament of India; Reports of Select Committees presented to Parliament; and Bills published before introduction in Parliament.

PARLIAMENT OF INDIA.

The following Bill was introduced in Parliament on the 1st August, 1950:—

BILL* No. 42 OF 1950.

A Bill to amend the Indian Finance Act, 1949 and the Finance Act, 1950.

BE it enacted by Parliament as follows:—

1. Short title.—This Act may be called the Finance Laws (Amendment) Act, 1950.

2. Amendment of Third Schedule, Act XIV of 1949.—In the Indian Finance Act, 1949 (XIV of 1949), in sub-clauses (a) and (b) of clause (i) of the proviso to paragraph A of Part I of the Third Schedule, for the words "entitled to a share on partition", the words "entitled to claim partition" shall be substituted and shall be deemed always to have been substituted.

3. Amendment of First Schedule, Act XXV of 1950.—In the Finance Act, 1950 (XXV of 1950), in sub-clauses (a) and (b) of clause (i) of the proviso to paragraph A of Part I of the First Schedule, for the words "entitled to a share on partition", the words "entitled to claim partition" shall be substituted and shall be deemed always to have been substituted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

For the purposes of assessment to income-tax, a Hindu undivided family was being treated since 1939 just as an "individual". In 1949, the exemption limit was raised to Rs. 5,000 in the case of every Hindu undivided family which consisted of at least two adult co-parceners or of at least two branches, the qualifying phrase used in the Finance Act, 1949, being "entitled to a share on partition". In the Finance Act, 1950, the exemption limit was raised from Rs. 5,000 to Rs. 7,200 subject to the satisfaction of the same conditions.

*The President has, in pursuance of clause (1) of Article 117 and clause (1) of Article 274 of the Constitution of India, recommended the introduction of the Bill.

It has now been found that according to a literal interpretation of the wording employed in the Finance Acts, 1949 and 1950, the benefit of the higher exemption limit could be claimed by a family consisting of a husband, wife and minor son, since the wife, though she cannot claim partition, is, according to Hindu law, entitled to a share on partition, should partition take place at any time between the father and the minor son. It was never the intention that such a family should get the benefit of the higher exemption limit in any State. The Bill proposes to make an amendment with a view to remedying the defect in the wording of the Finance Acts, 1949 and 1950.

AWARD.

By Government of West Bengal, Department of Labour, order No. 1126-Lab., dated the 8th March 1950, these industrial disputes over the questions relating to (1) dearness allowance and (2) holidays and leave, between 64 specified engineering firms and their workmen represented by the Engineering Workers' Federation, Bengal, 115E, Dharamtolla Street, Calcutta, the Iron Factory Workers' Union, 3/1, Kali Banerji Lane, Howrah, and the trade unions mentioned against some firms have been referred for adjudication to the Industrial Tribunal consisting of us as Chairman and Member, respectively. The order of reference makes it clear that besides the trade unions specifically mentioned therein it would be open to the Industrial Tribunal to permit other registered trade unions to represent the workmen of particular firms separately for legitimate reasons. The names of certain Unions were deleted subsequently in consequence of corrigendum orders issued by Government order No. 2482-Lab., dated 15th May 1950, and order No. 2945Lab., dated 3rd June 1950. At the instance of representatives of workmen we permitted certain registered trade unions to represent the workmen of some particular firms. The Engineering Workers' Federation represented the workmen of many firms in actual practice at the hearing. The Iron Factory Workers' Union similarly represented the workmen of certain other firms. Some Unions whose members were clerical employees, particularly at the head offices of the firms concerned, applied for exemption from the scope of the present adjudication proceedings on the ground that they were already satisfied with their conditions of service. We made it a rule that such applications would be allowed in cases where the employers agreed to such procedure. Following this rule we granted exemption to certain Unions with clerical employees and head office staff as members. The list of 64 engineering firms and the individual trade unions as per the schedule appended to the order of reference as corrected by the corrigendum orders is shown in the Appendix below this award. The Unions which were deleted in accordance with subsequent corrigendum orders issued by Government or Unions which were excluded by this Tribunal for legitimate reasons have not been shown in the Appendix. The Unions which were not mentioned in the schedule to the order of reference but which were permitted by this Tribunal for legitimate reasons to represent the workmen of individual firms have been shown in the Appendix, and the names of such Unions have been put in curved brackets. The Unions, the members of which have been exempted wholly or in part by this Tribunal from the operation of this award, have been put in square brackets with the word "exempted" added. In a case where particular categories of members of the Union have been exempted, only the categories concerned have been noted as exempted, indicating that the other categories of members of the Union have not been exempted. It must be clearly understood that members of such Unions or particular categories of such members marked in the manner indicated above shall not be governed by our present award. The vast majority of the firms were represented before us by the Indian Engineering Association or the Engineering Association of India. Hindusthan Motors, Ltd. (serial No. 1 in the Appendix) and Goodman & Co. (serial No. 38) did not make any appearance before this Tribunal. But they shall be governed by this award all the same. B. N. Chatterjee & Sons (serial No. 28) was not represented by either of the Associations and made a separate appearance and presented its case separately. We have dealt with this firm separately in this award and it will not be governed by the general award. Ford Motor Co. of India, Ltd. (serial No. 59) made a separate appearance and presented its case separately and pressed for an early award. We heard the case of Ford Motor Co. of India, Ltd., separately and have already given a separate award which has been published by Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, order No. 3434Lab., dated 24th June 1950 (Calcutta Gazette of 29th June 1950). The firm Ford Motor Co. of India, Ltd., and their workmen shall be governed by that separate award and not by our present general award.

2. After having thus made a general survey of the parties to the disputes we are dealing with, we may now proceed to discuss briefly the manner in which they have presented their case before us and the antecedents of the present disputes. By Government of West Bengal order No. 716Lab., dated the 31st October 1947, industrial disputes between the employers of 119 specified engineering firms and their workmen were referred for adjudication to an Industrial Tribunal presided over by Sri S. K. Sen, I.C.S. With a few exceptions, the 64 engineering firms concerned in the adjudication proceedings before us were involved in the adjudication proceedings before the previous Tribunal. The issues raised before the previous Tribunal were of a comprehensive nature, and apart from the questions of "dearness allowance" and "holidays and leave", which are the only two items referred to the present Tribunal, there were many other items of dispute of the usual varieties which were agitated before the previous Tribunal. The award of the previous Tribunal was published by Government of West Bengal order No. 2161Lab., dated the 30th June 1948. The issues of "dearness allowance" and "holidays and leave" were dealt with as issue No. 2 and 9, respectively by the previous Tribunal. Broadly speaking, the award of the previous Tribunal regarding the several issues including the questions of "dearness allowance" and "holidays and leave" was operative for one year with effect from 1st April 1948. The period of operation of the previous award, therefore, expired after the 31st March 1949. It appears that shortly after the expiry of the period of operation of the previous award, disputes began to arise in different concerns of the engineering industry in West Bengal. Eventually Government decided to refer the disputes in respect of the two specific issues to the present Tribunal for adjudication.

The Unions before us have generally characterised the previous award regarding dearness allowance as unsatisfactory and have put forward a plea for raising the scales of dearness allowance so as to cover fully the gap between the present-day cost of living and the basic wages actually being paid. By way of instances of the nature of the demands made in respect of dearness allowance, we may mention the following: The Engineering Workers' Federation, Bengal, has demanded that the rate of dearness allowance should be fixed so as to cover the rise in the price index number and a system of dearness allowance to the extent of 90 per cent. of the basic wages up to the first Rs. 100, 45 per cent. of the basic wages for the second Rs. 100 and 22½ per cent. for the rest, subject to a minimum of Rs. 50 per month, should be introduced, on the basis of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce scheme and the Central Pay Commission's report. Iron Factory Workers' Union has demanded that dearness allowance is to be paid either at the rate of Rs. 2-8 for every rise of 10 points in the cost of living index number over and above 160 points taking the year 1939 as the base year, or according to the Bengal Chamber of Commerce dearness allowance rules, whichever is higher. The other Unions have made demands more or less of a similar nature. Most of the Unions have contended that dearness allowance should be linked with the rise and fall in the cost of living index figures. There has been a general demand that the clerical staff, particularly of the head offices, should be placed on the level of Bengal Chamber of Commerce scheme. Some Unions have demanded that all members of the clerical staff, whether attached to the factory, or the factory office or the head office, should be placed on that level. Some Unions have demanded that there should be no discrimination between clerical employees and skilled manual employees. Some Unions again have gone further and demanded that there should be no discrimination between workmen and workmen and all employees, whether clerical or manual, skilled or unskilled, should be placed on the same level as regards dearness allowance, that is to say, on the level of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce scheme. As regards the question of holidays and leave, the last award provided for 22 days' leave inclusive of holidays for the manual employees and 21 days' privilege leave and 7 days' casual leave with full pay in a year for the clerical staff and the supervisory staff. The last award also made a provision for 15 days' sick leave on half pay in a year. The Unions have generally characterised these conditions of service relating to holidays and leave as unsatisfactory and have made large demands in respect of privilege leave, casual leave, sick leave and also holidays. The details with regard to the demand in respect of the two issues will be discussed at the appropriate stage.

The engineering firms have generally repudiated the contention of the Unions urging substantial enhancement of dearness allowance and betterment of the conditions of service regarding holidays and leave. The case of the vast majority of the engineering firms, as put forward in the joint written statement submitted by the Indian Engineering Association and the Engineering Association of India, is to the effect that both the questions raised before the present Tribunal were fully and adequately dealt with by the previous Tribunal and as there has, since the issue of the previous award, been no change in the circumstances which would justify an alteration in the terms of the previous award to any extent, the present Tribunal would not be justified in making any change whatever. The Engineering Associations have laid stress on what they call a fairly well-established principle in industrial adjudications, that principle being that an award once given, particularly on problems like dearness allowance and holidays and leave, should not be altered by a subsequent Tribunal unless it can be established to its satisfaction either that there has been a marked change in the circumstances on which the previous Tribunal based its award, or that in making that award any important factors were not taken into consideration by the previous Tribunal. It has been generally contended on behalf of the engineering firms that their economic position is not more favourable than what it was during the previous adjudication proceedings in 1948, and from certain points of view their economic position may be said to have become worse owing to loss of trade caused by various factors. It has also been contended on behalf of the firms that even though the cost of living may have increased to some extent in recent times, the scale of dearness allowance should not be increased, as such a step would not be ultimately helpful to the employees themselves, apart from the position that the firms being generally in an unsound economic position would not be able to bear any increased burden in respect of cost of labour. Apart from the general written statement submitted by the Engineering Associations on behalf of the vast majority of the firms with which we are concerned, some of the firms submitted separate written statements in reply to particular demands made by the Unions concerned. We first heard the different Unions with regard to the general demands relating to the two issues, and then we heard the spokesmen of the two Engineering Associations on behalf of the majority of the firms. We then proceeded to hear the particular grievances of certain individual Unions and we also heard the replies of the individual firms concerned. Apart from the case of B. N. Chatterjee & Sons (serial No. 28 of the Appendix), we did not examine the balance sheets or profit and loss accounts of the individual firms, as we conceived our task in the present adjudication proceeding to be to lay down the minimum standards to be followed by all the firms irrespective of their individual capacity to bear the burdens of extra expenditure. We shall now proceed to discuss the principles governing our approach to the problems involved in the two issues of "dearness allowance" and "holidays and leave" in relation to the previous award.

3. As already noticed in the preceding paragraph, the written statement submitted by the Indian Engineering Association and the Engineering Association of India refers to what is called a fairly well-established principle in industrial adjudications that an award once given, particularly on fundamental problems such as dearness allowance and leave, should not be altered by a subsequent Tribunal unless it can be established to its satisfaction either that there has been a marked change in the circumstances on which the previous Tribunal based its award or that in making that award any important factors were not taken into consideration by the previous Tribunal. The proposition laid down in the above terms by the two Engineering Associations has been strongly contested on behalf of the Unions. Our attention has been particularly drawn on behalf of the Engineering Workers' Federation to the observations made by the majority of the Tribunal in connection with the industrial dispute between the Corporation of Calcutta and their employees as per paragraph 4 of the majority award published by Government of West Bengal order No. 2783-Lab., dated the 29th May 1950 (Calcutta Gazette, dated the 31st May 1950), and also to the observations made by one of us (Sri A. Das Gupta) under points Nos. 1 and 2 in his award in connection with the industrial disputes between Burmah Shell Oil Storage and Distributing Co. of India, Ltd., and 3 other oil companies and their workers as per Government of West Bengal order No. 462Lab., dated the 30th January 1950. The Calcutta Corporation Tribunal was presided over by the Chairman of the present Tribunal and while he and another member (Sri P. K. Sarkar) gave the majority award, a third member (Sri P. R. Mukherji) wrote a minute of dissent dealing particularly with the legal aspect of the principles relating to change of circumstances. As we see that this very important matter has been the subject of some amount of controversy, we consider it extremely important to give our deepest thoughts to the whole question and come to a definite opinion of our own supported by cogent reasons. In paragraph 4 of the Calcutta Corporation award the majority of the Judges of the Tribunal reviewed certain observations of Sir H. B. Divatia in his award in the dispute between the Bombay Electric Supply and Tramways Co., Ltd., and its non-scheduled employees, published in the Bombay Labour Gazette, paragraph 482, at page 488, and also certain observations made by Mr. F. Jeejeebhoy of the Central Government Industrial Tribunal, Dhanbad, in the case of Tinplate Company of India, Ltd., Golmuri, Jamshedpur, published on page 1 of the Bihar Gazette, Extraordinary, dated 14th March 1949. In the Bombay Electric Supply and Tramways case, the learned adjudicator has observed, among other things, as follows: "Without going so far as to say that the employees are barred by res judicata, any demands which are made before me and are covered by any decision in the previous adjudication cannot be proceeded with now, unless the employees prove any change of circumstances after the previous decision. If there has been no change of circumstances, the mere ground that the previous adjudicator had not granted a demand would not, in my opinion, justify the employees in repeating the same demand before a new adjudicator to sit in judgment over the decision of another adjudicator. On principle one adjudicator should not change the previous award without proof of any new or altered circumstances". These observations seem to involve the idea that before the terms of a previous award can be changed the employees have got to allege a change of circumstances since the previous award and have got to discharge an initial onus of proving the change of circumstances alleged. In the Tinplate Company of India case the learned adjudicator has observed among other things, as follows: "It is but a corollary to this concept that the principle of res judicata should apply so that on the same facts and in the same circumstances the issues decided may not be re-tried in fresh proceedings with a view to securing a different decision. .....As I conceive it, an award is final and binding for all times in matters relating to personal rights as for instance victimisation; and an award or agreement of parties on all other matters like wage structure, bonus, amenities, etc., is final and binding until altered by consent of parties or replaced by a fresh award based on change of circumstances". This view emphasises the principle of res judicata in relation to awards given by Industrial Tribunals and stresses the point that a previous award can be changed either by consent of parties or by a fresh award based on change of circumstances. We notice that the majority of the Judges of the Calcutta Corporation Tribunal differed from the above views as regards the legal principles involved and opined that the principle of res judicata should not be invoked in respect of decisions in the awards of Industrial Tribunals, and under certain circumstances an award of a previous Tribunal relating to a particular issue could be changed by a subsequent Tribunal without casting an initial onus of establishing a change of circumstances on the party asking for redress. We also notice that the majority award in the Calcutta Corporation case did not lose sight of the necessity of considering the question of change of circumstances as one of the important factors to be taken into consideration by a subsequent Tribunal, but emphasised the position that the case of the employees should not be thrown out merely for the reason that they have not alleged or have not succeeded in proving a change of circumstances since the last award. We further notice that the learned Judge who wrote a minute of dissent in the Calcutta Corporation case subscribed to the view that a previous award could be altered even without proving a change of circumstances in so far as he expressed the view that a previous award might be altered for the rectification of anomalies in the award that might arise in its practical operation. The question before us is whether it is legal and proper to lay down the definite rule that a previous award cannot be changed unless an initial onus of proving a change of circumstances is adequately discharged. On carefully looking into the matter we have come to the conclusion that it will be neither legal nor proper to lay down any such rule, as we see that although ordinarily a subsequent Tribunal should investigate the question of change of circumstances as one of the important factors to be taken into consideration, no initial onus of proving a change of circumstances should be rigidly cast on the party asking for a change at least in certain types of cases which we are presently going to discuss. The principle of res judicata is specially intended for civil suits. But even in civil suits this principle is not rigidly insisted upon to arrest progress in cases where there is room for progress, e.g., in a rent suit a previous decision about the rate of rent does not operate as res judicata in a subsequent suit. We agree with the learned adjudicators who speak of res judicata and finality of decision that the service conditions laid down in a previous award should not be altered without sufficient justification. With due respect to the learned adjudicators, however, we are unable to persuade ourselves to accept as rigid rules that the principle of res judicata will operate to debar the parties from agitating an issue covered by a previous award or that a change of circumstances is the only ground justifying deviation from the principle of res judicata or that an onus to prove such change of circumstances is to be rigidly placed on the party who wants a revision of the service conditions laid down in a previous award. A change of circumstances is undoubtedly one of the grounds which justifies alteration of the service conditions laid down in a previous award and even in cases where a change of circumstances is apparent the question of onus ceases to have any force.

In our view an award cannot be final and binding for all times in certain types of cases, even though the party asking for a change does not allege any change of circumstances or does not succeed in proving a change of circumstances, even though alleged. In this connection we refer to the following observations in paragraph 4 of the majority award in the Calcutta Corporation case: "It may also happen sometimes that a Tribunal proceeds cautiously in imposing economic burdens on an industrial unit, and refrains from imposing too heavy a burden in the first instance to guard against a possible economic breakdown of the concern. In such cases it must be open to a subsequent Tribunal to increase the burden to a higher stage, if possible, without any change of circumstances being established, when the industrial unit has become accustomed to the need of making necessary economic adjustments". This principle appears to have been accepted in paragraph 32 (Conclusion) of the Jute Textile Industry award given by a Tribunal consisting of the Chairman of the present Tribunal as Chairman, and Sri M. C. Banerji and Sri N. C. Chakravarty as members, as per Government of West Bengal order No. 3443Lab., dated the 20th September 1948. We find the following passages in paragraph 32 of that award: "It was absolutely necessary to make a start regarding fixation of the minimum emolument, standardisation and other subjects. We have given a start on the path of progress and have laid the first milestone at a considerable distance ahead. As we have already indicated, the rest of the path may be covered by a few more milestones to be laid by way of conciliation or adjudication or through any other convenient machinery in the future". These observations, unanimously made by a Tribunal of three Judges, obviously accepted the principle of gradual advance in ameliorating the conditions of service of workmen irrespective of any question of change of circumstances, such a policy being in the interests of both the employers and the employees. We may also refer to the observations made by Dr. Radha Kamal Mukherjee on pages 215-16 of "The Indian Working Class" (2nd edition) which have been quoted on page 18 of the Jute Textile Industry award. In these pages the learned Economist clearly recognises the principle of gradual and cautious advance irrespective of change of circumstances. We may further refer to the observations made by one of us (Sri A. Das Gupta) under points Nos. 1 and 2 in his award in the oil companies case referred to above which run as follows: "I do feel that workers are entitled to gradual increments of their basic wages till the living wage is reached. The progress in this direction has been arrested by considerations of capacity to pay per capita national income and prevalent rates in other industries. So far as the first question is concerned there is no plea of the present employers about financial inability. The basic salary must be gradually increased so as to prevent abrupt change of economic conditions, otherwise the basic salary will never reach the target of a living wage". These observations clearly accept the principle of gradual advance irrespective of any change of circumstances. After reviewing these cases we are clearly of opinion that so long as the principle of gradual advance in the economic condition of workmen in the interests of the employers as well as employees is accepted, as it must be accepted, no question of throwing an initial onus of proving a change of circumstances since the previous award can arise for enabling a subsequent Tribunal to change the conditions of service decided upon by a previous Tribunal.

Let us next take up another type of cases, namely, those in which elements of hardships arise from errors, omissions or anomalies which may have crept into a previous award. We notice that all the three Judges of the Calcutta Corporation Tribunal have practically agreed that where errors, omissions or anomalies in a previous award have led to elements of hardship in its practical operation, the conditions of service as incorporated in the previous award may be suitably changed by a subsequent Tribunal in order to remove or mitigate the hardships. We entirely agree with the view that in cases of hardship arising from errors, omissions or anomalies in a previous award a subsequent Tribunal can and should change the conditions of service incorporated in the previous award, irrespective of any change of circumstances being alleged or proved by the employees. This hardship may be in respect of either party and the interest of the industry on the one hand and equity for the workers on the other demand that the hardship should not be allowed to be perpetuated.

We shall now proceed to deal with this matter with reference to the provisions of the Industrial Disputes Act itself. The scheme of the Industrial Disputes Act clearly indicates that the legislature could foresee that it would not be possible or desirable to perpetuate service conditions in an industry laid down in an award, and instead of providing a rigid rule analogous to that of res judicata has provided facilities to the parties to reagitate an issue decided by a previous Tribunal either with a view to achieve a further advance in the service conditions or to remove a hardship which may have been caused by a change of circumstances or by errors, omissions or anomalies in a previous award or by any other factor. The preamble to the Act says that it is an Act to make provision for the investigation and settlement of industrial disputes and the Act sets up different kinds of machinery for achieving this object. Section 19(3) lays down that an award shall remain in operation for a period of one year or a lesser period at the discretion of the Government, and such initial period of operation may be extended by a further period not exceeding one year at a time up to a total period of three years. This means that where the Government does not see any justification in an issue decided in an award being agitated immediately after the expiry of the operative period originally fixed, an extension of the period of operation of the award up to three years may be effected. Section 19(4) provides for a procedure of shortening the originally announced period of operation in a case where a material change in the circumstances is established. This means that on proof of a material change in the circumstances the period of operation originally announced may be shortened by way of reference to a Tribunal before whom the issue once decided may be freely reagitated. It is significant that while a procedure for shortening the period of operation of an award on the basis of a material change in the circumstances is provided for, there is no reference in section 19 or in any other provision of the Act to the proposition that where after the expiry of the period of operation of an award, a reference is made by Government in respect of an issue already decided by a previous Tribunal, the subsequent Tribunal in order to be able to deal with that issue must satisfy itself in the first instance that an onus of proving a change of circumstances has been adequately discharged by the party asking for a change in the decision. Section 19(6) lays down a rule by which an award which has become enforceable shall continue to be binding on the parties until the period of two months has elapsed from the date on which a notice in writing is given by any party to the other party intimating its intention to terminate an award. This provision of the section seeks to give a continued lease of life to an award but gives the option to either party to decide to terminate the operation of the award by giving notice to the opposite party. This means that as soon as the period of operation of a previous award is terminated by the action of one of the parties, the parties become free to reagitate an issue already decided by a previous Tribunal. Let us next examine the provisions of section 23(c) of the Act which has not been amended to any extent by the Industrial Disputes (Appellate Tribunal) Act, 1950. Section 23(c) lays down that no workman who is employed in any industrial establishment shall go on strike in breach of contract during any period in which an award is in operation, in respect of any of the matters covered by the settlement or award. This means that the right to strike stands withdrawn by law during any period in which an award is in operation. Such a period of operation may be one year or a lesser period or a longer period up to three years. If the Government is of opinion that after an award becomes enforceable the workmen concerned should be debarred from going on strike legally, the Government will presumably extend the period of operation to any period up to three years. As soon as the period of operation, originally announced or subsequently extended, expires, the right to strike, which stood withdrawn by law during such period, revives and a strike which may be commenced after the expiry of such period will not be illegal, so far as section 23(c) is concerned. In the light of the fundamental principles of the Industrial Disputes Act, we think that the method of settlement by way of conciliation or adjudication, as conceived by the Act, is a salutary alternative to the method of strike. If a subsequent Industrial Tribunal decides to withhold the former method on the ground of res judicata or of failure to establish a change of circumstances, the unfortunate method of strike alone would be likely to hold the field, and we think that that would be quite contrary to the fundamental principles of the Industrial Disputes Act and the intention of the Legislature in enacting that Act. On examining the law as involved in the Industrial Disputes Act itself in the light of the types of cases which we have already discussed, we are clearly of opinion that it will not be legal or proper for a subsequent Tribunal, to which an issue decided by a previous Tribunal has been referred for adjudication, to insist rigidly in all cases on an initial onus of proving a change of circumstances since the previous decision being adequately discharged by the party demanding redress to enable the subsequent Tribunal to proceed with a consideration of the fresh dispute in respect of that issue.

In holding this view of the legal position, we do not, however, mean that because a subsequent Tribunal has jurisdiction to reconsider a matter decided in a previous award, irrespective of any change of circumstances since the previous decision being initially proved by the party asking for a change, the subsequent Tribunal will proceed lightly to bring about a change. In our view a subsequent Tribunal dealing with issues already decided should give proper weight to the previous award and accept it as the basis of consideration. Any changes in the conditions of service that may be decided upon by a subsequent Tribunal do not certainly amount to sitting in judgment on or any disrespect to the previous Tribunal. All that the subsequent Tribunal will do is something which it ought to do under the particular circumstances. The subsequent Tribunal will certainly investigate the question of change of circumstances since the last decision as one of the important factors for its consideration. But as we have pointed out above, a change of circumstances is not the only ground justifying revision of the service conditions laid down in a previous award and even in all cases of change of circumstances, the question of onus cannot be rigidly insisted upon. What we mean is that the subsequent adjudication proceeding is to be handled by the subsequent Tribunal with a free mind in the light of all the prevailing circumstances including the question of a change of circumstances having taken place since the previous decision and the capacity of the employer to bear the burden. In a case involving the principle of gradual advance, the subsequent Tribunal will have to judge the place of advance and may not necessarily direct an advance if it thinks that the time for further advance has not yet arrived in the light of all the circumstances.

We accordingly hold that the proposition which is stated in the written statement of the Engineering Associations to be a fairly well-established principle is not universally applicable, though we agree that in proceeding to consider the fresh dispute in respect of an issue already decided by a previous Tribunal it should be the duty of a subsequent Tribunal to investigate whether there has been a change in the circumstances on which the previous Tribunal based its award or whether in making that award any important factors were not taken into consideration by the previous Tribunal in consequence of the failure of any party to bring relevant matters to the notice of the Tribunal, or for any other cause. We agree generally with the views on this question expressed in the majority award in the Calcutta Corporation case and with those expressed by one of us (Sri A. Das Gupta) under points Nos. 1 and 2 in his award in the oil companies case which we have referred to, and we feel that we must respectfully differ from the contrary views expressed by other learned adjudicators in other cases which have been mentioned above. We have taken pains to discuss this very important matter which is frequently arising in industrial adjudications at some length in order to make our point of view as clear as practicable. We shall now proceed to deal with the specific issues one by one, keeping in view the principles which we have just enunciated.

Dearness allowance.

4. We proceed first to deal with the specific issue of "dearness allowance". As we have already indicated the previous award must necessarily be accepted by us as the basis of our consideration, although we have held the view that in order to enable us to consider the subject on its merits, a change of circumstances since the last decision need not be proved in the first instance by the employees' side. It is to be noted that we have at the same time expressed the opinion that in the present proceeding the question of a change of circumstances having taken place since the last decision is one of the important factors for our investigation. Simply because we have the jurisdiction to consider the matter afresh, we shall not be justified in making drastic changes in the previous award without having regard to the realities of the present situation. As already noted, the two Engineering Associations on behalf of the vast majority of the engineering firms concerned in the present proceeding have put forward the contention that the economic condition of the industry is at present no better than what it was in 1948, and is perhaps worse in several respects. The Associations have referred in particular to various factors of loss of trade. For instance, they have stated that there has been a grave deterioration in the amount of orders, particularly orders from the Central and State Governments and the Railway Board, that even Government have recently been calling for tenders from foreign suppliers on the ground of their prices being lower, that there has been practically a complete cessation of trade between India and Pakistan and there has been a revival of competition from abroad, that ocean shipping lines trading to Calcutta prefer to have all but the most urgent repairs done in foreign countries because costs of repairs are lower there. The Associations have drawn a somewhat lurid picture of the industry as a whole passing through an economic crisis and its consequent incapacity to meet any increased cost of labour. The Unions on the other hand have drawn our attention on behalf of the employees to the increasing cost of living and the rising cost of living index figures, and have urged with some amount of forcefulness that the employees should be placed on a proper standard of living wages by the introduction of a scientific system of dearness allowance which may be linked in a suitable manner with the cost of living index figures. The two Associations have taken their stand on the proposition that a revision in the terms of the previous award would be justifiable only if it can be proved that there has been a change in respect of either or both of two major factors, viz., (1) whether the industry is in a more favourable economic position since 1948, and (2) whether there has, since the previous award, been such a marked increase in the cost of living as would justify an increase in total remuneration.

We have decided to handle this matter of dearness allowance from the point of view of justice and fairness to both sides with reference to the previous award as the basis of our consideration. We notice that the previous Tribunal determined the scales of basic wages and of dearness allowance on the basis of the principle of gradual and cautious advance. While we do not accept the Associations' view that no advance should be made unless it is established that the industry is in a more favourable economic position since 1948, we do not feel disposed to direct such an advance as might have the effect of throwing the industry as a whole out of gear. We have not had the opportunity of going thoroughly into the question as to whether the industry is in a better or worse economic position since 1948. The Associations have indeed alleged several factors indicating some possible amount of deterioration in trade. We have no adequate materials before us, however, to enable us to come to a finding as to whether the cumulative effect of all the factors at work in the domain of manufacture and trade would necessarily establish a state of deterioration. At the same time we are not in a position to say with any degree of precision that the industry is at present in a more prosperous condition since 1948. A safer course for us would perhaps be to assume that the economic condition of the engineering industry on the whole has neither improved nor deteriorated since 1948. Against this background we have to consider the question as to whether there has been a substantial increase in the cost of living since the time when the previous award was given. We find that the previous Tribunal proceeded to determine the scales of dearness allowance in the light of several factors including the position that the cost of living index figure prevailing at the time when the award was under consideration was taken to be 310. It has been contended before us by the representatives of the employees that the cost of living index figure now exceeds 350, indicating a substantial rise over the figure which was prevailing during the previous adjudication proceeding. We shall discuss presently the question of accuracy of the cost of living index figures brought to our notice. But we feel satisfied that the cost of living index figure in respect of the middle class as well as the working class must at present be substantially higher than 310. The Associations would like us to accept the view that this does not amount to a marked increase in the cost of living which would justify an increase in total remuneration despite what is called the inflationary dangers of such a step. We remain unconvinced about this argument put forward on behalf of the engineering firms. We see that there has been a change of circumstances in the form of a substantial rise in the cost of living and we cannot but take into consideration this factor, keeping of course in view the question of the capacity of the industry to bear the extra burden.

The next question is the manner in which the scales of dearness allowance should be determined by us to suit the existing conditions. The previous Tribunal appears to have discussed the subject of cost of living index figures with reference to the Central Pay Commission's Report and after considering various factors from the points of view of the employers as well as the employees, came to the conclusion that the dearness allowance for the lowest pay range up to Rs. 50 should be Rs. 25 per month, and the Tribunal set forth a scheme of dearness allowance varying with the ranges of pay. As already indicated in paragraph 2 above, the Unions before us, with the exception of one or two spokesmen, have generally contended that the dearness allowance should be linked with the rise and fall of cost of living index figures. In proceeding to consider the practicability or otherwise of linking dearness allowance with cost of living index figures, we are at once led to enquire which cost of living index figures are to be depended on. So far as we have been able to ascertain, the cost of living index figures for the middle class and the mental class are calculated by the Director, Provincial Statistical Bureau, Government of West Bengal, those for the working class alone are calculated by the Labour Commissioner, West Bengal, and those for the middle class are calculated and published by the Commercial Journal, named "Capital". A question has been raised as to which of these figures should be accepted and the parties were not agreed on this point. It cannot escape anyone's attention that these figures calculated by different agencies differ from one another sometimes quite substantially. It is also noticeable that apart from the figures published in the journal "Capital", the figures arrived at in the office of the Director, Provincial Statistical Bureau and of the Labour Commissioner are not published for general information and are therefore not available to the public. It is further noticeable that cost of living index figures are handled in two West Bengal Government offices, viz., the Director, Provincial Statistical Bureau and the Labour Commissioner, with rather inconsistent results. We cannot understand the wide disparity in the index figures for the menial class and the working class prepared by the Provincial Statistical Bureau and the Labour Commissioner respectively and those for the middle class prepared by the "Capital" and the Provincial Statistical Bureau. It is difficult to make out in these circumstances which cost of living index figures, either for the middle class or for the working class, are to be accepted by responsible Industrial Tribunals as authoritative and dependable. We have no means of examining the data on which these calculations are made or of going into the question of dependability or otherwise of these mutually contradictory figures. If the figures were regularly published, the public would have an opportunity to examine the figures and comment upon them. We could then act upon only those figures as absolutely dependable which stood the test of public comments. We regret to observe that the state of things in respect of cost of living index figures in our State of West Bengal does not compare favourably with that prevailing in the State of Bombay where cost of living index figures are regularly calculated and published with the authority of the State Government. We shall look forward to the day when the Government of our State of West Bengal will place this very important subject of cost of living index figures on a definitely authoritative and dependable basis. Till then we find ourselves unable to accept one or the other of the cost of living index figures to which our attention has been drawn. As we find it impossible to accept any of the cost of living index figures as fully dependable, we feel that there cannot be any question of linking dearness allowance with cost of living index figures, as obviously the necessary scientific and dependable basis is unfortunately lacking. In coming to this conclusion we are not unmindful of the position that the Mercantile Firms Tribunal, which was presided over by one of us (Sri A. Das Gupta), accepted and acted upon the Bengal Chamber of Commerce scheme of dearness allowance which was linked with the middle class cost of living index figures published in the journal "Capital". It has to be noted, however, that the Mercantile Firms Tribunal, which was dealing only with commercial establishments, found that the Bengal Chamber of Commerce scheme linked with the "Capital" cost of living index figures was already in vogue in practically all commercial establishments and the Tribunal simply decided to continue the existing system, without having any opportunity of applying its mind independently to the question. The position of the present Engineering Firms Tribunal is entirely of a different character. We have got to deal with both middle class and working class employees employed in engineering establishments involving manufacture and trade as distinguished from commercial offices. We are not in a position to accept the "Capital" cost of living index figures for the middle class at their face value as we must apply our independent judgment to the question as to whether they are correct and dependable. As we have no means of examining this aspect, we have decided not to accept the "Capital" cost of living index figures as dependable for our purposes. The net result therefore is that we are unable to decide to link dearness allowance with any cost of living index figures, and we must accordingly deal with the matter by fixing scales of dearness allowance to correspond with certain ranges of basic pay in the manner adopted by the previous Tribunal.

The Bengal Chamber of Commerce scheme is meant essentially for commercial establishments which employ middle class clerical employees and subordinate (menial) staff and have nothing to do with such manual labour as is employed in manufacturing concerns. Commercial establishments ordinarily employ a much lesser number of persons than manufacturing concerns like engineering firms. What can be done in respect of a smaller personnel doing an entirely different type of work in commercial offices cannot necessarily be done in respect of a large number of employees—manual, clerical and otherwise, working in engineering concerns. The cost of production must necessarily be a big factor for consideration in dealing with engineering firms as distinguished from pure mercantile firms. We are of opinion that the conditions of service on the basis of the Bengal Chamber of Commerce scheme cannot be reasonably applied to engineering firms which have to function in a competitive market and have to sell their products to consumers in this country and abroad. We have come to the conclusion that we should not make any distinction between the factory office and the head office attached to engineering firms. It has been pointed out to us that the Bengal Chamber of Commerce scheme of dearness allowance is actually being applied in the head offices of some engineering concerns. We have no desire to interfere with the policy of those concerns who have chosen to be generous, but we are unable to compel any one to be equally generous and we think our task is to determine the minimum standard applicable to all concerns, leaving it open to individual concerns to pursue a more liberal oplicy if they so desire. Where a more liberal policy is already being pursued as regards dearness allowance, we shall direct that the existing scale of dearness allowance, whether based on the Bengal Chamber of Commerce scheme or anything else, shall not be reduced. We are unable to direct that generally speaking the Bengal Chamber of Commerce scheme of dearness allowance should be adopted for clerical employees in the head office, the factory office or the factory of any engineering firm or for the manual workers, skilled or unskilled, working under it.

We shall now proceed to determine the scales of dearness allowance which we consider to be just and fair in the light of the particular circumstances prevailing at the present time. Although we have expressed our inability to rely on the cost of living index figures available to us to the fullest extent, we shall investigate the approximate rise in the cost of living by considering the cost of living index figures for what they may be worth. We have already noted that the previous Tribunal proceeded on the basis of the cost of living index figure 310. According to the figures furnished by the Director, Provincial Statistical Bureau, Government of West Bengal, the average cost of living index figure for the middle class for the 12 months of 1948 was 338·1, and that for the first six months of 1950 was 340·8, the figure for June 1950 for the middle class being 350·2. According to the figures furnished by the Labour Commissioner, West Bengal, the average cost of living index figures for the working class in the Calcutta area for the 12 months of 1948 was 339·2 and that for the first six months of 1950 was 338·6, and that for the period from April to June 1950 was 343·3, the figure for June 1950 for the working class being 355. We feel that in making rough estimates we should take into consideration these averages. We think that on the whole it will be just and fair to adopt the figure 340 to be the average cost of living index figure for both the middle class and the working class at the present time. On this basis, roughly speaking, there has been a rise of 30 points over the figure 310 which was adopted by the previous Tribunal in 1948. In our view, it will be fair to both sides, under the prevailing conditions, to allow an increase in dearness allowance to the extent of Rs. 6 for the 30 points in respect of the lowest pay range and to provide for a progressively larger rate for the higher pay ranges, without making any distinction between manual, clerical and supervisory employees in the factory, the factory office, the head office or elsewhere. The previous award fixed dearness allowance for all categories of employees according to the following scheme:—

Basic pay range.			Dearness allowance. Rs.
Up to Rs. 50	...	...	25
From Rs. 51 to Rs. 100	...	...	35
From Rs. 101 to Rs. 150	...	...	40
From Rs. 151 to Rs. 200	...	...	45
From Rs. 201 upwards ..	...	...	50

We direct that dearness allowance for all categories of employees under the engineering firms with which we are concerned, irrespective of the nature or place of work, except in the cases in which we have granted exemption, be fixed according to the following scheme:—

Basic pay range.			Dearness allowance.
			Rs.
Up to Rs. 50	...	...	31
From Rs. 51 to Rs. 100	...	...	42
From Rs. 101 to Rs. 150	...	...	48
From Rs. 151 to Rs. 200	...	...	54
From Rs. 201 upwards	...	...	60

The next question is whether dearness allowance should be linked with attendance in the same manner as basic wages. The present practice, except in two or three engineering firms, is that dearness allowance is placed on the same footing as basic wages and is linked with attendance. As regards the firms where dearness allowance is not linked with attendance at present, we are not disposed to direct any change and we direct that the existing system shall be continued. As regards the system generally pursued in the vast majority of the firms, we are also not disposed to direct any change. Looking at the matter from the general point of view, we are of opinion that dearness allowance has the character of wages which are supplementary to the basic wages, and the two together constitute the total emolument. The ingredient of basic wages is the permanent factor and the ingredient of dearness allowance is introduced as a supplementary factor of a temporary nature in order to neutralise to some extent the gap between the cost of living for the time being and basic wages. This concept of dearness allowance finds support in section 59(3) of the Factories Act, 1948, under which "ordinary rate of wages" means basic wages plus dearness allowance for the purposes of overtime wages. In co-ordination with this provision regarding overtime wages, it would only be fair to hold that dearness allowance, like basic wages, would not be available for periods of absence from work. We hold therefore that except in those firms which desire to introduce a different system in favour of the employees, dearness allowance shall be linked with attendance in the same manner as basic wages. In a case of authorised leave with pay or half pay the expression "pay" shall mean basic wages plus dearness allowance. There can be no question of dearness allowance for periods of unauthorised leave just in the same way as basic wages for such periods will not be allowed.

We shall conclude this part of our award with the direction that in individual cases where dearness allowance is being actually paid at present on a scale higher than the scale which we have laid down for the generality of the engineering firms, such existing scale shall not be reduced, and our general directions in respect of dearness allowance shall be subject to any specific directions in respect of individual firms which we have given in other portions of this award.

5. We proceed next to deal with the issue of "holidays and leave". The structure of holidays and leave decided upon by the previous Tribunal is in brief as follows:—

(1) For employees governed by the Factories Act.—22 holidays including festival holidays and 10 statutory holidays under the old Factories Act, to be distributed as follows:—

10 days' continuous holidays under the Factories Act, which is equivalent to 9 or 8 paid holidays according as there is one Sunday or two within the period of 10 days, 8 festival holidays, 5 or 6 days' other leave with pay which may be taken in continuation of the 10 days under the Factories Act or separately at the option of the workmen, such other leave being allowed to accumulate for 2 years, as provided for the 10 days' leave under the Factories Act.

(2) For the clerical and supervisory staff.—Privilege leave for 21 days, such leave being allowed to accumulate up to a limit of 63 days, 8 festival holidays, 7 days' casual leave with full pay in a year.

(3) For all classes of employees.—Sick leave with half pay for 15 days in a year of service, such leave being allowed to accumulate from year to year and being liable to be discontinued as soon as the Employees' State Insurance Act comes into operation.

As regards the demands regarding holidays and leave made by the different Unions, it will be sufficient to give one or two examples which will serve to give an idea of the trend of the demands. The Engineering Workers' Federation, Bengal, has demanded for all classes of employees privilege leave for one month, casual leave for 15 days, sick leave for one month on full pay and on half pay till recovery, and all Government holidays as festival holidays. The Iron Factory Workers' Union has demanded privilege leave for 10 days in a year over and above the annual leave provided for in the Factories Act, 1948, casual leave on full pay for 8 days, sick leave on full pay for 15 days, and all gazetted holidays, May Day and Viswakarma Puja Day as festival holidays. The other Unions have made more or less similar demands, which are obviously far in excess of the structure of holidays and leave set up in the previous award. The representatives of the employers have generally opposed the idea of increasing the holidays and leave, pointing out that there is no justification for any increase, the existing provisions being adequate in comparison with the systems of leave prevalent in other countries, and any increase in holidays and leave will seriously hamper production.

We first take up the case of continuous leave for employees governed by the Factories Act. Under the previous award such an employee would be entitled to 8 or 9 paid holidays exclusive of Sundays within the period of 10 days' consecutive holidays under section 49B of the old Factories Act and also to 6 or 5 days' other leave, the total period of continuous holidays or leave available to an employee thus being 14 days. The provision of the Factories Act under section 49B has since been amended and the relevant provision now in force is to be found in section 79 of the Factories Act, 1948, which lays down that "every worker who has completed a period of 12 months' continuous service in a factory shall be allowed during the subsequent period of 12 months' leave with wages for a number of days calculated at the rate of one day for every 20 days of work performed by him during the previous period of 12 months subject to a minimum of 10 days". In view of this new provision it is possible that a particular worker may earn continuous annual leave with wages up to the maximum limit of 15 days, corresponding to approximately 300 days of work performed during one year. It is to be noted that under the new provision of the Factories Act the minimum period of annual leave with wages is 10 days just on the same lines as under section 49B of the old Factories Act, and the extra number of days over and above the minimum of 10 days which may be earned by particular workmen, would vary with the number of days of work actually performed. The new provision for the extra quantity of annual leave with wages is expected to act as an incentive to regular attendance in the performance of work, the position being that whoever actually works for a larger number of days would earn more leave. It has been contended by the Engineering Associations on behalf of the majority of the employers that in view of the new provision of law as involved under section 79 of the Factories Act, 1948, the provision of 5 or 6 days' other leave with pay in the previous award should be considered to be redundant or unjustifiable and should be done away with. This line of argument has been strenuously opposed on behalf of the employees. We feel that our present award should not have the effect of reducing in any way the privileges of continuous holidays or leave which were provided for in the previous award. It is noticeable that apart from 8 festival holidays the previous Tribunal definitely made provision for 14 days' continuous leave, so that the total number of holidays would be 22. Let us examine at this stage what would be the effect if we direct that the annual continuous leave with wages would be what is available under section 79 of the Factories Act, 1948, and there would be no provision for 5 or 6 days' other leave with pay as under the previous award. As we have already pointed out, the extra days over and above the minimum of 10 days available under section 79 would not necessarily be 5 in all cases, and even in a case where a workman would be entitled to 5 extra days by virtue of his regular performance of work, one of the 5 days may be a Sunday. Some workmen may not be earning any extra day at all and for them only the minimum 10 days would be available. For such workmen the new provision under section 79 of the Factories Act, 1948, would not provide any greater advantage. We are therefore of opinion that the provision for the extra number of holidays with wages over and above the minimum of 10 days as under section 79 cannot be considered to be on a par with the provision for 5 or 6 days' other leave under the previous award, and if we do away with the latter, the privileges provided for by the last award will be reduced in many cases. We are definitely of opinion that such a consequence should not be allowed to happen. Under the last award a workman would be entitled to 14 days' continuous holidays irrespective of the number of days of his actual work. We hold the view that this standard of continuous leave, which in no way depends on the number of days of actual work, should remain unaffected by our award. The only way of achieving this result is to leave out of account the extra number of holidays, over and above the minimum of 10 days, which is capable of being earned under section 79 of the Factories Act, 1948. If that is done the consequence would be that a diligent workman who would carefully avoid absence from work would earn 4 or 5 days' extra holidays with wages exclusive of Sundays, while some would be earning only 1, 2 or 3 extra days, while some others would not be earning any extra days at all. Such an arrangement, in our opinion, would have the effect of discouraging absenteeism and would not necessarily hamper production, but would be likely, on the other hand, to act as an incentive to better attendance, which we consider to be a highly desirable factor. In the light of what we have discussed above, we are of opinion that the provision regarding annual leave with wages under section 79 of the existing Factories Act should be left to operate in the usual course allowing workmen to earn continuous leave varying from 10 to 15 days inclusive of Sundays, and the provision in the previous award regarding 5 or 6 days' other leave with wages, according as there would be one Sunday or two Sundays within the period of the first 10 days of the continuous leave under section 79, should be left unaltered.

As regards the clerical and supervisory staff, we consider the provision for privilege leave for 21 days under the previous award to be adequate and we are not satisfied that there are any reasonable grounds for increasing the amount of privilege leave. As regards casual leave also, we see no reasons for introducing any change in the previous award.

We accordingly direct that the scheme of annual leave with wages, privilege leave on full pay and casual leave on full pay shall be as follows:—

(1) For employees governed by the Factories Act, 1948.—Annual leave with wages for 10 days or more which may be permissible under section 79 of the Factories Act, such leave being allowed to accumulate in the manner provided by that Act, the rate of wages being calculated as under section 80 of the Act.

Six or five days' other leave with wages (which may be taken in continuation of the annual leave under section 79 of the Factories Act or separately at the option of the workmen), according as there would be two Sundays or one Sunday within the period of the first 10 days of the continuous annual leave under section 79 of the Factories Act, such leave being allowed to accumulate in the manner provided by that Act and the rate of wages being calculated as under section 80 of the Act.

(2) For the clerical supervisory staff.—Privilege leave on full pay for 21 days, such leave being allowed to accumulate up to a limit of 63 days.

Seven days' casual leave with full pay in a year.

We now proceed to deal with the question of paid festival holidays. Under the previous award of the major Engineering Industry Tribunal, 8 festival holidays were allowed. The Unions on behalf of the employees have made demands to the effect that the number of paid festival holidays should be substantially increased, and some of the unions have gone so far as to demand that all gazetted holidays and some further festival days, such as May Day and Viswakarma Puja Day, should be declared as festival holidays. The Engineering Associations on behalf of the majority of the firms concerned have vehemently opposed the idea of increasing the number of festival holidays and have pointed out that the number of paid holidays in other industrially advanced countries is not very high, and the quantity of leave and holidays as provided for in the previous award compares very favourably with what prevails in most other countries. In view of the provisions we have made for annual leave with wages and privilege leave in co-ordination with the terms of the previous award, we do not feel satisfied that there is much room for increasing the number of paid festival holidays to the extent demanded. We notice, however, that in recent times many of the firms are being expected by the Government and the people concerned to observe certain days, which may be called national festival days, as paid holidays. We may mention, for instance, the Independence Day, the Indian Republic Day and Mahatma Gandhi's Birthday. We recognise that the nomenclature "festival holidays" should be understood to include not only religious festival days but also national festival days and perhaps also days like May Day. While we do not consider it reasonable and proper, in the interest of industrial production, to increase the number of festival holidays as more and more national festival days are being observed by the people, we feel that if these national festival days have to be observed by industrial concerns within the limit of 8 festival holidays, many of the existing religious festival holidays will have to be eliminated. A procedure of substantial reduction of religious festival holidays becomes more difficult and complicated in this country, as distinguished from other countries, in view of the existence of at least two major religious communities. Under these circumstances we are of opinion that the number of festival holidays should be increased to 10, and we direct accordingly. This provision regarding 10 festival holidays shall apply to all classes of employees. In connection with paid festival holidays, the question has been raised about certain conditions to be fulfilled by an employee before he would be entitled to such festival holidays with pay. It has been represented to us by both sides that the general practice is to insist on the condition that the employee concerned must attend to his work on the day preceding and the day succeeding the particular festival holiday. On behalf of the employees the Unions have asked for this condition to be abolished so that an employee may enjoy the festival holiday with pay irrespective of the question as to whether he would attend to his work on the preceding day or the succeeding day. On behalf of the firms, on the other hand, it has been strenuously contended that the present practice of imposing the condition should not be disturbed as experience shows that unless this condition is enforced, absenteeism would increase, as the employees have ordinarily a tendency of absenting themselves from work in continuation of festival holidays. Abolition of the condition, it is contended on behalf of the firms, would have the effect of encouraging absenteeism and thus hampering production. We appreciate the difficulty regarding the tendency for absenteeism, and we feel that the condition regarding attendance on the preceding and succeeding days should not be abolished. But hard cases should be met in a reasonable manner. We accordingly direct that with regard to paid festival holidays the condition referred to should be insisted on, unless absence from work on the preceding or succeeding day can be established to be for good reasons to the satisfaction of the employers. A further point has been raised with regard to festival holidays within a period of lock-out. The question may indeed be legitimately raised on behalf of the employees that a festival holiday falling within a period of lock-out should be paid for, if such lock-out is illegal or unjustifiable. But as the question of illegality or unjustifiability of a particular lock-out is a question of fact to be determined under the circumstances of each case, we are unable to lay down any hard and fast rule on the subject.

We next come to the question of sick leave. As already noticed, the previous award of the major Engineering Industry Tribunal has provided for sick leave with half pay for 15 days in a year of service for all classes of employees, such leave being allowed to accumulate from year to year and being liable to be discontinued as soon as the Employees' State Insurance Act comes into operation. We find no justification for introducing any change in this provision regarding sick leave. We therefore re-affirm it and make our award accordingly. The question has been raised as to the manner in which sick leave should be granted. We direct that sick leave should ordinarily be granted on the basis of a medical certificate from a qualified medical practitioner, vaid or hakim in accordance with the Factories Rules, subject to the proviso that the management will have the right to have the employee examined by their own medical officer or a medical practitioner nominated by them at their own expense.

We should make it clear at this stage that the scheme of holidays and leave we have provided for above will apply to employees other than temporary employees and probationers. On enquiry we gather that the present practice is generally speaking on the following lines. Probationers are not given leave during their period of probation except for paid festival holidays, but once they are confirmed as permanent they are entitled to the usual leave, the period of probation counting towards the total period of service. Temporary workers do not qualify for leave under the Factories Act but they get festival holidays. We consider the present practice to be fair and reasonable and we are not disposed to disturb the system regarding probationers and temporary employees.

Under the heading "application of the award" the previous Engineering Industry Tribunal made the following observations:—

"We desire that the rules for holidays and leave should be standardised by all the firms as soon as possible in order to eliminate one of the important causes of labour trouble. If, however, any firm has already announced leave and holidays for the current year at a scale more liberal than what the award provides, the right to such leave and holidays should not be affected by this award. Further, leave at the credit of any person under the existing leave rules of a firm will not lapse in spite of any provision as to leave contained in this award.

This award will not affect adversely any other kind of existing advantage which the employees of a firm may be enjoying in excess of the benefits given by this award, unless an express provision has been made in this award concerning such advantage."

The Engineering Associations in their statement submitted to us have asked for an explicit declaration by the present Tribunal regarding the meaning of the observations quoted above. The contention raised by the Associations is on the following lines: "The Unions have attempted to claim that because of the terms of the third paragraph of that section, viz., that the award would not affect adversely any other kind of existing advantage which the employees of the firm might be enjoying in excess of the benefits given by the award, firms which previous to that award were granting to their labour a total of paid holidays greater than that provided for in the award could not reduce this number after the issue of the award". This argument, however, ignores the clarification made in the third paragraph mentioned, viz., "unless an express provision has been made in this award concerning such advantage". It is the Associations' contention that such express provision has been made in the award as regards holidays and leave because in the second paragraph of the same section of the award the Tribunal have definitely stated that they desire that the rules for holidays and leave should be standardised by all the firms as soon as possible in order to eliminate one of the important causes of labour trouble. They proceed to amplify that by providing that if any firm had already announced leave for the current year, viz., 1948, at a scale more liberal than that provided by the award, the right to such leave and holidays should not be affected by the award and also that leave to the credit of any person under the existing leave rules of the firm should not lapse because of any provision as to leave contained in the award. It is the Associations' contention that the only possible reading of this section of the previous award is that as from 1949 the Tribunal wished the amount of leave granted by them to be standardised in all firms covered by their award, even if this involved a reduction in the amount of leave previously granted".

After carefully considering the words used in the previous Engineering Tribunal's award, we are of opinion that the interpretation proposed by the Engineering Associations before us is fairly correct. We find that the previous Tribunal desired for very good reasons that the rules for holidays and leave should be standardised by all the firms as soon as possible, but in order to eliminate or mitigate hardships in individual cases during the current year 1948, the Tribunal very rightly thought fit to postpone the operation of the award in suitable cases for the current year alone, intending that full standardisation of holidays and leave would be brought into effect from the following year. In so far as the Tribunal made such an express provision in respect of holidays and leave, the other provision to the effect that the award would not affect adversely any other kind of existing advantage which employees might be enjoying in excess of the benefits given by the award would have no application. Apart from the provisions in the previous award, we have given our thoughts independently to the question of holidays and leave, and have come to the conclusion that the structure of holidays and leave should be standardised by all the firms as soon as possible, even though such a process means a reduction of standards prevailing in some individual firms. In view of the provisions made in the last award, we should expect the structure of holidays and leave to have been standardised in accordance with the previous award with effect from the year 1949. If unfortunately differences are still persisting owing to misconception of the terms of the previous award or otherwise, we feel that we should not encourage unnecessary continuance of such differences. At the same time we are not disposed to cause any hardship by insisting on a sudden abolition of such differences and we re-affirm the provision in the last award to the effect that if any firm has already announced leave and holidays for the current year, viz., 1950, at a scale more liberal than what our present award provides, the right to such leave and holidays should not be affected by this award, and leave at the credit of any person under the existing leave rules of a firm will not lapse in spite of any provision as to leave contained in this award. We make it clear, however, that with effect from the next year 1951 the scheme of holidays and leave shall be standardised in accordance with the provisions made in the present award, even though such a process means reduction of existing privileges in individual cases.

Apart from the case of Ford Motor Co. of India, Ltd. (serial No. 59 of the Appendix), in respect of which we have given a separate award in connection with the present reference as already noticed in paragraph 1 of this award, we find that the issue of holidays and leave has already been adjudicated upon in respect of two of the firms with which we are concerned. This will appear from the award of Sri M. C. Banerjee regarding Garden Reach Workshops, Ltd. (serial No. 42 of the Appendix), as per Government of West Bengal order No. 1716 Lab., dated the 6th April 1950, and the award of Sri G. P. Palit in the case of Messrs. Parry & Co., Ltd. (serial No. 58 of the Appendix), as per Government of West Bengal order No. 2199 Lab., dated the 3rd May 1950. Inasmuch as the provisions regarding holidays and leave in these two awards in respect of the two firms referred to are still operative, we direct that the provisions of our present award regarding the same subject shall not apply to these two firms.

Case of B. N. Chatterjee & Sons.

6. Having disposed of the two issues of dearness allowance and holidays and leave in respect of the specified engineering firms in general, we shall now take up the case of Messrs. B. N. Chatterjee & Sons (serial No. 28 of the Appendix). This firm applied for being heard and dealt with separately and we allowed the application. The case of this firm is that it is being run at a loss for several years past, that an award in respect of an industrial dispute between this firm and its workmen was given by Sri P. R. Mukherjee as per Government of West Bengal order No. 3126 Lab., dated the 1st September 1948, that this firm was not dealt with by the previous Major Engineering Industry Tribunal, that any further increase in its financial burden at the present juncture will endanger its existence and that the terms of the previous award should not be interfered with to ensure its survival. The representatives of the workmen have argued generally that no exception should be made in respect of an individual firm. We have examined the latest available audited balance-sheet of the firm and we have no reason to doubt the position that it is being run at a loss even now, and we are of opinion that its financial position has not improved since Sri P. R. Mukherjee gave his award about two years ago, and further increase in dearness allowance may jeopardise its existence. In the interest of this industrial unit and also of its workmen who, we feel, should not be driven into unemployment, we direct that the prevailing scale of dearness allowance at Rs. 20 per month, as approved in the previous award, shall be maintained unless the authorities of the firm think fit to bring about an increase in the light of possible prosperity in the future. As regards holidays and leave, we see no reason for dealing with this firm differently from the generality of the engineering firms and we direct that the scheme of holidays and leave which we have laid down in paragraph 5 above shall apply to this firm also, and no distinction shall be made.

Cases of other individual firms.

7. As we have already indicated, the employees or sections of employees of certain individual firms have put forward some special demands and the respective firms have been heard by us with reference to their special statements in reply. We shall now briefly deal with such special cases one by one.

As regards Metal Box Co. of India, Ltd. (serial No. 41 of the Appendix), Metal Box Office Employees' Association has contended on behalf of the clerical and subordinate staff of the factory office as distinguished from the clerical staff of the factory itself that the factory office should be regarded as a commercial office and the members of the Association who belong to the clerical and subordinate staff of the factory office should be allowed dearness allowance on the Bengal Chamber of Commerce scale. We have been apprised of certain interim arrangements made by the firm regarding the grievances of the employees which arose in consequence of the previous Engineering Industry Tribunal's award. It appears that a dispute between these parties was adjudicated upon by one of us (Sri A. Das Gupta) according to a petition of compromise, the award being published by Government of West Bengal order No. 2665-Lab., dated 25th May 1950. In that petition of compromise the terms of settlement regarding basic wages were not disclosed and the award left the question of dearness allowance open. As we have already decided in paragraph 4 above, we are not disposed to regard a factory office as equivalent to a commercial office, and we are therefore not prepared to introduce any compulsory scheme of dearness allowance on the Bengal Chamber of Commerce scale in respect of the factory office of this individual firm as a special case. We direct, however, that as in all other cases, the existing scale of dearness allowance shall not be reduced if it is higher than the scales we have provided for in paragraph 4 in respect of the generality of the firms.

As regards the Britannia Building and Iron Co., Ltd. (serial No. 21 of the Appendix), the Association of Employees' Unions on behalf of the Staff Union has represented to us that the members of the Staff Union are the clerical and subordinate staff and outdoor and supervisory staff attached to the head office at 4, Dalhousie Square, Calcutta, and has contended that dearness allowance on the Bengal Chamber of Commerce scale should be paid to such employees, inasmuch as it is a commercial office. In this connection our attention has been drawn to an award of Sri S. C. Chakravarti as per Government of West Bengal order No. 4022 Lab., dated 24th July 1950. We notice that the terms of that award are not on a par with the Mercantile Firms Tribunal's award, and the service conditions in the firm were much better than the minimum prescribed in the previous Engineering Tribunal's award and Sri S. C. Chakravarti only made certain modifications in view of the Mercantile Firms Tribunal's award. So far as we are concerned we see no reason for deviating from our general award as incorporated in paragraph 4 above. But we direct, as in all other cases, that the prevailing scale of dearness allowance shall not be reduced.

As regards Parry & Co. Ltd. (serial No. 58 of the Appendix), it has been pointed out on behalf of the employees by the Secretary of the Association of Employees' Unions that this firm has its head office at 8, Lalbazar Street, Calcutta, its factory at Hide Road, Kidderpore, and its godown at Pathuriaghata, that the clerical and subordinate staff at the head office are getting dearness allowance on the Bengal Chamber of Commerce scale, and that some of the clerks in the factory and the godown are getting dearness allowance on the same scale while others are not. The contention is that the disparity should be removed. We have not been given particulars of the circumstances under which the disparity has occurred. In view of our decision in respect of dearness allowance in paragraph 4 above, we are not disposed to introduce any compulsory scheme of dearness allowance on the Bengal Chamber of Commerce scale in respect of any individual employees or sections of employees in any individual firm. But we direct that the existing scale of dearness allowance shall in no case be reduced.

As regards T. E. Thomson & Co., Ltd. (serial No. 12 of the Appendix), it has been pointed out on behalf of the Thomson & Co. Workers' Union that this firm has a factory at Kidderpore and an establishment for sale of goods imported and locally manufactured at 9, Esplanade, East, Calcutta. The contention raised on behalf of the Union is that the engineering employees employed in the manufacturing establishment at Kidderpore may be governed by the Engineering Industry Tribunal's award, but the Bengal Chamber of Commerce scale of dearness allowance should apply to the commercial establishment at 9, Esplanade, East. As we have already indicated, we are unable to make any separate provisions regarding dearness allowance in respect of different parts of the same engineering concern. Although the establishment at 9, Esplanade, East, may be of a different character from the manufacturing establishment at Kidderpore, they appear to be inter-dependant and should be regarded as essential parts of the entire engineering concern. Under these circumstances, we are not disposed to introduce any compulsory scheme of dearness allowance on the Bengal Chamber of Commerce scale in respect of the establishment at 9, Esplanade, East, alone. As regards the complaint regarding the manner in which the previously existing consolidated wages were split up into basic wages and dearness allowance, we hold that the part of the complaint relating to basic wages cannot be dealt with by the present Tribunal inasmuch as the issue of basic wages has not been referred to us for adjudication. We have already given our directions regarding dearness allowance and we direct that those directions shall apply to this firm also.

As regards Thakurdas Sureka Iron Foundry, Ltd. (serial No. 37 of the Appendix), the point raised on behalf of the workers is to the effect that as regards the piece-rate workers, the dearness allowance should be a fixed allowance except for unauthorised absence. We find that this contention regarding the fixation of a minimum amount of dearness allowance of a piece-rate worker has not been raised on behalf of the workers of any other concern although it is obviously an important and intricate question. The Company concerned has stated in its written statement that regarding piece-rate workers there is a standard basic rate on which Provident Fund calculations are made and dearness allowance is allowed on the prescribed scale. In view of the position that this intricate question was not raised on behalf of the generality of the workers concerned, and that the issue was not discussed with facts and figures in the manner it should have been, we do not find ourselves in a position to come to any decision regarding the point.

As regards Indian Galvanizing Co. (1926), Ltd. (serial No. 51 of the Appendix), it has been pointed out on behalf of Indian Galvanizing Mazdur Union that previously the company used to give cash dearness allowance, cash grain allowance and cheap ration benefit, and eventually in pursuance of certain negotiations between the parties these three benefits were amalgamated into a larger amount of cash dearness allowance. It is now contended before us that while it was proper to amalgamate the cash grain allowance with the cash dearness allowance, in so far as they were both of the same nature, it was wrong to deal with the cheap ration benefit in the same way. It is contended before us that the cheap ration benefit was not in the nature of dearness allowance and cannot be regarded as such, because the benefit would not be available to a workman who might be absent from work for more than one day in two weeks, the benefit being thus linked with good attendance, and further the benefit was linked with one ration card or two ration cards according to the number of members of the family of the workman concerned. The argument advanced on behalf of the workers is that the cheap ration benefit was an additional amenity quite independent of the concept of dearness allowance. It has been brought to our notice that the issue of cheap ration benefit is one of the issues pending before another Tribunal, viz., Sri M. C. Banerjee, as per Government of West Bengal order No. 2066Lab., dated the 28th April 1950. In view of the position that the basis of the Union's contention is that the cheap ration benefit is not any part of dearness allowance, we find that we are unable to deal with the question as the only issues referred to us for adjudication are dearness allowance and holidays and leave. We trust the issue will be duly dealt with by the Tribunal before which it is pending for adjudication.

NOTIFICATION.

No 1863L—21st September, 1950.—The Governor having been pleased to order, under rule 48 of the West Bengal Legislative Assembly Procedure Rules, the publication of the following Bill, together with the Statement of Objects and Reasons which accompanies it, in the Calcutta Gazette, the Bill and the Statement of Objects and Reasons are accordingly hereby published for general information:—

THE 24-PARGANAS DISTRICT BOARD DISSOLUTION (TEMPORARY PROVISIONS) (SECOND AMENDMENT) BILL, 1950.

A

BILL

further to amend the 24-Parganas District Board Dissolution (Temporary Provisions) Act, 1948.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the 24-Parganas District Board Dissolution (Temporary Provisions) Act, 1948, for the purpose and in the manner hereinafter appearing; West Ben Act XXIII of 1948.

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title

1. This Act may be called the 24-Parganas District Board Dissolution (Temporary Provisions) (Second Amendment) Act, 1950

Amendment of section 1 of West Bengal Act XXIII of 1948.

2. In sub-section (3) of section 1 of the 24-Parganas District Board Dissolution (Temporary Provisions) Act, 1948, for the words and figures "15th day of December, 1950", the words and figures "31st day of December, 1951" shall be substituted

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The 24-Parganas District Board Dissolution (Temporary Provisions) Act, 1948, is in force up to the 15th December, 1950. According to the Act, the Board has to be reconstituted by election on the expiry of the term of office of its present appointed members. As it may not be possible to make arrangements for holding the election to the Board before the 15th December, 1950, it may be necessary to extend the term of office of its present members for a suitable period. The Bill accordingly seeks to extend the life of the Act up to the 31st December, 1951.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 1859L.—19th September, 1950.—The Governor having been pleased to order, under rule 48 of the West Bengal Legislative Assembly Procedure Rules, the publication of the following Bill, together with the Statement of Objects and Reasons which accompanies it, in the Calcutta Gazette, the Bill and the Statement of Objects and Reasons are accordingly hereby published for general information:—

THE BENGAL (RURAL) PRIMARY EDUCATION (WEST BENGAL AMENDMENT) BILL, 1950.

A

BILL

further to amend the Bengal (Rural) Primary Education Act, 1930.

WHEREAS it is expedient further to amend the Bengal (Rural) Primary Education Act, 1930, for the purposes and in the manner hereinafter appearing; Ben. Act VII of 1930.

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called the Bengal (Rural) Primary Education (West Bengal Amendment) Act, 1950.

Insertion of new section 60A in Bengal Act VII of 1930.

2. After section 60 of the Bengal (Rural) Primary Education Act, 1930 (hereinafter referred to as the said Act), the following section shall be inserted, namely:—

Child once admitted to a primary school to attend up to the end of the primary stage.

"60A. In any area in which primary education has not been declared compulsory under section 56, the guardian of a child who has once been admitted to a primary school situated in such area, shall, notwithstanding anything contained in sections 58, 59 or 60, cause such child to attend that school up to the end of the stage of primary education provided in that school unless—

(a) the child is prevented from attending that school by sickness, infirmity or other cause declared by a resolution of the Union Board, Union Committee or Panchayat concerned, to be a reasonable excuse for non-attendance; or

(b) the child obtains a transfer certificate and is admitted to another primary school; or

(c) the child is receiving instruction in some other manner approved by the officer referred to in clause (d) of section 60.".

Amendment of section 61.

3. In section 61 of the said Act, after the word and figures "section 59," the word, figures and letter "section 60A," shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 62.

4. In sub-section (1) of section 62 of the said Act, after the word and figures "section 59," the words, figures and letter "or section 60A," shall be inserted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

A large percentage of students who are now admitted in primary schools do not complete their primary education and abandon their studies from classes below class IV. It means on the one hand that all the instruction received by them in the lower forms is unlearnt and they lapse back to illiteracy, and, on the other, that the expenditure incurred on their education is wasted. It is therefore necessary to make a provision which will prevent wastage and ensure complete primary education for those who are admitted to primary schools in areas where compulsion has not been introduced under section 56.

THE WEST BENGAL COLLECTIVE FINES BILL, 1950.

A

BILL

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the imposition of collective fines in connection with acts prejudicially affecting the maintenance of public order;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the West Bengal Collective Fines Act, 1950.

(2) It shall come into force immediately on the West Bengal Collective Fines Ordinance, 1950, ceasing to operate. West Ben. Ord. XIII of 1950.

Imposition of collective fine on inhabitants of area.

2. (1) If it appears to the State Government that the inhabitants of any area are concerned in or abetting the commission of acts prejudicially affecting the maintenance of public order (which expression 'public order' shall, without prejudice to the generality of its meaning, include public safety and communal harmony) or are harbouring persons concerned in the commission of such acts, or are failing to render all the assistance in their power to discover or apprehend such persons, or are suppressing material evidence of the commission of such acts, the State Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, impose a collective fine on the inhabitants of that area.

(2) The State Government or any officer empowered in this behalf by the State Government may, by general or special order, exempt any person or class or section of such inhabitants from liability to pay the whole or any part of the fine apportioned to them.

(3) The Commissioner of Police in Calcutta and the District Magistrate elsewhere after such enquiry as he may deem necessary by himself or some other officer deputed for the purpose, shall apportion such fine amongst the inhabitants who are liable collectively to pay it and such apportionment shall be made according to the judgment of the Commissioner of Police, Calcutta, or the District Magistrate, as the case may be, of the respective means of such inhabitants.

(4) The portion of such fine payable by any person may be recovered—

(a) in the manner provided by the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, for the recovery of fines imposed by a Court: Act V of 1898.

Provided that the State Government may, in lieu of the rules referred to in sub-section (2) of section 386 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, make rules under this Act regulating the manner in which warrants under clause (a) of sub-section (1) of the said section of the said Code are to be executed, and for the summary determination of any claims made by any person other than the person liable to pay the fine in respect of any property attached in execution of the warrant; or (b) as arrears of land revenue.

(Clauses 3—5.)

(b) the expression "inhabitants of an area" includes persons who themselves or by their agents or servants occupy or hold land or other immovable property within such area, and landlords who themselves or by their agents or servants collect rents from holders or occupiers of land in such area, notwithstanding that they do not actually reside therein.

3. No suit, prosecution or other legal proceedings whatsoever shall lie against any person for or in respect of anything which is in good faith done or intended to be done under this Act.

5. Any fine imposed, any apportionment made, any action taken or anything whatsoever done under the West Bengal Collective Fines Ordinance, 1950, shall on the said Ordinance ceasing to operate be deemed to have been imposed, made, taken or done under this Act as if this Act had commenced on the 14th day of September, 1950.

West Ben. Ord. XIII of 1950.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Clause C(2) of the Agreement arrived at on the 8th April, 1950, between the Prime Ministers of India and Pakistan provides that the two Governments shall "punish all those who are found guilty of offences against persons and property and of other criminal offences. In view of their deterrent effects, collective fines shall be imposed, where necessary". In pursuance of this provision, an Ordinance entitled "The West Bengal Collective Fines Ordinance, 1950" (West Bengal Ordinance No. XIII of 1950), providing for the imposition of collective fines, was promulgated by His Excellency the Governor and published on the 14th September, 1950. The Ordinance will lapse on the expiry of six weeks after the commencement of the next session of the Assembly. Though there are no disturbances at present in the State, it would be inexpedient to ignore the fact that the forces of lawlessness and disorder are still operating. The necessity for the provisions in the Ordinance, therefore, continues.

The Bill is intended to confer on the State Government on a permanent basis the power to impose collective fines in times of necessity. It may, however, be observed that Government can divest themselves of this power by repealing the Act as soon as circumstances permit.

NOTIFICATION.

No. 18661L.—22nd September, 1950.—The Governor having been pleased to order, under rule 48 of the West Bengal Legislative Assembly Procedure Rules, the publication of the following Bill, together with the Statement of Objects and Reasons which accompanies it, in the Calcutta Gazette, the Bill and the Statement of Objects and Reasons are accordingly hereby published for general information:—

THE WEST DINAJPUR UNION BOARDS BILL, 1950.

A

BILL

for the removal of doubts regarding the local area of the Hilli union and the membership and the tenure of membership of the Hilli union board in the district of West Dinajpur and for modifying the operation of the West Dinajpur Union Boards Ordinance, 1950.

WHEREAS under the award of the Boundary Commission, the local area in the district of Dinajpur in the Province of Bengal which was originally declared under section 5 of the Bengal Village Self-Government Act, 1919 (hereinafter referred to as the said Act), to be the Hilli union, fell partly within the Province of West Bengal and partly within the Province of East Bengal; Ben. Act V of 1919.

AND WHEREAS since the said award, doubts have arisen regarding the local area of the Hilli union and the membership and the tenure of membership of the Hilli union board;

AND WHEREAS it is expedient to remove such doubts;

AND WHEREAS it is also expedient to modify the operation of the West Dinajpur Union Boards Ordinance, 1950, in certain respects; West Ben. Ord. IX of 1950.

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the West Dinajpur Union Boards Act, 1950.

(2) This section and section 6 shall come into force at once; the rest of the Act shall come into force immediately on the West Dinajpur Union Boards Ordinance, 1950, ceasing to operate.

Definitions.

2. In this Act,—

(a) "appointed day" means the date on which the award of the Boundary Commission came into force;

(b) "Boundary Commission" means the Boundary Commission referred to in the Indian Independence Act, 1947. 10 & 11 Geo. VI, c. 30.

Local area of Hilli union.

3. On and from the appointed day, the Hilli union shall, for the purposes of section 5 of the said Act, be deemed to comprise of so much of the local area originally declared under the said section to be the local area of the said union as is situated in the district of West Dinajpur.

Membership of the Hilli union board.

4. On and from the appointed day, the Hilli union board shall, for the purposes of section 6 of the said Act, be deemed to be constituted of such members of the said union board who immediately before the appointed day were holding office as such members and were resident within areas now comprised in West Bengal.

Term of office of members of the Hilli union board.

5. The members of the Hilli union board referred to in section 4 shall hold office up to the 8th day of April, 1951, and for any further period which may elapse between the expiration of the said date and the date of the first meeting at which a quorum is present, of the newly elected members after the next general election for the said union board.

West Bengal Ord. IX of 1950 not to have effect in certain respects.

6. So much of the West Dinajpur Union Boards Ordinance, 1950, as relates to the local areas of the Binshira and Dhalpara unions and the membership and the tenure of membership of the Binshira and Dhalpara union boards shall be deemed never to have been in force.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The local area of Hilli union in West Dinajpur district has been affected by the award of the Boundary Commission as a portion of it has gone to East Bengal. The Bill seeks to provide for formation of the Hilli union as comprising of the portion of the local area of the old Hilli union as has fallen in West Bengal, and also for the constitution of the union board for the union. The Bill also aims at deleting the provisions in the West Dinajpur Union Boards Ordinance, 1950, so far as they relate to Binshira and Dhalpara unions and their union boards, as those provisions are unnecessary, the unions not having been affected by the award of the Boundary Commission.

(1) The Bengal Land Revenue Sales Act, 1859 (XI of 1859).

(2) The Bengal Land Revenue Sales Act, 1868 (Bengal Act VII of 1868).

(3) The Village Chaukidari Act, 1870 (Bengal Act VI of 1870).

(4) The Bengal Village Chaukidari Act, 1871 (Bengal Act I of 1871).

(5) The Cess Act, 1880 (Bengal Act IX of 1880).

(6) The Bengal Tenancy Act, 1885 (VIII of 1885).

(7) The Bengal Village Self-Government Act, 1919 (Bengal Act V of 1919).

(8) The Bengal Municipal Act, 1932 (Bengal Act XV of 1932).

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

With effect from the 1st January, 1950, the former Indian State of Cooch Behar has been merged into and constituted a district of West Bengal by the States' Merger (West Bengal) Order, 1949. This merger, however, did not by itself effect any change in the body of laws to which the former Indian State of Cooch Behar was subject before the commencement of the Order nor do the laws in force in West Bengal prior to the date of merger apply to Cooch Behar with the exception of six Acts already extended to Cooch Behar by the West Bengal State Laws (Extension to Cooch Behar) Act, 1950. This position is unsatisfactory and it is obviously desirable to assimilate the laws in force in Cooch Behar to the laws in force in the rest of West Bengal. Hence this Bill.

This Bill relates to laws relating to the State List of the Seventh Schedule to the Constitution of India. All such laws as are applicable to West Bengal are proposed to be brought into force in Cooch Behar, with the exception of the few Acts mentioned in Schedule II, the immediate introduction of which would lead to administrative difficulty. The Cooch Behar Laws corresponding to those mentioned in Schedule II are being retained for the present and included in Schedule I of this Bill. Provision has, however, been made to enable these Acts to be brought into force gradually in Cooch Behar. Legislation for extension of laws relating to the Union and Concurrent Lists has been arranged with the Centre. Arrangement will also be made that the Central Act and the State Act come into force on the same day.

No. 1884L.—25th September, 1950.—The Governor having been pleased to order, under rule 48 of the West Bengal Legislative Assembly Procedure Rules, the publication of the following Bill, together with the Statement of Objects and Reasons which accompanies it, in the Calcutta Gazette, the Bill and the Statement of Objects and Reasons are accordingly hereby published for general information:—

A

BILL

to amend the West Bengal Premises Rent Control (Temporary Provisions) Act, 1950.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the West Bengal Premises Rent Control (Temporary Provisions) Act, 1950; West Ben. Act XVII of 1950.

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title. 1. This Act may be called the West Bengal Premises Rent Control (Temporary Provisions) (Amendment) Act, 1950.

Amendment of section 2 of West Bengal Act XVII of 1950. 2. In section 2 of the West Bengal Premises Rent Control (Temporary Provisions) Act, 1950 (hereinafter referred to as the said Act), for clause (11) the following clause shall be substituted and shall be deemed always to have been substituted, namely:—

'(11) "tenant" means any person by whom rent is, or but for a special contract would be, payable for any premises, and includes—

(i) any person who is liable to be sued by the landlord for rent; and

(ii) any person whose interest in the premises has been ipso facto determined under sub-section (3) of section 12 of the West Bengal Premises Rent Control (Temporary Provisions) Act, 1948.' West Ben. Act XXXVIII of 1948.

Amendment of section 9. 3. In sub-section (1) of section 9 of the said Act, for clause (f) the following clause shall be substituted, namely:—

"(f) where any premises have been wholly or are substantially constructed after the 31st day of December, 1949, by fixing the standard rent payable for one year at a rate equal to six per centum of the actual cost of construction as determined by the Controller added to the market price as on the 31st day of December, 1946, of the land included in the premises or to the market price of the said land as on the date of the completion of the construction, whichever is less:

The West Bengal Premises Rent Control (Temporary Provisions) (Amendment) Bill, 1950.

(Clauses 4—6.)

Provided that where the premises whose standard rent is to be fixed form a part of the construction the standard shall be fixed at a rate which is fairly proportionate to the total standard rent of the entire construction."

Amendment of section 18.

4. In section 18 of the said Act,—

(i) in sub-section (1) for the words "on the ground of default in payment of arrears of rent under the provisions" the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"on the ground that the interest of the tenant in such premises has been ipso facto determined under the provisions of sub-section (3) of section 12";

(ii) in sub-section (5) for the words "on the ground of default in payment of arrears of rent under the provisions" the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"on the ground that the interest of the tenant in such premises has been ipso facto determined under the provisions of sub-section (3) of section 12"

Pending applications and suits.

5. In all applications made under sub-section (1) of section 18 of the said Act, which are pending at the commencement of this Act and in all suits referred to in sub-section (5) of the said section which are pending at such commencement, the said Act as amended by this Act shall apply and shall be deemed always to have applied.

Power of Court to rescind or vary decrees and orders in certain cases.

6. Where at any time between the commencement of the said Act and of this Act, an order or decree for the recovery of possession of any premises has been made or passed by any Court but possession of such premises has not been recovered in execution of such order or decree and the Court is of opinion that the order or decree would not have been made or passed if this Act had been in force when the order or decree was made or passed, the Court may, on application by the tenant within sixty days of the commencement of this Act, rescind or vary the order or decree on such terms and conditions as it deems necessary for the purpose of giving effect to the provisions of section 18 of the said Act as amended by this Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The provision of section 12(3) of the West Bengal Premises Rent Control (Temporary Provisions) Act, 1948, for ipso facto termination of a tenancy on default in payment of rent for three consecutive months was causing great hardship to the tenants. Accordingly under section 18 of the Act of 1950, protection was sought to be given with retrospective effect to the tenants in respect of decrees and pending suits for recovery of possession of any premises on the ground of default in payment of arrears of rent under the said provision of the Act of 1948. There has, however, been some conflict of judicial opinion regarding the interpretation of section 18 of the Act of 1950. It has been held by the High Court in appeal that a person whose interest in the premises has been ipso facto determined under section 13(3) of the Act of 1948 is not entitled to the benefit of section 18 of the Act of 1950. This decision of the High Court has defeated the purposes of section 18 of the Act and adversely affected a large number of pending suits and proceedings. Accordingly, it is proposed to amend section 18 of the Act so as to give protection to the persons affected by the operation of section 12(3) of the Act of 1948 agreeable to the objects of section 18 of the Act of 1950.

It is also proposed to amend section 9(1)(f) of the Act assuring a return of 6 per cent. on capital investment with a view to encouraging construction of new houses for letting purposes, the need for which has become more imperative than ever on account of the large scale influx of refugees from East Bengal.

The Bill has been framed with these objects in view.

BILL

to vest the Commission of Enquiry appointed to enquire into the recent disturbances in West Bengal with certain powers.

WHEREAS a Commission of Enquiry has been appointed to enquire into the recent disturbances in West Bengal;

AND WHEREAS it is expedient to vest the said Commission of Enquiry with powers of a Civil Court;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title, extent and commencement.

1. (1) This Act may be called the West Bengal Disturbances Commission of Enquiry Act, 1950.

(2) It extends to the whole of West Bengal.

(3) It shall come into force immediately on the West Bengal Disturbances Commission of Enquiry Ordinance, 1950, ceasing to operate. West Ben. Ord. VII of 1950.

Powers of Commission of Enquiry.

2. The Commission of Enquiry appointed under Resolution of the Government of West Bengal, in the Home Department, No. 2394-C.R./CR-475/50 Pt. II, dated the 13th May, 1950 (hereinafter referred to as the Commission), shall have all the powers of a Civil Court for the purposes of receiving evidence, administering oaths, enforcing the attendance of witnesses, and compelling the discovery and production of documents, and shall be deemed to be a Civil Court within the meaning of sections 480, 481 and 482 of the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898. The Commission shall furthermore have the same powers of dealing with contempt of the Commission or any of its members or of, or in respect of, any proceedings of the Commission as if the Commission were a High Court referred to in article 214 of the Constitution of India. Act V of 1898.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

In pursuance of the provisions of the Agreement reached between the Prime Ministers of India and Pakistan on the 8th April, 1950, a Commission of Enquiry was set up by the Government of West Bengal to enquire into and report on the causes and extent of the recent disturbances in West Bengal and to make recommendations with a view to preventing recrudescence of similar trouble in future.

2. It was necessary for the Commission to have certain legal powers and these were conferred upon it by the West Bengal Disturbances Commission of Enquiry Ordinance, 1950 (West Bengal Ordinance No. VII of 1950) promulgated on the 3rd June, 1950.

3. The Commission has not yet concluded its deliberations. It is desirable that the legal powers vested in the Commission should continue till it ceases to operate. WHEREAS for the purpose of the extension of factory and workers' quarters the Company has applied to the Government of West Bengal for the acquisition under the provisions of the Land Acquisition Act, 1894, of the piece or parcel of land containing 14·44 acres or thereabout situate in the village of Panihati in the district of 24-Parganas and more particularly described in the schedule hereto and delineated in the plan* hereunto annexed.

Subject:—Introduction of "Government of India Insurance" stamps in place of the "Government of India Insurance Agent Licence Fee" stamps.

No. TM/187.—9th September 1950.—In continuation of this office circular letter No. TM11/174, dated 17th December 1946, a copy of letter No. 45-I.I(1)/50, dated 17th August 1950, from the Controller of Insurance, Government of India, is circulated herewith for the information and guidance of all Treasury Officers in West Bengal including the Treasury Officer, Calcutta Collectorate.

[Dy. TM-1202, dated 21st August 1950, Ble. TM/23 of 1939-40—Vol-II.]

Copy of letter No. 45-I.I(1)/50, dated 17th August 1950, from the Controller of Insurance, Government of India.

I have to refer to the Insurance (Amendment) Act, 1950, and to the final amendments to the Insurance Rules, 1939, which will be published in the Gazette of India shortly, and to say that it is proposed to print new stamps to be designated as "Government of India Insurance" stamps of the denominations of Re. 1 and Rs. 2, 5, 10 and 25 for payment of fees in respect of the various purposes mentioned in the Insurance Rules, 1939, as amended. As the stocks of the existing "Government of India Insurance Agent Licence Fee" stamps may be lying unused with the various insurers, their branch offices, etc., the Treasuries and the Controller of Stamps and as the existing "Government of India Insurance Agent Licence Fee" stamps can make up Rs. 5 (two stamps of Rs. 1-8 each and 2 stamps of Re. 1 each), which is the fee required for obtaining or renewing a licence to act as an insurance agent for three years, under section 42 of the Insurance Act, 1938, as amended by the Insurance (Amendment) Act, 1950, it has been decided that there will be no objection to using the existing "Government of India Insurance Agent Licence Fee" stamps even after the 1st September 1950 whether the new stamps of rupees five are or are not available on or after the 1st September 1950.

Subject:—Preservation of sub-vouchers for Rs. 25 and below.

No. TM/188.—11th September 1950.—It has come to the notice of Government that although S.R.236(i) of the Treasury Rules, Bengal, Volume I, prescribes that unless it is distinctly provided otherwise by any rule or order, no sub-voucher may be destroyed until after a lapse of three years, certain drawing and disbursing officers had destroyed all the sub-vouchers below Rs. 25 on the assumption that in terms of certificate No. 1 printed on the form of contingent bill, they had full discretion to determine whether such sub-vouchers may be preserved or destroyed. As under S.R. 245 (2) ibid sub-vouchers for Rs. 25 and below are not required to be sent to the Accountant-General, all the drawing and disbursing officers of the Government of West Bengal under the audit control of this office are hereby directed to preserve such sub-vouchers for a period of three years or until they are audited locally by the staff of this office whichever date is earlier.

It has been reported by the Chief Accounts Officer, Union Excise, Calcutta, that copies of receipted chalans relating to the Union Excise Department together with a list of these chalans are not being received by him in four weekly batches, viz., on the 8th, 15th, 22nd and last day of each month as required by the substituted rules. LABOUR DEPARTMENT

ORDER.

No. 5334Lab.—16th September 1950.—Whereas under the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, order No. 3678Lab., dated the 6th July 1950, the industrial dispute between Messrs. West End Watch Company, 16, Old Court House Street, Calcutta, and their employees represented by West End Watch Company's Employees' Association, 55, Serpentine Lane, Calcutta-12, regarding the matters specified in the schedule to the said order, was referred for adjudication to Sri S. C. Chakravarty, District Judge;

And whereas the said Sri S. C. Chakravarty, District Judge, has submitted to the State Government his award on the said industrial dispute;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE.

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. West End Watch Company, 16, Old Court House Street, Calcutta, and their employees represented by the West End Watch Company's Employees' Association, 55, Serpentine Lane, Calcutta-12.

PRESENT: SRI SAILES CHANDRA CHAKRAVARTY,
Chairman of the Tribunal.

For the Company: Sri D. N. Basu, Advocate, instructed by Mr. F. E. Kummer, Manager of the Company.

For the Union: Sri P. K. Sanyal, Advocate.

Acting under sections 7 and 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, Government of West Bengal, Department of Labour, by their order No. 3678Lab., dated the 6th July 1950, referred to me for adjudication the industrial dispute between Messrs. West End Watch Company, 16, Old Court House Street, Calcutta, and their employees represented by West End Watch Company, Employees' Association, 55, Serpentine Lane, Calcutta, regarding the proposed retrenchment of fifteen employees of the Company.

AWARD.

In this case the Company wanted to retrench the fifteen men listed in the annexure on the ground of paucity of work. There was this proposal pending for a long time, but at the solicitation of the workmen this was not put into operation. In the meantime a dispute about the employees' wages and other conditions was referred for adjudication to Sri S. N. Modak and he made an award which came into operation on 11th of May 1950. By this award the employees agreed to accept the terms and conditions of service of the employees at their Head Office at Bombay. Soon after this the Company wanted to carry out the proposal of retrenchment which had so long been kept in abeyance and gave notice terminating the services of the fifteen men with effect from the end of June 1950. The notice was given on 24th of May 1950. This notice gave rise to a further dispute which was referred to the Labour Commissioner and the latter, in course of conciliation, pointed out to the employers that the termination of services of these people on the last day of June was a contravention of the Industrial Disputes Act which laid down that there should be no retrenchment within two months of the publication of the award. The Company felt overpowered by this opinion and suffered the workmen to remain there till the middle of July. During the fifteen days of July the men had been there and the Company gave them some work which they executed. It may be that the quantity of work given to them was not up to what they should or could have done. On 6th of July 1950, this reference was made to me to consider the retrenchment of these fifteen men. The Company actually ceased to give them work or, in effect, terminated their services with effect from 15th of July.

On behalf of the employees Sri Sanyal made a submission that he would give up all claims against the Company if the latter would pay the salary and dearness allowance for a month and two months' wages in lieu of gratuity, or employers' contribution to the Provident Fund.

On behalf of the Company it has been urged that the Bombay rules which by agreement have been made applicable here under the award do not provide for payment of employers' share of contribution unless there be at least ten years of service. I have gone through the rules which in my opinion do not cover cases of retrenchment. The rules speak of "retirement" which means termination at the desire of the employee or under rules of service. These do not cover cases of retrenchment where the employee is not at fault and he does not like to terminate his employment.

Let me, however, take a very practical view of the matter and consider if the Company would be liable for this amount or a larger amount if the matter be allowed to drift in a legalistic way.

The Company gave notice terminating the services with effect from the end of June. The Company felt overpowered by the legal opinion of the Labour Officer and waived the notice and allowed the employees to work till 15th of July. No fresh notice terminating their services was given. The employees can claim pay and dearness allowance for a month in lieu of notice.

I shall, however, proceed on a different ground. This reference was made to me on 6th July 1950. Act XLVIII of 1950 (Industrial Disputes Appellate Tribunal Act, 1950) came into operation from 20th May 1950. By this Act the old section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act of 1947 has been replaced by a new section which requires that there should be no change in condition of service or no employee shall be discharged or dismissed except with the permission of the Tribunal in writing. By section 33A, it has been provided that the Tribunal will adjudicate on the matter when an application is made. No application under section 33A has been made but there is no time limit for such an application which is inevitable. Violation of present section 33 of the Act is in the nature of contempt and the Tribunal cannot and should not skip over the matter. The inevitable order would be one of reinstatement. If I decide in favour of the Company about the necessity of retrenchment the process will be to repair the contempt by reinstatement and then discharge them after giving notice. This will involve giving to the employees sums which they are likely to get to give up the claims. Each of the employees has put in two years of service. In the circumstances I award and validate the retrenchment with effect from 16th July 1950 with this condition that each will get three months' basic salary. This will be inclusive of the claims for gratuity, employers' contribution to the Provident Fund and any salary for the notice period.

This will be in addition to any unpaid wages or dearness allowance accruing before 16th July 1950 and the employees' contribution to the Provident Fund. After these payments are made, the employees shall have no further claim whatsoever against the Company.

This award will not apply to Sri A. K. Dutt who has got better employment elsewhere. So far as he is concerned, he will only get his own contribution to the Provident Fund.

I do not award dearness allowance for one month as claimed because I feel that the retrenchment long overdue had not been carried out to the benefit of the employees.

The salary shall be calculated on the basis of the Bombay scales as provided for in the last award.

S. C. CHAKRAVARTY,
Chairman of the Tribunal.

The 8th September 1950.

By order of the Governor,
D. S. P. MUKHERJEE, Jt. Secy.

For the Company: Sri S. M. Basu, Solicitor, Dr. J. K. Bose of the India Engineering Association, Sri N. Sen, Law Officer.

AWARD.

The present application, dated 5th July 1950, has been filed by the Union under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, as amended by the Industrial Disputes (Appellate Tribunal) Act, 1950, complaining that on 28th June 1950, the Manager of the Engineering Factory No. 1 of the Hindusthan Development Corporation, Ltd., suspended seven workmen, Dibakar Singh, Gouranga Mahanti, Makhan Kar, Magunı Paira, Khushi Shaw, Ananta Shaw and Madhusudan Mohanty, and transferred from the factory office to the head office, one workman Ram Krisna Das Gupta. This action of the Manager is said to have followed a brief altercation between the Manager on the one side and the Vice-President, Organising Secretary and Assistant Secretary of the Union when the latter had approached the Manager to represent a case of the workers. It may be noted that a major tribunal was constituted (with Sri S. N. Modak as Chairman and Sri A. Das Gupta as member) by order No. 1126Lab., dated 8th March 1950, to adjudicate upon the disputes about dearness allowance and leave and holidays in 64 engineering firms, of which the present firm was one, being serial No. 27 in the list appended to the order of reference. The adjudication proceedings are still pending.

2. The written reply of the Company was received by the Tribunal on 26th July 1950. Previous to the reply, the Company filed an application under section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, as amended by the Industrial Disputes (Appellate Tribunal) Act, 1950, praying for permission to dismiss seventeen workmen including the seven mentioned in the petition of complaint of the Union under section 33A who had been suspended. This application was received on 21st July 1950. This will be separately dealt with.

3. The Company denies the allegations of the Union and its reply in brief is that the workmen were guilty of major misdemeanour and the order of suspension was passed only as a security measure. About the transfer of Ram Krisna Das Gupta, the Company states that such transfers which were necessary for office administration were not unprecedented and that the transfer of Ram Krisna was not connected with the incident of 28th June 1950 and was not even taken by Ram Krisna as a punishment.

4. At the hearing, the Union did not press the case of Ram Krisna. We are thus to confine our decision to the suspension of the other seven workmen. It may be noted that the Company did not apply for permission of the Tribunal for suspending the seven workmen who were obviously placed under suspension during pendency of the adjudication proceedings initiated in pursuance of reference No. 1126Lab., dated the 8th March 1950, of the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department. The only points for determination are:—

(1) Has the Company contravened the provisions of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, as amended by the Industrial Disputes (Appellate Tribunal) Act, 1950?

(2) If so, to what relief are the workmen entitled?

5. A preliminary objection has been raised on behalf of the Company that the order of suspension of the seven workmen as a security measure during pendency of adjudication proceedings is not hit by section 33. For deciding this preliminary point, we need not enter into the merits of the case. The amended section 33 runs thus:—

"During the pendency of any conciliation proceedings or proceedings before a Tribunal in respect of any industrial dispute, no employer shall—

(a) alter, to the prejudice of the workmen concerned in such dispute, the conditions of service applicable to them immediately before the commencement of such proceedings; or

(b) discharge or punish, whether by dismissal or otherwise, any workman concerned in such dispute, save with the express permission in writing of the Conciliation Officer, Board or Tribunal, as the case may be."

It may be noted that in sub-section (a) the word "workmen" has been used while in sub-section (b) the word appears in the singular number. Evidently the intention of the Legislature appears to have been to use the word "workmen" in sub-section (a) in the collective sense and the words "any workman" in sub-section (b) in the singular or individual sense. The mere fact that one or more workmen individually have been denied the privileges or benefits available to the workmen in general under the existing terms and conditions of service in an industry, cannot be construed as a change in the conditions of service. It is only when such privileges and benefits are denied to the workmen taken collectively that the inference is that the conditions of service have been changed. This has not happened in the present case. If some workmen are denied the privileges and benefits available under the existing terms and conditions of service, the presumption is that at least those workmen have been denied such privileges and benefits by way of punishment. This presumption is rebuttable and on the facts and circumstances of each case, the Tribunal has to decide whether such denial was connected with any punishment or was for other reasons. Our definite finding therefore is that the suspension of the seven workmen pending enquiry is not hit by sub-section (a) of the amended section 33.

6. Section 33, sub-section (b), may be analysed thus. During the pendency of any conciliation proceedings or proceedings before a Tribunal in respect of any industrial dispute, no employer shall (i) discharge or (ii) punish, whether by dismissal or otherwise, any workman concerned in such dispute, save with the express permission in writing of the Tribunal

Any termination of service of a workman whether by way of retrenchment or otherwise without the express permission of the Tribunal, during the pendency of adjudication proceedings, is hit by clause (i). But suspension is not termination of service and hence not discharge. The present case is not therefore hit by clause (i). We are to enquire whether the suspension of the seven workmen amounted to punishment. The ordinary dictionary meaning of the word "punish" is "to cause (offender) to suffer for offence", "to inflict penalty on (offender)", "to inflict penalty for offence" (Concise Oxford Dictionary, Third Edition). "Punishment" has been defined in the Law Lexicon by P. R. Aiyar (Ed. 1940) as "penalty for the transgression of the law". Thus the word "punish" pre-supposes or signifies some offence committed by the man who is punished. Any action of the employer to the detriment of a workman's interest is not punishment, so long as no offence is found to have been committed by the workman. This action of the employer may be the subject-matter of an investigation as to whether it amounted to any unfair labour practice or not. We are not here concerned with that question. It is sufficient for the purpose of the present enquiry to say that the action of the employer in respect of a workman, however detrimental to the interest of the workman, is not hit by clause (ii), so long as the workman is not held to have committed an offence or in other words so long as the action of the employer is not looked upon by a man of ordinary prudence, as punishment. In the present case, the seven workmen were not found guilty of any offence when they were suspended. They were suspended pending investigation as to whether the workmen had committed any offence. So long as the investigation is not concluded, it cannot be said that the workmen committed an offence. Such orders of suspension are generally made when there is a grave suspicion against a workman that he has committed an offence coming under the category of "major misdemeanour". Such action is taken as a security measure or a precautionary measure in the interest of the industry or in the interest of the employees in general. A policy of such measures has generally been adopted in all Government and semi-Government departments and in industrial concerns.

"Suspension" is a substantive punishment under certain circumstances In any case, when it is a substantive punishment, it follows some offence found to have been committed by the workman who is placed under suspension. It has been suggested that if the wages are held up during the period of suspension the suspension amounts to punishment. We do not subscribe to this view, for even if the wages are held up, the essential elements of punishment are absent in an order of suspension pending enquiry as to whether a workman has committed an offence In a case of suspension as a substantive punishment, the wages are permanently withheld. But it is not so in a case of suspension as a security measure. In a case of the latter type, the wages are held up, but they would be paid if the workman is found innocent. Payment may be refused if he is found guilty. So long as a definite decision is not taken about the act of the employee, the order of suspension pending enquiry cannot be called punishment. In the present case, the employer's contention is that no decision has yet been taken about the wages of the seven workmen during the period of suspension. In fact, we could understand during the hearing that the employers offered wages up to the end of June 1950, although the order of suspension was to take effect immediately after the incident. We are therefore definitely of opinion that the order of suspension of the seven workmen in the present case did not amount to punishment and is not hit by clause (ii) of sub-section (b) of the amended section 33. This was only a security measure or precautionary measure taken in the interest of the industry itself or its employees in general. Experience tells us that such measures are sometimes called for immediately after an incident and any delay, however small, may defeat the purpose for which such measures are intended. To get the written permission of the Conciliation Officer, Board or Tribunal, means some delay. No Conciliation Officer, Board or Tribunal, is likely to issue any order without notice to and without hearing all concerned. Such delay is likely to frustrate the object of the security measure. Having considered the law in the light of all the circumstances discussed above, we are definitely of opinion that the order of suspension of the seven workmen as a security measure is not hit either by sub-section (a) or by sub-section (b) of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947, as amended by the Industrial Disputes (Appellate Tribunal) Act, 1950, and no previous permission in writing of the Tribunal is necessary for the adoption of such security measures by way of suspension. We find under the particular circumstances of the case that the provisions of section 33 have not been contravened, and the present complaint under section 33A is untenable.

In the result we hold that none of the workmen mentioned in the petition of complaint purporting to be under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act is entitled to any relief under the particular circumstances of the case. We give our award accordingly.

ANNEXURE.

In the matter of a complaint under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act made by two employees named Nalini Chakrabarty and Brojobilash Das against the Bengal Electric Lamp Works, Ltd.

SRI A. DAS GUPTA, District Judge, Member.

For the employees: Sri D. L. Sen Gupta, Advocate.

For the Company: Sri A. Roy Mukherjee, Counsel, Sri B. K. Choudhury, Counsel, and Sri B. K. Mitter, Solicitor.

AWARD.

This matter has arisen out of a petition of complaint made by two employees named Nalini Chakrabarty and Brojobilash Das against the Bengal Electric Lamp Works, Ltd., 190-C, Rash Behari Avenue, Calcutta (Serial No. 9) which is one of the 64 engineering firms concerned in the industrial disputes between such firms and their workmen which have been referred to us for adjudication by Government of West Bengal order No. 1126Lab., dated the 8th March 1950. The petition of complaint is dated the 26th July 1950. The adjudication proceedings arising out of the reference mentioned above are still pending before us. The case of the two employees is that their services were dispensed with from 7th July 1950 by way of retrenchment and in so far as the adjudication proceedings were still pending at the time, the Company contravened the provisions of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act, no permission in writing of the Tribunal having been sought or granted. The case of the Company is in brief as follows: The Company anticipated wider industrialisation of the country in the light of different reports and recommendations made by authoritative bodies and went on increasing the production. The Company imported and installed new machinery and the equipment reached a capacity of producing about 60 lacs of electric bulbs per year. The Company went on increasing its labour force progressively with the increase in production. It was, however, realised in the early months of the current year that the policy of increasing production could not be maintained in view of the large stock of products which had been accumulating. It is stated that about the months of May and June 1950 the accumulated stock became more than 20 lacs as against a much smaller quantity in previous years. It is explained that this state of things was due to increased production by the indigenous electric lamp manufacturing concerns, increased imports of electric lamps from abroad and loss of markets owing to the partition of India and its consequences. The Company has explained that under these circumstances when the stock of manufactured products was showing an enormous increase, and there was no outlet for the accumulated stock being sold in the near future the production policy had to be changed in the interest of the trade and consequently the labour force which was being progressively increased along with the increase in production had to be curtailed. In pursuance of this policy of curtailing the labour force in conformity with the decrease in production, 41 workers had to be retrenched on or about the 7th July 1950 and the two complainants happened to belong to the group of 41. The Company has submitted that the retrenchment was legitimate and the act of discharge was justified. It is not however denied by the Company that the discharge took place during the pendency of the adjudication proceedings and no permission in writing of the Tribunal was sought or granted.

2. We have heard this case (Case No. 3 of 1950 under section 33A) along with Case No. 4 of 1950 under section 33A which has arisen out of a similar complaint made by one Niranjan Chakraborty. We have recorded the evidence of all the three persons. In the evidence which we have recorded these employees tried to make out a case of victimisation. They stated in their evidence that they held meetings with the intention of forming a union though no union was actually formed and the authorities of the Company having somehow come to know of the activities of these persons decided to discharge them owing to their trade union activities. We do not think there is much substance in the version of so-called trade union activities, and we are satisfied that this is not a case of victimisation, and the Company did not commit itself to any unfair labour practice, so far as this aspect is concerned. The only question before us is whether the retrenchment of 41 persons including the three persons concerned in the two cases before us was justified. Our attention has been drawn on behalf of the Company to an extract from the report of the Electrical Machinery and Equipment Panel on the development of Electrical Industries, Government of India, Department of Industries and Supplies, and to certain recommendations made by the Development Committee for electrical cables, wires, lamps, storage batteries, etc., and also to the minutes of the first meeting of the D. G. I. & S. Development Committee for light electrical industries held on the 30th June 1949, and various statistical figures have been placed before us. We are satisfied that the Company had reasons to feel optimistic about the possibilities of the electrical lamp industry in the light of the very hopeful picture drawn in different authoritative reports and recommendations, and the Company naturally decided to increase the production to a much higher level and to that end imported new machinery with the idea of raising the production figures to about 60 lacs of electric bulbs per year. The hopes entertained in the initial stages however were not fulfilled presumably owing to much increased production by the indigenous concerns and also increased imports from other countries, and the eventual contraction of the markets brought about by causes political and economic. Under these circumstances the Company had no alternative but to reduce its labour force in accordance with the policy of reducing the level of production in the light of the large accumulation of stocks unsold. The Company has now decided not to produce more than 36 lacs in a year as against 42½ lacs actually produced during the year from April 1949 to March 1950. From the figures made available to us it appears that the average number of workers employed in the work of production of electric bulbs during the 12 months from April 1949 to March 1950 was 403, and the number of workers employed in March 1950 was 410. In the written statement the Company has made a reference to the employment of an average number of 524 workers between the years 1949-50. It has been explained during the hearing that this number 524 actually refers to the number of workers employed not only in the electric lamp manufacturing section but also in other sections concerning machine tools, fans, etc. We see no reasons for rejecting the chart of labour strength sumbitted to us by the Company showing the strength of the labour force employed in the electrical lamp manufacturing section, and we are satisfied about the correctness of the statement that the labour strength with which we are concerned was 410 in March 1950. If the level of production has to be reduced from 42½ lacs to 36 lacs, the proportionate reduction of the labour strength from the average of 403 during 1949-50 or from the figure 410 in March 1950 would be appreciably more than 41, which is the figure of retrenchment with which we are concerned. This being the position we are satisfied that the retrenchment was justified.

3. The Company however took the wrong step of effecting the retrenchment early in July 1950 during the pendency of the adjudication proceedings before this Tribunal, without seeking or securing the permission in writing of the Tribunal. We hold that the Company thus contravened the provisions of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act, and the action taken by it was illegal. At the outset of the hearing the learned advocate for the employees concerned contended that this Tribunal should set aside the order of discharge and direct reinstatement with compensation without going into the facts and circumstances, because the Company's action was obviously illegal. We do not agree that such an order should be passed under section 33A of the Industrial Disputes Act simply because the Company's action is held to be illegal, and we are of opinion that the provisions of section 33A contemplate that a full enquiry into the facts and circumstances leading to the discharge should be made by the Tribunal and the subject-matter of the complaint should be duly adjudicated upon as if it were a dispute referred to the Tribunal and the Tribunal should in due course submit its award to the appropriate Government. We have therefore held the enquiry into all the facts and circumstances relating to the justification or otherwise of the action taken by the Company apart from the question of its illegality.

4. The next question is what relief the two complainants Nalini Chakrabarty and Brojobilash Das are entitled to. They have asked for reinstatement and compensation. Although the action taken by the Company was illegal, we have found the act of discharge to have been justified from other points of view, and we are not disposed to direct reinstatement in this case. The only question is what amount of compensation will be allowed. Each of the two complainants has served the Company for less than one year, and they appear to have been appointed at a time when production was reaching its peak level. Their services were found to be no longer necessary and they were discharged, they being surplus to the actual requirements. We cannot, however, refrain from taking serious notice of the fact that the Company committed itself to an illegal act by contravening the provisions of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act. Under these circumstances we hold that some compensation must be paid to the employees concerned, and such compensation should be assessed at a scale higher than what it might otherwise have been. It appears that the total emolument earned by each of the employees was Rs. 44-8 per month. We direct that each of the complainants Nalini Chakrabarty and Brojobilash Das shall be paid compensation to the extent of Rs. 89, and they shall also be paid the amount, if any, to their credit in the Provident Fund, covered by their own contributions and also those made by the Company. It is further directed that the amount thus calculated be paid to each of the complainants within two weeks from the date on which the award becomes enforceable.

For the employees: Sri D. L. Sen Gupta, Advocate.

For the Company: Sri A. Roy Mukherjee, Counsel, Sri B. K. Choudhury, Counsel, and Sri B. K. Mitter, Solicitor.

AWARD.

This matter has arisen out of a petition of complaint, dated the 11th August 1950, made by an employee named Niranjan Chakrabarty against the Bengal Electric Lamp Works, Ltd., 190C, Rash Behari Avenue, Calcutta (serial No. 9) which is one of the 64 engineering firms concerned in the industrial disputes between such firms and their workmen which have been referred to us for adjudication by Government of West Bengal order No. 1126Lab., dated the 8th March 1950. The adjudication proceedings arising out of the reference mentioned above are still pending before us. The case of the employee is that his services were dispensed with from 7th July 1950 by way of retrenchment and in so far as the adjudication proceedings were still pending at the time, the Company contravened the provisions of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act, no permission in writing of the Tribunal having been sought or granted. It is not necessary for us to go into the details of this case, as we have heard this case which is Case No. 4 of 1950 under section 33A along with another case, viz., Case No. 3 of 1950 under section 33A relating to two other employees named Nalini Chakrabarty and Brojobilash Das against the same Company. Both the cases have arisen under practically the same circumstances, and evidence on behalf of the employees in the two cases was adduced in the same hearing, the substance of the evidence being more or less the same. The Company's case was exactly the same in the two cases. For the reasons discussed by us in our award in connection with Case No. 3 of 1950 under section 33A started on the complaint of Nalini Chakrabarty and Brojobilash Das, we come to the conclusion that the discharge in respect of Niranjan Chakrabarty was justified, but the Company committed itself to an illegality by contravening the provisions of section 33 of the Industrial Disputes Act in so far as it did not seek or secure the permission in writing of the Tribunal during the pendency of the adjudication proceedings. We have decided to give our directions in the present case on the same lines as in the other case. It appears that the total emolument earned by Niranjan Chakrabarty was Rs. 44-8 per month and he served the Company for less than one year. We direct that Niranjan Chakrabarty shall be paid compensation to the extent of Rs. 89 and he shall also be paid the amount, if any, to his credit in the Provident Fund covered by his own contribution and also that made by the Company. It is further directed that the amount thus calculated be paid to the complainant Niranjan Chakrabarty within two weeks from the date on which the award becomes enforceable.

By Government of West Bengal, Department of Labour, order No. 2805-Lab., dated the 29th May 1950, this industrial dispute between Messrs. Rampooria Cotton Mills, Ltd., Serampore, Hooghly (Managing Agents, Messrs. Hazareemull Heeralall, 148, Cotton Street, Calcutta), and their workmen represented by Rampooria Cotton Mills Workers' Union, 230, Grand Trunk Road, post office Rishra, Hooghly, regarding the matters specified in the schedule appended to the order, viz., the questions of reinstatement and compensation arising out of the discharge of four workmen, viz., Sarat Kumar Shaw, Khagendra Nath Dutta, Nathoni Prosad and Panchu Gopal Chatterjee, has been referred to me as an industrial tribunal for adjudication. The issues as set forth in the schedule appended to the order of reference are as follows:—

(1) Were Khagendra Nath Dutta of the Weaving Department and Nathoni Prosad of the Spinning Department forced to sign a voluntary discharge certificate? If so, are they entitled to reinstatement and/or any other compensation?

(2) Was Panchu Gopal Chatterjee of the Finishing Department wrongfully dismissed? If so, is he entitled to reinstatement and/or any other compensation?

(3) Was Sarat Kumar Shaw, Overhauling Fitter, wrongfully dismissed for his trade union activities? If so, is he entitled to reinstatement and/or any other compensation?

2. As the hearing began it was submitted on behalf of the Union that Khagendra Nath Dutta, Nathoni Prosad and Panchu Gopal Chatterjee had been taken back in service by the Company since after the commencement of the present adjudication proceedings, and it was conceded on behalf of the Union that Khagendra Nath Dutta and Nathoni Prosad were still in service of the Company, and the Union did not wish to press their case. As regards Panchu Gopal Chatterjee it was represented on behalf of the Company that he also still continued to be in the service of the Company, and thereupon the learned advocate for the Union informed the Tribunal that he did not wish, under the circumstances, to press the case of Panchu Gopal also. This being the position, the Tribunal proceeded on the basis that there was no subsisting industrial dispute in respect of Khagendra Nath Dutta, Nathoni Prosad and Panchu Gopal Chatterjee, and it was necessary only to hear the case regarding Sarat Kumar Shaw. The case regarding Sarat Kumar Shaw as put forward by the Union is that the Management directed his discharge on 15th April 1950 with an ulterior motive alleging that he was fomenting communal trouble, but in reality intending to get rid of Sarat Kumar Shaw who was Secretary of the Union and thus to damage the cause of the Union itself. The Company on the other hand put forward certain items of irregular or undesirable conduct of Sarat Kumar Shaw on previous occasions and asserted that before the date of his discharge Sarat Kumar was found spreading communal feeling among the workers and trying to excite one section of the workers against another. After hearing the case in part on 5th September 1950 the Tribunal adjourned the hearing to 8th September 1950 for taking the evidence of witnesses whom the parties might wish to examine. On 7th September 1950 a joint petition of settlement signed by both parties was submitted before the Tribunal. The petition of settlement is reproduced below:—

"Before Sri S. N. Modak, I.C.S. (Retd.), Tribunal, appointed under the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947.

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. Rampooria Cotton Mills, Ltd., and their workmen represented by Rampooria Cotton Mills Workers' Union.

The humble petition of the abovenamed parties

MOST RESPECTFULLY SHEWETH :—

1. That it appears that the movement of the workman Sri Sarat Kumar Shaw, Secretary of the abovenamed Union, gave rise to some misunderstanding in the minds of the Management.

2. That the said Sri Sarat Kumar Shaw has expressed his regret for causing the aforesaid misunderstanding in the minds of the Management.

3. That the Management has now accepted the position and being satisfied as to the innocence of the said Sri Sarat Kumar Shaw has settled the dispute between the parties on the following terms, viz. :—

(a) that Sri Sarat Kumar Shaw is reinstated from the date of his discharge, i.e., to say from the 15th of April 1950 to his former post and service;

(b) that the wages with dearness allowance due to the said Sri Sarat Kumar Shaw from the said 15th of April 1950 up to the date of his rejoining as mentioned below shall be paid by the abovenamed Company within seven days from the date hereof by way of compensation;

(c) that the said Sri Sarat Kumar Shaw shall attend to his duties on and from the 11th day of September 1950.

Your petitioners humbly pray that the Tribunal may be pleased to pass an award in terms of the abovenamed settlement.

And your petitioners as in duty bound shall ever pray.

7-9-1950.

(Sd.) Sarat Kumar Shaw, Secretary,
by P. K. Sanyal, Advocate for the workman.

Rampooria Cotton Mills, Ltd., by (Sd.) Babubhai, Manager,
(Sd.) Dutta Sen, Attorney for the mills."

3. As regards Khagendra Nath Dutta, Nathoni Prosad and Panchu Gopal Chatterjee, I find that there is no subsisting industrial dispute, and I make my award accordingly. As regards Sarat Kumar Shaw I find that the terms of settlement as incorporated in the joint petition submitted on 7th September 1950 are fair and proper and I make my award by directing that the terms of settlement in respect of Sarat Kumar Shaw be given effect to by both parties.

S. N. MODAK,
Chairman, Industrial Tribunal.

The 8th September 1950.

By order of the Governor,
D. S. P. MUKHERJEE, Jt. Secy.

ANNEXURE.

In the matter of Industrial Dispute between Messrs. Pioneer Match Factory, 16, Dum Dum Road, Dum Dum, 24-Parganas, Head Office: 11, Sovaram Basack Street, Calcutta, and their workmen represented by Pioneer Match Factory Employees' Union, 17/1, Shyamnagar Road, post office Dum Dum, 24-Parganas.

PRESENT: SRI SAILES CHANDRA CHAKRAVARTY, Chairman of the Tribunal.

For the Company: Sri S. K. Basu, Counsel, instructed by Messrs. P. D. Himatsingka & Co., Attorneys-at-Law, Sri M. L. Benani, Proprietor, and Sri L. N. Nathani, Manager.

For the Union: Sri Sib Nath Banerjee, M.L.A., and Sri Narayan Das Gupta.

Acting under sections 7 and 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act, Government of West Bengal, Department of Labour, by their order No. 2370Lab., dated the 11th May 1950, referred to me for adjudication the industrial dispute between Messrs. Pioneer Match Factory, 16, Dum Dum Road, Dum Dum, 24-Parganas, Head Office: 11, Sovaram Basack Street, Calcutta, and their workmen represented by Pioneer Match Factory Employees' Union, 17/1, Shyamnagar Road, post office Dum Dum, 24-Parganas.

The demands of the Union are set out in Appendix A to this award.

The points for adjudication are:—

(1) Reinstatement of Suresh Chandra Ghosh.
(2) Wages for the lock-out period.
(3) Cancellation of order of transfer of Sri Haran Chandra Sen and Sri Profulla Kumar Singha.
(4) Basic pay and rates of increment.
(5) Dearness allowance.
(6) Leave.
(7) Provident Fund.
(8) Procedure of discharge and recruitment.

AWARD.

Point 1.—Reinstatement of Suresh Chandra Ghosh.

The matter has been settled out of Court and the dispute has been withdrawn.

Point 2.—Wages for the lock-out period.

On 30th January 1950, after working hours, a notice of dismissal was served on Suresh Chandra Ghosh. The Union protested against this and threatened the employers with a pen-down strike for 31st January 1950. As there was a pen-down strike or tool-down strike, the Company declared a lock-out with effect from 1st February 1950. The lock-out was lifted on 7th February 1950. The Company refused to pay wages for this lock-out period. Now the question is whether the demand of the Union for the wages for the lock-out period is justified. The lock-out is the sequence of the tool-down strike and it is necessary to consider, firstly, whether a tool-down strike is justified and, secondly, whether, in the situation, this was the only course left to the employees.

Now about the first part. "Strike" in its general sense, implies a dispute between the employer and the employee in the course of which there is a concerted suspension of employment.

There are three essential characteristics in a strike—

(1) The existence of relationship of the employer and the employee.

(2) The existence of a dispute and utilization by labour of the weapon of concerted refusal to continue to work as the method of persuading or coercing compliance with the workmen's demand.

(3) The current legal view is that during the continuance of the strike, the relationship of the employer and the employee does not altogether cease but remains in what may be described "in a state of suspended animation" or, as some authors have put it, "in a state of belligerent suspension".

It follows from the third clause listed above that during the continuance of the strike the working man has no right to stay in the factory premises. The permit to entry and to stay is for an employee to work. When the intent is absent and the relationship of the employer and the employee remains in a state of suspended animation, the working man has no right to stay there. The sit-down strike has been held in American Courts to be illegal invasion on owner's plants and properties. This conclusion was arrived at by the Courts in U. S. A. as following from the concepts of strike itself, and not from any rule or statutory prohibition.

The invasion being illegal, the parties committing this bring them under the penal laws of the country according to the degree of tumult occasioned.

The admonitions against stay-in strike in Lipton's case given by Sri M. C. Banerjee (Extraordinary Calcutta Gazette, dated the 12th May 1949) have been appropriate and pertinent.

Now about the second part, viz., whether the strike was inevitable. After the passing of the Industrial Disputes Act and the establishment of elaborate machinery for settlement of labour disputes, it cannot be said that any strike was justifiable.

So the tool-down strike must be condemned on both the points. After this, if a tool-down strike is staged and there is a refusal on the part of the employees to work, the employers cannot but close down the shop and say it would be reopened only when the workmen would be agreeable to work. When there was that assurance the factory was reopened. In my opinion, the employees are not entitled to pay for the lock-out period.

Point 3.—Cancellation of order of transfer of Sri Haran Chandra Sen and Sri Profulla Kumar Singha.

There has been a retransfer and the point has not been pressed for adjudication.

Points 4 and 5.—Basic pay and rate of increment and dearness allowance.

The adjudication on wages in small match factories present considerable difficulties. At first the logs of wood are sawed in pieces which are then peeled in a machine to sheets of different thickness. These sheets are then examined and arranged. These are then sent to different machines where sticks are made and sheets are cut to pieces for the boxes. These sheets are turned into match boxes in different automatic machines. The sticks made are rolled. They are arranged in a machine and then fixed in boards which are then dipped first in paraffin and then in chemicals. After these become dry they are removed from the boards and arranged. These are then counted and put into boxes. The boxes have to be examined before to see if they are in order.

More hands are required but less toil and skill. Much of this handling is eliminated in big factories where more automatic machines are in use.

On account of absence of toil and skill in many stages, females, adolescent men and boys are engaged. The employment of such persons is not only justified but is a necessity.

The firm is not making profits for some years. The accounts can be accepted as correct because the production is being daily checked by the Central Excise authorities and actually the stocks are kept in their custody.

In 1941 and earlier more men were employed and the workers were mostly on piece rate. The concern made some profit.

In later times many of the workers who had been piece-rater before, became time-raters. The present position is that there has been a great fall in per capita production. The peeling department holds the key position. I had been to the factory and complaints were made that the other departments were not fed properly. Looking to the fact that the peeling department holds the key position and also noting the fact that there has been a drastic reduction in production in that department, the conclusion is inevitable that unless this key position be revived, it will not be possible to make any improvement in wages.

This basic difficulty has been appreciated by the Union and I have been much impressed by the spirit of accommodation and eagerness displayed by the representatives of the Union to come to an arrangement by which production can be improved. The Union representatives have agreed that all piece-raters, who since 1941 became time-raters, should revert back to the old position.

I am projecting a scheme and this should be given a trial for one year. After lapse of one year the production and wages should be examined in the light of the finances and, if necessary, the matter should again come to a tribunal for readjustment.

In Appendix B I set out the jobs which from the time of the enforcement of this award shall be piece-rating jobs. In column 1 the name of the job has been specified and in column 2 the rates.

I think I should describe here the process by which the rates have been arrived at.

The rates of wages and piece rates were a little higher in 1941 than in 1939. So far as piece rates were concerned, we decided to give at least 100 per cent. increase over the 1941 rates, provided that the rates shall be at least a little higher than the present rates. The real difficulty arose with those piece-raters who since 1941 had become time-raters. They could not be induced to become piece-raters unless they found in the scheme that their emoluments did not fall. They in fairness can demand this. The production in 1941 was very high and the Union claimed that calculation on these figures would be unfair. We therefore took up the production figures of the first part of 1939. We found out the average per man production in a given unit of time. Then we calculated what would be the emoluments for that unit of time at the present pay after giving some increase. The rate has been found by dividing the money with the production in given time. Thus if the workers can maintain the average production of 1939, they will earn more than what they are earning now. If the production can be increased, earnings will also increase. The process of finding out the piece rates had been a very laborious process and at times tiring but all the persons were enthused with the idea of doing a service to the industry and to the workmen.

Then a question of prestige and vanity arose in respect of the monthly raters who are being converted to piece-raters and this has been resolved by the parties in this way. The names of monthly rated workers who are converted to piece-raters shall continue to remain on the rolls of the monthly rated men but their emoluments shall be calculated and paid on basis of piece rates fixed under this award. I agree to this.

There should be no distinction between piece-raters and time-raters if the question of payment of bonus arises. The question of bonus is not an issue before me.

Then arises the cases of daily mazdoors. The daily emoluments for the adult shall be Rs. 1-12 and for an adolescent Rs. 1-4.

I have fixed total emoluments and as roughly 100 per cent. rise over 1941 scale has been granted, I award that 50 per cent. of the total emoluments shall be dearness allowance for each worker.

There are two mistries, one getting Rs. 130 and the other getting Rs. 98. The minimum for the Watch and Ward staff is Rs. 50 which is above the lowest for mazdoors. The minimum for a lorry driver is Rs. 120. In my opinion, the total emoluments do not call for any interference. In cases where the total emoluments do not exceed Rs. 100, Rs. 25 shall be treated as dearness allowance and in other cases Rs. 30. The balance shall be treated as basic pay.

Now I come to the cases of some persons who are engaged in quasi-supervising jobs. They are:—

(1) Sri Kshitish Chandra Gupta—Rs. 95.

(2) Sri Prafulla Kumar Singh—Rs. 94.

(3) Sri Amarendra Nath Sen—Rs. 57.

(4) Sri Haren Chandra Sen—Rs. 55.

(5) Sri Anil Kumar Bose—Rs. 60.

They are all non-Matriculates and except Anil Bose each has quite a long period of service. For this class I fix dearness allowance at Rs. 25 and the minimum pay Rs. 40. Kshitish Gupta and Prafulla Singh be each given an increment of Rs. 2.

Now about the two office clerks—

Sri Apurba Lal Chakravarti—Rs. 80.

Sri Samir Bose—Rs. 60.

They are both Matriculates. In their cases also the dearness allowance shall be Rs. 25 and the minimum pay shall be Rs. 45. Apurba Chakravarti shall get an increment of Rs. 5.

Since piece rate system has been introduced, there should be some safeguards about their earnings in some eventualities.

Earnings may fall short on account of any of the three conditions: (i) Failure of the machinery, (ii) Non-supply of materials and (iii) Failure of the workers to execute work up to the basis.

(i) Failure of the machinery.—This is a calamity common to the workers and to the Management. It is just and proper that the loss should be shared by both. I award that in case of breakdown or failure of machinery the workers shall get half of the total average emoluments for the day.

(ii) Non-supply of materials.—Here the Management can arrange for regular supply. A surplus supply may be stored for future. It is not expected that more men than can be fed should be kept in service. In case of short supply the minimum guaranteed amount shall be two-thirds of the total average emoluments for each day. If on account of chronic short supply there be a surplus of men, retrenchment must be effected. If, however, to avoid retrenchment all the workers concerned agree to do away with the minimum guaranteed system, it will be permissible for the Management to accept that.

(iii) Failure of the workers to work up to the basis.—I am not prepared to guarantee any premium for indolence.

I have said before that there are some key departments where rise in production will greatly improve the quantity of work available for other workmen. One such is the Stick Peeling Department. It appears that the average in January and February 1941 had been 2½ formas per hour. If there be 10 per cent. increase in per hour production, the excess portion of 10 per cent. shall be paid at a rate 50 per cent. above the normal rate given in the annexure. If there be a further rise of 10 per cent., this further excess of 10 per cent. shall be paid at double the normal rates.

Another is the Frame Filling Department. The maximum production has been 2¼ garris per hour. If there be 10 per cent. increase in hourly production, the excess of 10 per cent. shall be paid at a rate 50 per cent. in excess of the present rate. If there be a further rise of 10 per cent., this excess shall be paid at double the ordinary rate.

The unit of time shall be either a day or week, whichever is more beneficial to the workers.

These are similar to Taylorism in U. S. A. or Stakhanov Movement in Soviet Union.

This increases the cost of production to some extent and is not therefore extended to other departments. I confine it only to those departments where, if production is increased, the other departments will get the benefit.

Point 6.—Leave.

There shall be six ordinary festive holidays and two special festival holidays on 15th August and 26th January. In addition to the statutory leave, there shall be 15 days' sick or casual leave on pay.

Point 7.—Provident Fund.

This is a small concern and both parties have agreed that a system of retiral gratuity be substituted for Provident Fund.

The retiral gratuity shall be at the rate of ½ month's basic wages for every year of continuous service subject to a maximum of 15 months' wages. The retiral age shall be 55. Extension may be granted when agreed to by the employer and the employee concerned.

For the purpose of calculation of gratuity of piece-rated workers, the basic average of the last 12 months shall be taken.

Previous to 1941, this was a partnership firm. There was a suit in High Court and the partnership was dissolved and the present owners got the machines and started the factory as their own concern. The present owners cannot be made liable for gratuity for any period before they became owners. Therefore service from 1941 will only be counted for the purposes of gratuity.

No gratuity shall be paid in case of dismissal for misconduct or when service does not exceed 3 years. When service exceeds 3 years but does not exceed 6 years, 50 per cent. of the gratuity shall be payable. When service exceeds 6 years but does not exceed 9 years, 75 per cent. of the gratuity shall be payable. Full amount of gratuity shall be payable when the service exceeds 9 years. Full amount of gratuity shall be payable when a worker who has served for at least 3 years is retrenched for no fault of his own or dies.

Point 8.—Procedure of discharge and recruitment.

In case of retrenchment the principle of "Last come, first go" shall be applied subject to cases with exceptional abilities. This shall be confined to department by department. No worker shall be dismissed unless he is given an opportunity to explain the charge against him and his representations are considered.

The Union demands that in matters of recruitment preference should be given in the following order: (1) discharged or retrenched employees, (2) relations of the employees, at present working or retired, (3) evacuees or refugees, through Employment Exchange, (4) others.

Only general recommendations are made for suitable retrenched staffs and refugees.

S. C. CHAKRAVARTY,
Chairman of the Tribunal.

The 8th September 1950.

By order of the Governor,
D. S. P. MUKHERJEE, Jt. Secy.

ORDER.

No. 5364Lab.—18th September 1950.—Whereas under the Government of West Bengal, Labour Department, order No. 3262Lab., dated the 16th June 1950, the industrial dispute between Messrs. J. D. Jones & Co., Ltd., 8, Netaji Subhas Road, C/5, Clive Buildings, Calcutta, and their employees in connection with the case of Sri Amarendra Nath Roy, village Mowrigram, Roypara, P. O. Andulmouri, district Howrah, regarding the matter specified in the schedule thereto was referred for adjudication to Sri G. Palit, District Judge;

And whereas the said Sri G. Palit, District Judge, has submitted to the State Government his award on the said industrial dispute;

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the provisions of section 17 of the Industrial Disputes Act, 1947 (XIV of 1947), the Governor is pleased hereby to publish the said award as shown in the annexure hereto.

ANNEXURE.

In the matter of an industrial dispute between Messrs. J. D. Jones & Co., Ltd., 8, Netaji Subhas Road, C/5, Clive Buildings, Calcutta, and their employees in connection with the case of Sri Amarendra Nath Roy, village Mowrigram, Roypara, P. O. Andulmouri, district Howrah.

PRESENT:

SRI G. PALIT, District Judge, Industrial Tribunal.

Present for the employee: Sri Prodyot Banerji, Advocate.

Present for the Company: Sri Charu Chandra Bosu, Solicitor.

By an order No. 3262Lab., dated the 16th June 1950, the Government of West Bengal constituted a Tribunal of one Judge under sections 7 and 10 of the Industrial Disputes Act (Act XIV of 1947) and referred the said dispute to me for adjudication.

2. The reference was received on 19th June 1950. The employee filed written statement on 30th June 1950. The Company filed its written objection on 10th July 1950. The case was taken up for hearing on 16th August 1950 and concluded on that day. The issue was contained in the schedule of the aforesaid reference. It stands as follows:—

Whether the dismissal of Sri Amarendra Nath Roy was justified? If not, to what relief he is entitled?

AWARD.

According to the version of the employee, it appears that he was taken into service as far back as 2nd February 1947. The Company changed hands in February 1947 and Sri Ramprosad Bajoria, a Marwari, happened to have purchased the Company's interest. There was some trouble between the Company and its employees which culminated in an order of reference to a Tribunal. The dispute was settled by the award of the said Tribunal published in the Calcutta Gazette, dated the 4th August 1949. The trouble, however, did not end with the award. There was an agitation on the part of the employees for implementation of the terms of the award. The Company at first set its face against the move but later on entered into an agreement with the employees by which the aforesaid award was, to a certain extent, modified. The present employee was summarily discharged on 22nd March 1950. He alleges to have appended the signature by way of final settlement of the claim by receiving 22 days' pay of March under duress. He now claims 5 months' pay as gratuity, one month's salary as bonus due on the 31st March 1950 and one month's pay in lieu of notice.

The Company resists the claim of the employee on the ground that he was summarily dismissed because of misconduct and negligence. As the award is not retrospective, the claim for gratuity is liable to fail.

On going through the evidence I find that the Company is not quite consistent in the matter of charge against this employee. Before the Conciliation Officer, the representative of the Company is said to have stated that this employee Sri Amarendra Nath told others not to sell goods to this Company as they harassed some other parties (vide the report of the Conciliation Officer). In the written statement of the Company, the charge of misconduct and negligence has been made but that again has been left to stand by itself. No specific facts have been given out supporting the said charge. In the evidence before me Sri Debidas, the present Accountant and Office Superintendent, states that Sri Amarendra Nath quarrelled with him several times and often spent time outside. He was thrice warned for this. He further says that one Banoarilal told the Directors that the employee Sri Amarendra Nath gave out to him the prices at which the goods were sold to other customers. If this be the gravamen of the charge, I must say that it is absolutely frivolous. If the customary prices at which certain goods were sold, are told to a prospective buyer, that certainly does not amount to giving out secrets of the Company or its betrayal. This Banoarilal should have been examined before me. Neither has the Director been examined. So I am asked to rely entirely on the evidence of a person who stands uncorroborated and who bears admitted grudge against this employee. In support of the charge of negligence three letters, Exts. A—C, have been placed before me. I got in evidence that Sri Amarendra Nath had often been required to attend the Customs and Income-Tax Department in connection with his duties. So he must needs be absent from the office now and then. Regarding his inefficiency about accounts-keeping I must say that the charge can hardly be sustained. The accounts are audited by competent firms of auditors. The employee asserts that his work was appreciated by the auditors. This is not challenged. This is rather supported by the fact that when he was discharged by the Company, he was provided with, perhaps, a better job in the firm of Messrs. J. Atherton & Co. on the recommendation of the auditor who inspected the accounts of this Company. So taking a total view, I am satisfied that the Company wanted to get rid of this man any how. He was given a bad name just as a dog is given, if it is sought to be hanged. So I find that the discharge of this employee was unjustified.

Now the point is what relief he is entitled to in the circumstances. It is not a case for reinstatement. The employee does not want it. Neither does the issue cover it specifically. I do not for a moment question the inherent right of the employer to discharge its employee. But when the said discharge is wrongful and is arbitrary, the Company cannot be absolved from the liability to pay compensation to the extent called for by the circumstances. In this case the employee should have been given written charge. He evidently got no opportunity to explain matters. He has put in 5 years of service and is a permanent employee on a fairly high salary of Rs. 220 per month. So his claim for one month's salary in lieu of notice is perfectly in order. I uphold the said claim. His acceptance of 22 days' pay does not preclude his present claim. It can never operate as estoppel.

Regarding the claim of bonus of one month's salary, he is entitled to have it under the admitted agreement, marked Ext. 2 which modified the award. In paragraph 3 of the said admitted agreement bonuses are allowed twice a year amounting to one month's basic salary payable during the Pujas and during the closing of accounts, i.e., on the 31st March every year. Here it is contended that the employee was discharged on 22nd March 1950 and therefore he cannot have the bonus payable on the 31st March 1950. I have already found that the employee was discharged wrongfully without notice. He asserts that he was discharged only to deprive him of the bonus. He is certainly entitled to a notice of one month to have his service terminated. So he must be supposed, to all intents and purposes to have been in employ till 22nd April 1950. In this view he is entitled to claim bonus amounting to one month's basic salary. So I uphold his claim of Rs. 220 on the score of bonus.

Regarding the claim of 5 months' salary on the score of gratuity, I find that the claim cannot be sustained. In the award placed before me I find that the Company had no scheme about gratuity. It is the Tribunal which laid down a gratuity scheme. The Tribunal did not make it retrospective. In the absence of an express term giving an award retrospective effect, it can never have such effect. Thus the claim for gratuity must rest on the period of service put in after the award. So the employee in the present case cannot succeed in his claim on the score of gratuity as he has not put in more than 3 years of service since the date of this award. So his claim on this score fails.

Hence the employee is entitled to have Rs. 440, half on the score of one month's pay in lieu of notice and half to the extent of one month's basic salary on the score of bonus and none on the score of gratuity. This amount is made payable within one month of the award coming into operation.

Before parting with this case, I must note that no objection on the score of jurisdiction of this Tribunal has been raised in the written objections of the parties nor mooted during the trial. Neither is it mentioned in the issue contained in the order of reference. So I do not decide on this point.
